Group To Quiz Gen. Vaughan On Thursday

New Revelations In Fight Against Reds Predicted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—UP—Former President Truman may be summoned before Senate investigators to testify on the administration's charge that he promoted a known Soviet spy to a top government job, it was disclosed Saturday.

Robert Morris, chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee which is planning hearings on the case, said there are no present plans to quiz Mr. Truman but "of course, there is a possibility he might be called."

Some Democratic congressmen, including assistant House Leader John W. McCormack, rushed to Mr. Truman's defense in the furor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7— (UP) — Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. said Saturday he will prove on Monday that former President Truman had been told Harry Dexter White was a Communist spy before he promoted White to a top government job in 1946.

He made the statement on his return from Chicago after Senate investigators listed Mr. Truman as a "possible witness" in hearings of a Senate committee next week on Brownell's charge. Mr. Truman is making a trip to New York Sunday.

touched off by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. Brownell charged Friday that Mr. Truman gave the late Harry Dexter White a government promotion—after the FBI had warned that White was a Russian spy.

A high source in the Eisenhower administration predicted new Communism-corruption charges against Mr. Truman's regime comparable to Brownell's blast, which stirred up a violent political storm and a running battle between Mr. Truman and the White House over who is telling the truth.

Mr. Truman made it clear in Kansas City, Mo., that he is ready for whatever the Republicans propose:

"The more lies they tell," he said, "the more trouble they're going to get into."

Mr. Truman stuck by his flat denial of Brownell's charge, made in a Chicago speech, that he knowingly promoted White to a high post on the internatinal monetary

British Seeking To Belittle U. S., Ellender Charges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) —Sen. Ellender (D-La) said today that "the British are spreading propaganda in Africa and elsewhere that the United States is too young and too immature to lead the world."

Ellender said he had encountered this at several points in Africa during an inspection trip to U. S. diplomatic posts in 21 different countries.

"I was surprised to find our own allies undermining us in their African colonies and elsewhere." Ellender told newsmen while discussing the trip he made as a one-man subcommittee for the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"I guess they have themselves in mind for resuming world leadership," he added.

Ellender said his inspection tour, which included parts of Asia, Australia and New Zealand, convinced him thousands of additional dollars could be saved on our foreign programs."

Ellender conferred with President Eisenhower and Harold Stassen, administrator of the foreign aid program, after his return from abroad. More recently he filed a 300-page report with undersecretary of state D. B. Lourie and he said Lourie already had put some suggested cutbacks into effect.

"In several countries I found that they are trying to convert or expand our point four technical assistance program into one of permanent economic aid," he said, adding that Congress will stop that.

He also questioned some expenditures for Voice of America activities and diplomatic reports.

"Nobody is more friendly to the United States than the Australians and New Zelanders," he said. "why should we be spending a quarter of a million dollars there for Voice of America programs when the the money could be spent wisely in areas that are not so friendly?"

Bodies of five seamen were recovered. Port authorities gave up hope for the two missing seamen after searching in vain for them all night.

GOP Lawmakers Eye Prospect Of Second Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Some influential Republican tax writers in Congress are beginning to eye the possibility of a second-round personal income tax cut in the last half of next year.

These Republicans said today they are far from reaching a concrete decision—in fact, as one leader put it, the idea may turn out to be "just wishful thinking."

But they said the possibility has been disscussed sympathetically among several Republicans on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, and among congressional staff experts.

The first individual tax reduction in five years already is set for this Jan. 1, when an average 10 per cent cut in rates takes effect for some 58 million taxpayers.

In the talks so far, Republicans have discussed a further reduction possibly starting next July 1, or Oct. 1, or even the following Jan. 1. The participants declined to be quoted by name at this stage.

They conceded that recent Republican election reverses have spurred interest in a further reduction, to be enacted or to take effect before next November's elections.

Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee said they had not heard of a move for a second-round tax reduction. One member said if Republicans provide heavy tax relief for corporations, however, then Democrats might plump for more relief for individuals. Another Democrat commented, "I'm not going along with any irresponsible tax cuts for political purposes."

Republicans in Congress conceded the Eisenhower administration, facing mounting difficulties in its drive to balance the budget, probably would oppose further income tax cuts unless the budget picture is brighter than it now looks.

Desperate Prisoners Foiled In Getaway

New Family Support Law Eases Taxpayers' Load

By Leon Marx

Operating under a law passed during the 1952 session of the Louisiana legislature, probation officers of the Louisiana Department of Public Welfare are performing a service which is keeping dozens of families off the tax-supported assistance rolls and saving considerable sums of money for the public, it is claimed by Louis Meek, regional probation and parole officer.

The law, R.S. 15:530, defines criminal procedure in cases of criminal neglect of family. Among the points of procedure is one which makes it the responsibility of the probation and parole officer in each district to collect payments ordered by judges from persons convicted of criminal neglect.

With offices in the Ouachita bank building, Meek, aided by two assistants, A. C. Lewis and James D. Milam, supervises collections and payments under the law for Ouachita and eight other parishes that comprise the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 28th judicial districts. Other than Ouachita, the parishes included are Claiborne, Bienville, Jackson, Lincoln, Union, Morehouse, Caldwell and LaSalle.

Meek said that on the average 20 to 25 cases of non-support develop in the nine-parish region each month. These cases involve men arrested on warrants sworn out by their wives or others to whom they owe support under the law. The procedure, when the case comes up in court, Meek said, is for the judge to sentence the accused if he is guilty, then suspend the sentence. The judge then di-

12,000 Students In Rome Battle Police 6 Hours

Italy Protests To U. S. And Britain In Trieste Riots

ROME, Nov. 7—UP—Riot-torn Italy, with more trouble threatened for Monday, formally blamed the United States and Britain Saturday night for bloody demonstrations which erupted in Trieste and flamed from the top to the toe of the Italian peninsula.

Wild sympathy riots for Italians killed in the outbreaks in the disputed Adriatic territory erupted in a dozen major cities of Italy Saturday, and the Italian government protested to both London and Washington against Anglo-American actions in Trieste.

Informed diplomatic sources Saturday night said that Premier Giuseppe Pella is believed ready to modify his stand in the dispute with Yugoslavia over the Trieste territory. The informants said that Pella is prepared to agree to participate in a five-power conference if civil administration of Trieste is first turned over to Rome. No Italian troops would be moved in.

Rome was the hardest hit in Saturday's rioting and for six hours 12,000 students led by Fascist members of the chamber of deputies and Communist agitators battled police from the American and British embassies to the outskirts of Rome.

One student was reported killed and 50 policemen and 120 students badly injured in the rioting which surged once toward the American embassy and broke into heavy fighting near the British embassy when the infuriated mob used rocks and bricks against police clubs, and tear gas bombs.

Italy blamed the British-trained Trieste police force for the two days of bloody outbreaks in Trieste in which seven demonstrators were shot and killed. A formal statement said the Trieste police force manhandled the population.

Walkout Threat Made By Swiss In Korean Row

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, Nov. 8 —UP—Swiss threats to walk out of the neutral nations repatriation commission threatened Sunday to wreck American plans for persuading 22 "pro-communist" GIs to return home.

Armin Daeniker, the Swiss delegate, threatened to withdraw unless the Communists change their tactics of mercilessly questioning anti-Communist prisoners for hours at a time.

Maj. Gen. Jan Stenstrom, the Swedish delegate on the five-nation supervisory body, said he "holds little hope for the explanations to prisoners being resumed."

End of the repatriation commission would block American efforts to talk with 22 reluctant U. S. soldiers since the armistice agreements provide no other means of persuading the reluctant captives.

Both the Swiss and Swedish delegates criticized the Communist explainers for their tactics, and Daeniker said the Communist propagandists violated the Geneva convention and the spirit, if not the letter, of the rules of procedure governing the interviews.

10,000 Homeless As Howling Winds And Heavy Snows Lash East Coast

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—UP—Gale force winds and 40-foot Atlantic ocean waves lashed the snow-blanketed East Coast Saturday, causing floods that forced more than 10,000 persons from their homes and swept buildings out to sea.

At least 32 persons had been killed or were feared dead in storms that struck with surprising fury on the eastern Seaboard and in the Northern Plains states.

As residents of Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas dug out from under a heavy blanket of snow, easterners fought off first snow, then rain and sleet and finally winds up to 80-miles-per-hour. These were coupled with unusual tidal forces that swelled tides to 20 to 30 per cent above normal, flooding hundreds of homes in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

From the New Jersey shore, along the southern edges of Staten Island and Long Island and Connecticut's Long Island Sound communities, the storm raged hour after hour.

Trees were ripped up. Power lines were snapped. Highways and bridges were flooded. Public transportation facilities were knocked out of service.

The winds fanned several fires that broke out along the coast as far south as Baltimore, where 14 row houses were destroyed.

In New York City, subways were flooded. Water stood six inches deep in some Manhattan basements, and high tides threat-

W. T. Brockner Killed In Crash Near Bosco

A Monroe man was killed and his wife injured yesterday evening when the pickup truck in which they were riding collided with a moving van about a mile south of Bosco on the Columbia road.

William Thomas Brockner, 37, of 100 South Sixth street, driver of the pickup truck, died enroute to the hospital. His wife, Mrs. Letha Brockner, was admitted to St. Francis Sanitarium, where she wa found to have suffered a head injury. Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita Parish Coroner, said Brockner had died as a result of a crushed skull and crushed chest.

State police said the investigating officer's report stated that Brockner, who had stopped at the side of the road, pulled onto the highway and into the path of a Clements, of Indianapolis, Ind. Police added, however, that at the time they were contacted they had only received a statement from Clements concerning the accident.

The van driver was uninjured.

At the time of the accident the Brockners were en route to Columbia to visit Mrs. Brockner's mother, who is ill.

The injured were brought to Monroe by Mulhearn ambulance. Arrangements for funeral services, which will be under the direction of Hall Funeral Home, were incomplete late last night.

In addition to his wife Brockner is survived by his mother, Mrs. Clara Belle Brockner, Hebert; one brother, Troy Brockner, Kinder; and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Lewellan, Delhi, and Mrs. Lessie Stamper, West Monroe.

Jes' Ramblin'

Dressed without the ordinarily required collar and necktie of mankind generally, a decidedly aged man has been in attendance for many Sundays in a church attended by many in prominent walks in life.

In true Christian spirit, many of the worshippers paused at the close of the service to shake his hand and drop a kindly word, but still no one seemed to penetrate into the recesses of the man's life. But one Sunday a more inquisitive woman forced back the curtain on his life farther than others had done.

She asked about his place of residence and other pertinent questions, and here is what she got:

"Well, you know, I was sent to Pineville, where I stayed for a time. Then they let me out and do you know they gave me a certificate that states that I am of sound mind! Now I shall always prize that for how many people are there today who can produce such an important statement"'

W. Carroll Man, Calvin Brister, Killed In Crash

OAK GROVE, Nov. 7 (Special)—A Darnell area motorist met death near here shortly afternoon Saturday in a car-gasoline transport collision which sent thousands of gallons of gasoline streaming onto Highway 11, necessitating its closing by state police as a precautionary measure against outbreak of fire.

Calvin Leverne Brister, 27, was killed around 12:40 p.m. Saturday when the car he was driving crashed head-on with a large gasoline transport truck seven miles west of Oak Grove on Highway 11. The truck driver, whose identity was not learned escaped injury.

According to reports by witnesses to the accident, Brister, who was driving west, apparently failed to see the truck when his vision was blocked by another car which made a left turn in front of the truck.

His car crashed head-on into the transport which was travelling east toward Oak Grove. Following the initial impact, witnesses said, the truck drove the Brister vehicle into a parked car, and on into a tree telescoping it.

There was no one in the parked car, and there were no passengers in Brister's vehicle.

Following the accident highway workers and the state troopers rushed to the scene and immediately set up road blocks for fear that the several gallons of gasoline which poured from the truck's ruptured tank would be ignited.

Many residents of the community took part in washing and cleaning operations to remove the fuel from the road and nearby ditches. It was unofficially estimated late last night that the highway would remain blocked until sometime Sunday.

According to reports Brister, home on Pioneer route near Darnell, who had been rooming in Delhi where he was employed by the United Gas company as a pipeline worker, was going to his parents' home, when the accident occurred.

They conceded that recent Republican election reverses have spurred interest in a further reduction, to be enacted or to take effect before next November's elections.

Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee said they had not heard of a move for a second-round tax reduction. One member said if Republicans provide heavy tax relief for corporations, however, then Democrats might plump for more relief for individuals. Another Democrat commented, "I'm not going along with any irresponsible tax cuts for political purposes."

Republicans in Congress conceded the Eisenhower administration, facing mounting difficulties in its drive to balance the budget, probably would oppose further income tax cuts unless the budget picture is brighter than it now looks.

Desperate Prisoners Foiled In Getaway

Italy Protests To U. S. And Britain In Trieste Riots

ROME, Nov. 7—UP—Riot-torn Italy, with more trouble threatened for Monday, formally blamed the United States and Britain Saturday night for bloody demonstrations which erupted in Trieste and flamed from the top to the toe of the Italian peninsula.

Wild sympathy riots for Italians killed in the outbreaks in the disputed Adriatic territory erupted in a dozen major cities of Italy Saturday, and the Italian government protested to both London and Washington against Anglo-American actions in Trieste.

Communist and rightwing labor groups joined in calling for a paralyzing general protest strike Monday in further protest against the Trieste killings.

Informed diplomatic sources Saturday night said that Premier Giuseppe Pella is believed ready to modify his stand in the dispute with Yugoslavia over the Trieste territory. The informants said that Pella is prepared to agree to participate in a five-power conference if civil administration of Trieste is first turned over to Rome. No Italian troops would be moved in.

Rome was the hardest hit in Saturday's rioting and for six hours 12,000 students led by Fascist members of the chamber of deputies and Communist agitators battled police from the American and British embassies to the outskirts of Rome.

One student was reported killed and 50 policemen and 120 students badly injured in the rioting which surged once toward the American embassy and broke into heavy fighting near the British embassy when the infuriated mob used rocks and bricks against police clubs, and tear gas bombs.

Italy blamed the British-trained Trieste police force for the two days of bloody outbreaks in Trieste in which seven demonstrators were shot and killed. A formal statement said the Trieste police force manhandled the population.

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, Nov. 8—UP—Swiss threats to walk out of the neutral nations repatriation commission threatened Sunday to wreck American plans for persuading 22 "pro-communist" GIs to return home.

Armin Daeniker, the Swiss delegate, threatened to withdraw unless the Communists change their tactics of mercilessly questioning anti-Communist prisoners for hours at a time.

Maj. Gen. Jan Stenstrom, the Swedish delegate on the five-nation supervisory body, said he "holds little hope for the explanations to prisoners being resumed."

End of the repatriation commission would block American efforts to talk with 22 reluctant U. S. soldiers since the armistice agreements provide no other means of persuading the reluctant captives.

Both the Swiss and Swedish delegates criticized the Communist explainers for their tactics, and Daeniker said the Communist propagandists violated the Geneva convention and the spirit, if not the letter, of the rules of procedure governing the interviews.

10,000 Homeless As Howling Winds And Heavy Snows Lash East Coast

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—UP—Gale force winds and 40-foot Atlantic ocean waves lashed the snow-blanketed East Coast Saturday, causing floods that forced more than 10,000 persons from their homes and swept buildings out to sea.

At least 32 persons had been killed or were feared dead in storms that struck with surprising fury on the eastern Seaboard and in the Northern Plains states.

As residents of Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas dug out from under a heavy blanket of snow, easterners fought off first snow, then rain and sleet and finally winds up to 80-miles-per-hour. These were coupled with unusual tidal forces that swelled tides to 20 to 30 per cent above normal, flooding hundreds of homes in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

From the New Jersey shore, along the southern edges of Staten Island and Long Island and Connecticut's Long Island Sound communities, the storm raged hour after hour.

Trees were ripped up. Power lines were snapped. Highways and bridges were flooded. Public transportation facilities were knocked out of service.

The winds fanned several fires that broke out along the coast as far south as Baltimore, where 14 row houses were destroyed.

In New York City, subways were flooded. Water stood six inches deep in some Manhattan basements, and high tides threat-

W. T. Brockner Killed In Crash Near Bosco

A Monroe man was killed and his wife injured yesterday evening when the pickup truck in which they were riding collided with a moving van about a mile south of Bosco on the Columbia road.

William Thomas Brockner, 37, of 100 South Sixth street, driver of the pickup truck, died enroute to the hospital. His wife, Mrs. Letha Brockner, was admitted to St. Francis Sanitarium, where she wa found to have suffered a head injury. Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita Parish Coroner, said Brockner had died as a result of a crushed skull and crushed chest.

State police said the investigating officer's report stated that Brockner, who had stopped at the side of the road, pulled onto the highway and into the path of a Clements, of Indianapolis, Ind. Police added, however, that at the time they were contacted they had only received a statement from Clements concerning the accident.

The van driver was uninjured.

At the time of the accident the Brockners were en route to Columbia to visit Mrs. Brockner's mother, who is ill.

The injured were brought to Monroe by Mulhearn ambulance. Arrangements for funeral services, which will be under the direction of Hall Funeral Home, were incomplete late last night.

In addition to his wife Brockner is survived by his mother, Mrs. Clara Belle Brockner, Hebert; one brother, Troy Brockner, Kinder; and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Lewellan, Delhi, and Mrs. Lessie Stamper, West Monroe.

Jes' Ramblin'

Dressed without the ordinarily required collar and necktie of mankind generally, a decidedly aged man has been in attendance for many Sundays in a church attended by many in prominent walks in life.

In true Christian spirit, many of the worshippers paused at the close of the service to shake his hand and drop a kindly word, but still no one seemed to penetrate into the recesses of the man's life. But one Sunday a more inquisitive woman forced back the curtain on his life farther than others had done.

She asked about his place of residence and other pertinent questions, and here is what she got:

"Well, you know, I was sent to Pineville, where I stayed for a time. Then they let me out and do you know they gave me a certificate that states that I am of sound mind! Now I shall always prize that for how many people are there today who can produce such an important statement?"

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Milhaven road, are quite proud of the record established by their son, Arthur Hugh Matthews, student in

OAK GROVE, Nov. 7 (Special)—A Darnell area motorist met death near here shortly afternoon Saturday in a car-gasoline transport collision which sent thousands of gallons of gasoline streaming onto Highway 11, necessitating its closing by state police as a precautionary measure against outbreak of fire.

Calvin Leverne Brister, 27, was killed around 12:40 p.m. Saturday when the car he was driving crashed head-on with a large gasoline transport truck seven miles west of Oak Grove on Highway 11. The truck driver, whose identity was not learned escaped injury.

According to reports by witnesses to the accident, Brister, who was driving west, apparently failed to see the truck when his vision was blocked by another car which made a left turn in front of the truck.

His car crashed head-on into the transport which was travelling east toward Oak Grove. Following the initial impact, witnesses said, the truck drove the Brister vehicle into a parked car, and on into a tree telescoping it.

There was no one in the parked car, and there were no passengers in Brister's vehicle.

Following the accident highway workers and the state troopers rushed to the scene and immediately set up road blocks for fear that the several gallons of gasoline which poured from the truck's ruptured tank would be ignited.

Many residents of the community took part in washing and cleaning operations to remove the fuel from the road and nearby ditches. It was unofficially estimated late last night that the highway would remain blocked until sometime Sunday.

According to reports, Brister, home on Pioneer route near Darnell, who had been rooming in Delhi where he was employed by the United Gas company as a pipeline worker, was going to his parents when the accident occurred.

NATIONAL BOY SCOUT HEADQUARTERS—An artist's sketch shows the two-story office building and one-story warehouse being erected as the new national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America. The new center will be located in North Brunswick Township in New Jersey and will be completed early next summer. Unprecedented membership in scout enrollment and an increase in its supply service operations require the expanded facilities.

Contract Is Awarded For Big Boy Scout Building

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, has announced that contracts have been let for its new national headquarters consisting of a two-story office building and one-story warehouse being erected on a 40-acre tract in North Brunswick Township, New Jersey, about two miles southeast of New Brunswick.

Present administrative offices of the Boy Scouts of America occupy two floors at 2 Park Avenue, New York, where they have been located since December 1927. In addition the National Supply Service Division of the movement occupies three floors at 521 West 57th Street, New York.

Dr. Schuck said that the new air conditioned National Office of the Boy Scouts of America will meet the need for additional space made necessary by great growth and the desirability of bringing together, for administrative and coordinative purposes, the supply service and the rest of the national Boy Scout organization.

The entire operation including land and construction costing approximately $3,000,000, is under the supervision of a special committee ot the national executive board of the Boy Scouts of America under the chairmanship of Harry M. Addinsell, treasurer of the organization.

The Boy Scouts of America recorded an active membership of 3,183,266 boys and adult leaders last Dec. 31st. The boy membership has increased 41.3 per cent in the last four years and in the same period its adult leaders increased 37 per cent. The movement's monthly magazine "Boys' Life" increased from 467,000 nearly five years ago to its present 885,000 circulation. The increase in membership was accompanied by a large increase in the supply service operations, over-taxing present facilities.

The national council also owns the Schiff Scout reservation at Mendham, N. J., where since 1933 it trains men for professional careers in the organization, and conducts many training courses for volunteer leaders. The Schiff Reservation will be a 45-minute drive from the new national Scout office.

Mr. Aycock demonstrated to the boys the proper method of showing calves at stock shows and fairs. Since several of the boys in the club are interested in raising livestock, his demonstration was well received.

Local leaders present included Mrs. Jake Humphries, Mrs. James Poindexter and Mr. Clifford Roberts.

Livestock Board Orders Marking Of Exposed Cattle

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 7 (AP) — The Louisiana Livestock Sanitary Board today ordered the marking of more than 1,800 head of cattle exposed to the Charolais herd smuggled in from Mexico.

State Veterinarian F. B. Wheeler, who serves as board secretary, said Louisiana cattle held under state and federal quarantine in Calcasieu, Vermilion and Tensas parishes, will be ear-tagged to prevent their movement or sale.

Pure-bred cattle will not be marked, he said, but their registration papers will be taken and their tatoo numbers noted.

A federal grand jury, convening in Waco, Tex., Monday will be presented with the Charolais case, involving smuggling about 60 of the rare French breed across the border from Mexico.

A prominent Lafayette cattleman is under federal indictment on charges of wetbacking the cattle across the Rio Grande River, then trucking them to Louisiana.

Dr. Wheeler reiterated that the herd came from an area of Mexico where hoof and mouth disease is prevalent.

In other actions, the board:

1. Voted to pay M. A. Patou & Sons, Ltd., of Jeanerette, for the loss of 26 ewes and 49 lambs which the company claims died of poisoning in a sheep dipping vat.

2. Announced that Texas authorities have lifted a three-year embargo against importing Louisiana sheep, on provision that precautions are taken against sheep scab.

3. Asked the state veterinarian and the U.S. Bureau of Animal Industry to meet with the Louisiana Swine Association to map a program to eliminate Bang's disease reactors.

Practice Begun By Rifle Team At Northeast State

Northeast State's rifle team started practice this week in preparation for the coming season. A roster of cadets, however, has not yet been made by the coach, M. Sgt. William A. Jones.

Approximately 20 men are out for the squad which provides berths for only 15 members. The field will be narrowed by elimination firing to be held in the near future.

The college gymnasium will be used for practice this year whereas in the past the group has been handicapped by the necessity of using the downtown National Guard armory.

Sgt. Jones, speaking enthusiastically about the team's prospects, declared, "we have an excellent chance to win more matches this year. We've improved steadily right alon ." This statement may be verified by a glance at the records, he said.

Last year the team placed eighth among 32 schools in the 4th Army district, as against sixteenth the preceding year.

Sgt. Jones emphasized that positions on the rifle squad are open to members of the ROTC, and he extended an invitation to all cadets to try out.

Livestock Board Orders Marking Of Exposed Cattle

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 7 (AP) — The Louisiana Livestock Sanitary Board today ordered the marking of more than 1,800 head of cattle exposed to the Charolais herd smuggled in from Mexico.

State Veterinarian F. B. Wheeler, who serves as board secretary, said Louisiana cattle held under state and federal quarantine in Calcasieu, Vermilion and Tensas parishes, will be ear-tagged to prevent their movement or sale.

Pure-bred cattle will not be marked, he said, but their registration papers will be taken and their tatoo numbers noted.

A federal grand jury, convening in Waco, Tex., Monday will be presented with the Charolais case, involving smuggling about 60 of the rare French breed across the border from Mexico.

A prominent Lafayette cattleman is under federal indictment on charges of wetbacking the cattle across the Rio Grande River, then trucking them to Louisiana.

Dr. Wheeler reiterated that the herd came from an area of Mexico where hoof and mouth disease is prevalent.

In other actions, the board:

1. Voted to pay M. A. Patou & Sons, Ltd., of Jeanerette, for the loss of 26 ewes and 49 lambs which the company claims died of poisoning in a sheep dipping vat.

2. Announced that Texas authorities have lifted a three-year embargo against importing Louisiana sheep, on provision that precautions are taken against sheep scab.

3. Asked the state veterinarian and the U.S. Bureau of Animal Industry to meet with the Louisiana Swine Association to map a program to eliminate Bang's disease reactors.

Practice Begun By Rifle Team At Northeast State

Northeast State's rifle team started practice this week in preparation for the coming season. A roster of cadets, however, has not yet been made by the coach, M. Sgt. William A. Jones.

Approximately 20 men are out for the squad which provides berths for only 15 members. The field will be narrowed by elimination firing to be held in the near future.

The college gymnasium will be used for practice this year whereas in the past the group has been handicapped by the necessity of using the downtown National Guard armory.

Sgt. Jones, speaking enthusiastically about the team's prospects, declared, "we have an excellent chance to win more matches this year. We've improved steadily right alon..." This statement may be verified by a glance at the records, he said.

Last year the team placed eighth among 32 schools in the 4th Army district, as against sixteenth the preceding year.

Sgt. Jones emphasized that positions on the rifle squad are open to members of the ROTC, and he extended an invitation to all cadets to try out.

Old News— But Shockingly New

The American people who by now should be conditioned to shock, were awakened to another rude one Saturday morning when the Morning World printed the horrifying news that Harry S. Truman, the former president of this Republic, was apparently associated with Harry Dexter White, a Communist spy, now deceased. The news is horrifying and terrible, but it is made worse by the delay of the present administration to release it until now.

The left-wingers, always searching for an alibi to release themselves from the sordidness which surrounds their activities, have a good one now as they can cry "politics" and "they had to do it". Actually, the news is old. Senator McCarthy and Senator Jenner and the administration were in possession of it some months ago. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had been the possessor of it since the outset of the case and had informed the government as such.

The facts are as clear as a new glass plate. The former President of the United States who swore on the Book of God to defend this nation, its constitution and its people, has been accused by the Attorney General of hiring a man whom the FBI had on their lists as a Communist, who many ex-Communists had denounced as an active espionage agent and who the informed people in the Truman administration and the President himself knew about long before the appointment. The Truman idea of "Red Herring" is shown again and nothing Truman can say will release him from guilt. Even if the man was only a suspect, he should not have been considered for the appointment. As such, monetary expert White was the key man sent to China by the Communists to rig the currency of the Nationalist government and cause chaos and depression. He was sent by the Communists and the Truman administration.

The information at hand is positive. If the Federal Bureau can bring the case to trial, there would seem to be a case bordering on treason on the part of the former President of this nation and it should be handled as such. At present, Truman is accused of suppressing the information he received concerning White from the Senatorial investigating committee looking into White's background, and then, hiring the man. This is another example of the tactics used by this man from Missouri who in all his arrogance and idiocy, flaunted the terror of Karl Marx and Communist Russia in the American government as a "Red Herring".

This is the man who, having read the Wedemeyer report, penciled on the upper left hand corner of that report the following, "Too hot for release—H. S. T." The report was then sent to George—"With a stroke of a pen, I have disarmed Chiang"—Marshall, who added, "I agree". Thus, the report, of "Red Herrings" and other assorted misfortune has found this nation on the brink of disaster.

If the FBI-Brownell report is true, and the FBI very rarely "misses the boat", the former President Truman will stand accused of hiring a man who not only represented a foreign power, but whose aim was to destroy the American government and turn it over to the Communist international design. Worse, the Brownell report confirms the fact that Truman knew about this man's past.

The time for action by the present administration has come. Instead of a general campaign of smashing only the Communists in government, there must be a campaign to fire every follower of the Marxian theory and this includes the Socialists as well as the Communists. There can be no more room for denunciation of the congressional committees which were instrumental in bringing this news to light and the foremost of them headed by Senators McCarthy and Jenner.

The American people, who have heard so much leftist propaganda about "witch hunts" and "Red Herrings" will know now what they face. The Communist conspiracy has reached into the office of the President of the United States. The Eisenhower crusade which seems to have shifted into gear, must move as fast as it can, forgetting any speed limit. The time for action has come and there must be a complete investigation of the Truman administration and all its activities and those connected with it.

The American people must discount the accusation of "politics" which will attempt to blind the people to the major points at hand, and support the administration to the full hilt. Unless the Communists and the Socialists, one in the same except for the methods involved, are eliminated from the United States government, there will be total catastrophy for this nation.

Except for the delay in release, the report is excellent information, though horrifying. It should be pushed to the limit and no time should be wasted in the effort.

Marriage, Family Life And The U. S.

The United States was formerly, "a nation of families". By that, is meant that family life formed the great and grand spirit of the majority of the people of America. The families were a series of teams, all pulling together for the spiritual and material benefit of the community and the entire nation. In the rural districts and in many smaller cities and towns, this spirit has, to a great extent, remained. However, in the urban communities, it has diminished.

In its place has come "progressive education" which is designed to show one of God's great commandments; honor thy father and thy mother, no longer seems a necessity. Instead, the young children are instructed even in schools, to call their parents by their first names and to be "independent". This has caused the family, as a unit which used to pull together, to operate separately. No longer have the parents the necessary influence over the children of a household, and due to the outside influences present in this hectic day and time, even God has to a great extent been forgotten in the home.

What havoc this has caused is presently demonstrated in the divorce records in every state in the Union.

Perhaps it is the "fast life" being led by urban folk, or perhaps it is the general turmoil caused by the terrible international situation, nobody seems to know. The family life of this Republic, the spirit of growing up in a close union with one's parents, the idea of marriage and still remaining within the framework of the family, was an integral part of the American scene. It is being replaced with the ugly stain of separation and the departure from the mores which are greatly responsible for making this nation what it presently is.

It would appear in some cases, that the words spoken at the altar of God, or over the book of God, are merely words of a passing incident. Perhaps it would be well to remind many of those who spoke the words which tie and form a union, that they are spoken to God, not anyone else, and a pledge to God is something not to be broken by mere man. Many times people who think about separation have forgotten the days of courtship and the ceremony itself, and there are many cases where such thoughts bring them back together again.

This is a nation of families, or, at least it used to be. What has happened? Every breakup, every departure from the old and good ways, is a heavy blow to the American way of life. Bring back the family spirit to this nation.

Watch Out, Alaska!!!

Unknown to the American people today, there is a danger threatening the Western hemisphere from another unsuspected sector of the world. It is now learned that on the Siberian Peninsula opposite Alaska, there is a huge Soviet "Red Banner" (elite) army of a size almost too awesome to comprehend.

These troops are in fighting condition and are kept on the alert. Many of them are based on the Kamchatka peninsula and there is a base of considerable size at Petropavlovsk. On Big Diomede Island some three miles from United States territory, there are Russians based and the base is quite extensive involving underground machine shops, hangars and other things.

All over this area, the Russians are busily building fortifications, establishing new rail lines and air bases. What is all of this activity supposed to be accomplishing? Why are the Soviets pushing a building and armaments program in a far, "out of the way" area? There can be but one reason. It is the following of the teachings of the Communists in "mother Russia" which dictates that Alaska is not a section of the United States at all, but a part of Russia which was treacherously sold by the "Czarist imperialists." In fact, the Russians want Alaska back in the very worst way.

With all of this activity going on in the Siberian area, how are things in the Alaskan sector? The defenses, while progressing slowly, are not adequate in any manner of speaking. There is no possible way to repel such an army as the famous Red Banner unless it be with an army of some size and great equipment. Such does not exist in Alaska at this present point.

It is not at all necessary to point out that Alaska is the Northwestern gateway to this continent. Should the forces of the Soviet Union ever attain an air base on the Alaskan peninsula, this nation will indeed be in dire danger of air attack and only the Southern most cities will be spared.

The attention of the American people should not be lost on Alaska. The Russians are hoping some day to get it back and the "Red Banner" army which formerly opposed the pride of Japanese might, might be the force which the Russians have chosen to "retake" Alaska.

The Bugle Calls Are Sounding

A mighty blow has been struck against the cause of free men everywhere and it was struck by a segment of American society which not only should know better from the evidence at hand on every side, but by a group which is attempting to dominate the thinking of its members.

Specifically speaking, the National Council of a particular Protestant Church has written a most unfortunate and not altogether factual denunciation of the congressional investigative committees. The letter was sent to all the congregations of that church in the nation. There are 8000 of them. This council, it is understood, does not speak for the Southern church and moreover, not for all of the Northern Churches which it is supposed to head.

This is a matter which will do more to throw glee into the Communist camp than anything which has happened in recent months.

This is Sunday morning, a morning which is dedicated to God. The forces of the ungodly are at hand on all sides and they are threatening the bastions of Christian life on this planet. These forces are aided each and every time a minister arises in his pulpit and denounces the very men who are attempting to rout out the subversives everywhere.

The letter stated that the committees were similar to an "inquisition." That is not based on the truth and any man who has read the findings, and the transcripts of these committee hearings knows that to be an unfair accusation. The Congressional Committees, in the face of brazen zealots who denounce and deride the patriotic committee members deal with these people with patience and fairness on a par with nothing witnessed in a foreign government. The statement or letter from the council also stated that the Congressional Committees could turn this nation into a "fascist state." The statement is absurd. No one is remotely attempting to turn this nation into a Fascist state, on the contrary, there are those who are attempting to turn it into something along very similar lines, into a Marxian state. It is these forces which the letter from this particular Church and some others, has aided beyond a shadow of a doubt.

The clouds of danger are facing this nation's shores today as never before in the history of the United States. The American people are dealing with a religion, not a political party. They are dealing with fanatics which outdo the whirling dervishes of the Mohammedan world in their great zeal. The Communist knows for what he fights. In his type battle, there are "no holds barred." The people of this nation must learn to adopt methods of fighting the Communists and their associates just as the Communists use opposing the American people.

The Northern Church deplores "the drift toward Fascism" and the "fanatical" methods used to fight the Communists. Can the leaders of that church suggest better or other methods? Does the tried and true method of American fair play work against a fanatical ideology which not only does not respect fair play, but which was conceived in blood and terror?

Does the church believe that the Communists respect the American freedom of speech? If so, what example can it use to bear out its belief? The Communists have used every form of deceit, slander, perversion, prevarication and outright murder to drive home their cause. On every front both at home and abroad, the Communists show no mercy. Brutal killings have been perpetrated against innocent people in every land including this nation and American troops have been brutally slaughtered and then, burned by hot oil thrown by the armed troops of this Philosophy.

Every form of treachery known to the twisted mind of depraved men has been employed not only to destroy this nation, but to destroy the very Church which has struck such a blow against the main part of American government investigating the Communists. Were every American to read the testimony from the Jenner Committee, the McCarthy Committee, the Velde Committee, the hair on many an American head would bristle in not only rage, but in deadly fear at the heights of government which the agents of an alien power have reached.

They were in every single operation of government of a policy nature at a time when this spelled disaster with a capital "D." This was reported to the necessary department heads by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and several other police organizations and the reports generally fell on deaf ears. Time and time again, the FBI made reports about Communists in government. Time and time again, the anti-Communist organizations made reports which were discounted. Time and time again ex-Communists made fearful reports only to be denounced themselves for their efforts.

Then, the congressional committee heads and their committees brought this information to light and for their efforts, the entire propaganda machine of the Communist conspiracy descended on their heads. Many people have dropped into the traps of erroneous thinking formed by these subversives. One needs only to read the Daily Worker to see this statement born out.

Now, this National Council has seen fit, without examination, and this is apparent, to denounce the efforts of these patriotic congressmen and Senators who are doing the best job in the fight against the Communists as has ever been seen save for the efforts of the American fighting men in Korea.

It will indeed be an unfortunate thing if the patriotic people of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. go along with the report of their national council.

The report or letter has caused untold harm in the fight against the Communist imperalists.

Public Forum—Voice Of All The People

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Noah Webster, our crutch of understanding, defines panther (felis concolor) as a leopard; therefore there is such an animal as a black panther. But in the accepted sense as the term is used in parts of the U. S., the "panther," cougar, puma, mountain lion, or American lion is never black, as Mr. W. N. Bird informed us. The panther (felis concolor)is a different cat from the leopard (felis pordus).

A black leopard may be loose in Ouachita Parish, but a puma or cougar couldn't possibly be. If there is a "black panther," he escaped from some zoo or traveling circus. Such an escape not being advertised, renders the possibility of one being in Ouachita less than likely.

A horse having the appearance of being slashed by a panther or a colt clawed by one is no evidence at all. On my farm on the Bonne Idee Bayou can be seen two horses that look as if they had been slashed with a broad axe, and a colt that is clawed badly. All three were fought into barbed wire by a pair of fighting mules.

A calf partly eaten is no evidence of a black panther or a green panther. All calves will be found partly eaten at some time after demise.

One report of a witness says the black panther appeared for a moment and was watched for two or three minutes. Can two or three minutes be crowded into a moment?

One witness claims the cat's track measured 5 inches across (it was 8 inches last year). In commenting on the leap made by the panther, it was estimated as "about 15 feet." No measure was made. Imagination, when urged by fear, can conjure up some frightful "things."

There is up around Atchison. Kan. the "summer panther" that has been making an annual appearance for forty years. Every summer just as the watermelons begin to pink or the peaches blush, the summer panther emerges from hibernation with a temper that rivals an old setting hen — and boy, you had better be careful.

Along in the twenties there was a report circulating in Morehouse to the effect of a panther in Beouf swamp, east of Mer Rouge. He was heard at night screaming like a distressed woman. (Note to the Sports Editor; Ben Lilly said he never heard a panther scream. All he ever heard yowled and spit like a tom cat.)

A friend and the writer were hunting cattle and saw the panther on the ridge where he screamed. There was some smoke and a little steam coming out of the "panther" but no scream.

Taxing The Word Of God

Baskin, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The word tax is a thorn in the ribs of men in all walks of life; though, this is the only source of income for our government, state and municipality. Everyone wants good police protection, as well as good fire protection. Though some seem to want George to foot the bill.

Our taxing fathers would do well to remember there is one thing that should be exempt from tax and I think the Word of God and all Christian literature should be exempt. The tax collected on Bibles and Christian literature will neither make or break the state treasury.

We claim to be a God-loving and a God-fearing people, as well as a Christian nation. Then, why tax the word of God?

Too Many Dogs!

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I would suggest to these two cities, Monroe and West Monroe that they pass a city ordinance to the effect that people owning "Bad biting dogs" that are now at large in the streets, where they can bite children, be kept under fence and be forced to wear muzzles. This would be a safe guard to the public. Don't misunderstand me. Dogs are man's best friend and people that love dogs should be allowed to own dogs, if they wish to, but I do think they should be under fence and not allowed to roam the streets; probably running in the way of cars causing wrecks and bothering people. If a dog is worth having, then its owner should certainly be willing to keep it under fence.

My business causes me to walk over these two cities each week and I don't believe I have ever seen so many dogs in cities of this size. You can see them in droves going up and down the streets.

It is perfectly natural for a person to own three or four dogs. They are all good ones. Of course, you can't always tell what they are good for and the owner can't explain, but they are good dogs. I like dogs. A man can be very attached to a dog.

Dogs can't live on thin air; and they must have food, which costs money. Think for one minute how much money is spent for dog food daily in Monroe and West Monroe. This food that is being spent on dogs would feed many hungry little children that go to bed at night with their little stomachs empty. Who is feeding them? I know of some that need food. People say they are hard-pressed for money but some of them have from two to three dogs and buy their dogs food out of the market and it costs plenty. It would be hard to figure how much is being spent on food for dogs in the Twin Cities, but on the other hand how much is being spent on hungry children? I think the children should be considered before the dogs. What do you think?

Public Drinking Water

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In the Morning World of November 1 you carried a letter in your Public Forum column relative to the fluoridation of water.

In advocating the fluoridation of the water supply of Monroe various sources of information with regard to this subject were given but no mention was made of the report entitled, "Fluoridation of Public Drinking Water" which was presented by the "Select Committee to Investigate the Use of Chemicals in Food Products." This committee was created under the provisions of House Resolution 323, 81st Congress, first session. James J. Delaney of New York was made chairman of the Congressional Committee, and the committee is generally referred to as the "Delaney Committee."

According to the report of the Congressional committee, and in accordance with our usual democratic approach to questions of this kind, there were seven days of public hearings devoted to the subject of the fluoridation of water supplies. The report states: "The committee confined itself to hearing scientific testimony concerning the safety and efficacy of this procedure. Eighteen witnesses, qualified by their background and training, and representing both sides of this controversial subject, presented their views and recommendations."

In the discussion it was brought out that the presence of fluorine in the drinking water in certain areas has resulted in the mottling of the teeth of the inhabitants of such localities. There was also noted that in these areas, up to a point, the incidence of dental decay was in inverse ratio to the quantity of fluorine consumed.

It was further explained that fluorine is a gas; that this gas is found in combination with mineral salts as fluoride compounds; and that these fluoride compounds are very poisonous.

The report sets out that there is little dispute that children who drink water containing fluorides in approximately one part per million from birth until 8 or 9, as a general rule, have fewer cavities than children not drinking such water. However, it is admitted that the mottling of the teeth occurs in those instances in which the children drink the water containing fluorine. This mottled condition remains throughout the lifetime of those affected.

"The area of controversy concerning fluoridation of water," says the report, "arises over the question whether a sufficient amount of investigation and study had been completed to justify a recommendation of universal application of this procedure a this time."

The report shows that fluorine is a very toxic element (without a known antidote) that "comprehensive chronic toxicity animal studies have not been conducted with water to which inorganic fluoride compounds have artifically been added;" that "no studies have been published concerning the effect or disposition of fluorine if ingested by persons with impaired kidneys," that no "long - term controlled studies have been conducted to determine the precise effect of fluorine upon the soft tissues;" and furthermore, that "no study has been made of the effect of fluoridated drinking water, if any, on adults or the aged who may be suffering from chronic diseases or impaired kidney function."

The report states that the proponents of fluoridation "rely heavily upon epidemiological studies and analyses of the vital statistics of communities which have had natural fluorine in their drinking water for many years, to prove that inhabitants of such areas are not afflicted with any different or more severe illnesses than persons from nonfluoride areas." It is pointed out that in an epidemiological study all observations are related to the group. It is group statistics control. This is contrasted to clinical study in which the observations remain related to the particular individual under study. It was therefore evident that the results of epidemiological studies "could not be relied upon to determine whether the physical conditions of particular persons, such as those afflicted with a kidney ailment, would or would not be worsened by the ingestion of fluoridated water."

There is too much material in the Congressional report to make any but brief references to it in this letter, but the following statement is significant: "Scientists maintain that when a highly toxic substance such as fluorine is recommended for inclusion into the nation's communal water supplies, so that every person, regardless of his age, state of health, or possible personal reactions to fluorine is required to drink it, affirmative evidence beyond a reasonable doubt should be presented that no one will be injured."

The report establishes the fact that fluoridation is not a necessity because many other methods of obtaining the benefits of fluorine are available which do not affect the entire population, but can be administered by qualified dentists or under the supervision of members of the medical profession who can check the effects on the individual using the fluorine.

Most Americans are opposed to mass medication, and the Congressional report definitely states that "the fluoridation program does constitute medication." The report states: "It is safe to say that fluoridation is mass medication without parallel in the history of medicine."

May we not then choose to oppose the fluoridation program because we do not wish to endanger our rights as individuals to choose the physician we prefer, and the medical treatment which seems

May we not agree with the conclusions found by the Congressional committee, which had the testimony of qualified experts? This conclusion is that "If communities are to make a mistake in reaching a decision on whether to fluoridate their public drinking water, it is preferable to err on the side of caution."

Opposed To Fluoridation

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The question of fluoridation is again engaging the attention of the people of Monroe. Even those who favor fluoridation will admit that the subject is a highly controversial one.

I am opposed to fluoridation on the grounds that it is a step toward socialized medicine and, as such, violates our constitutional rights; also, that there is absolutely no general agreement among the medical profession as to its beneficial results. Indeed, many studies on the subject show that tests thus far are inconclusive and that there, likewise, may occur real danger if the process is not conducted under utmost scientific care.

Surely some of those persons who are proposing fluoridation would be violently aroused if the manufacturers of alcoholic beverages, speaking through a few doctors, effected legislation requiring individuals to take an amount of alcohol as a health measure.

The use of fluorides had better be left to the individual to take or not to take as his or her judgment determines.

Old News— But Shockingly New

The American people who by now should be conditioned to shock, were awakened to another rude one Saturday morning when the Morning World printed the horrifying news that Harry S. Truman, the former president of this Republic, was apparently associated with Harry Dexter White, a Communist spy, now deceased. The news is horrifying and terrible, but it is made worse by the delay of the present administration to release it until now.

The left-wingers, always searching for an alibi to release themselves from the sordidness which surrounds their activities, have a good one now as they can cry "politics" and "they had to do it". Actually, the news is old. Senator McCarthy and Senator Jenner and the administration were in possession of it some months ago. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had been the possessor of it since the outset of the case and had informed the government as such.

The facts are as clear as a new glass plate. The former President of the United States who swore on the Book of God to defend this nation, its constitution and its people, has been accused by the Attorney General of hiring a man whom the FBI had on their lists as a Communist, who many ex-Communists had denounced as an active espionage agent and who the informed people in the Truman administration and the President himself knew about long before the appointment. The Truman idea of "Red Herring" is shown again and nothing Truman can say will release him from guilt. Even if the man was only a suspect, he should not have been considered for the appointment. As such, monetary expert White was the key man sent to China by the Communists to rig the currency of the Nationalist government and cause chaos and depression. He was sent by the Communists and the Truman administration.

The information at hand is positive. If the Federal Bureau can bring the case to trial, there would seem to be a case bordering on treason on the part of the former President of this nation and it should be handled as such. At present, Truman is accused of suppressing the information he received concerning White from the Senatorial investigating committee looking into White's background, and then, hiring the man. This is another example of the tactics used by this man from Missouri who in all his arrogance and idiocy, flaunted the terror of Karl Marx and Communist Russia in the American government as a "Red Herring".

This is the man who, having read the Wedemeyer report, penciled on the upper left hand corner of that report the following, "Too hot for release—H. S. T." The report was then sent to George—"With a stroke of a pen, I have disarmed Chiang"—Marshall, who added, "I agree". Thus, the report, of "Red Herrings" and other assorted misfortune has found this nation on the brink of disaster.

If the FBI-Brownell report is true, and the FBI very rarely "misses the boat", the former President Truman will stand accused of hiring a man who not only represented a foreign power, but whose aim was to destroy the American government and turn it over to the Communist international design. Worse, the Brownell report confirms the fact that Truman knew about this man's past.

The time for action by the present administration has come. Instead of a general campaign of smashing only the Communists in government, there must be a campaign to fire every follower of the Marxian theory and this includes the Socialists as well as the Communists. There can be no more room for denunciation of the congressional committees which were instrumental in bringing this news to light and the foremost of them headed by Senators McCarthy and Jenner.

The American people, who have heard so much leftist propaganda about "witch hunts" and "Red Herrings" will know now what they face. The Communist conspiracy has reached into the office of the President of the United States. The Eisenhower crusade which seems to have shifted into gear, must move as fast as it can, forgetting any speed limit. The time for action has come and there must be a complete investigation of the Truman administration and all its activities and those connected with it.

The American people must discount the accusation of "politics" which will attempt to blind the people to the major points at hand, and support the administration to the full hilt. Unless the Communists and the Socialists, one in the same except for the methods involved, are eliminated from the United States government, there will be total catastrophy for this nation.

Except for the delay in release, the report is excellent information, though horrifying. It should be pushed to the limit and no time should be wasted in the effort.

Marriage, Family Life And The U. S.

The United States was formerly, "a nation of families". By that, is meant that family life formed the great and grand spirit of the majority of the people of America. The families were a series of teams, all pulling together for the spiritual and material benefit of the community and the entire nation. In the rural districts and in many smaller cities and towns, this spirit has, to a great extent, remained. However, in the urban communities, it has diminished.

In its place has come "progressive education" which is designed to show one of God's great commandments; honor thy father and thy mother, no longer seems a necessity. Instead, the young children are instructed even in schools, to call their parents by their first names and to be "independent". This has caused the family, as a unit which used to pull together, to operate separately. No longer have the parents the necessary influence over the children of a household, and due to the outside influences present in this hectic day and time, even God has to a great extent been forgotten in the home.

What havoc this has caused is presently demonstrated in the divorce records in every state in the Union.

Perhaps it is the "fast life" being led by urban folk, or perhaps it is the general turmoil caused by the terrible international situation, nobody seems to know. The family life of this Republic, the spirit of growing up in a close union with one's parents, the idea of marriage and still remaining within the framework of the family, was an integral part of the American scene. It is being replaced with the ugly stain of separation and the departure from the mores which are greatly responsible for making this nation what it presently is.

It would appear in some cases, that the words spoken at the altar of God, or over the book of God, are merely words of a passing incident. Perhaps it would be well to remind many of those who spoke the words which tie and form a union, that they are spoken to God, not anyone else, and a pledge to God is something not to be broken by mere man. Many times people who think about separation have forgotten the days of courtship and the ceremony itself, and there are many cases where such thoughts bring them back together again.

This is a nation of families, or, at least it used to be. What has happened? Every breakup, every departure from the old and good ways, is a heavy blow to the American way of life. Bring back the family spirit to this nation.

Watch Out, Alaska!!!

Unknown to the American people today, there is a danger threatening the Western hemisphere from another unsuspected sector of the world. It is now learned that on the Siberian Peninsula opposite Alaska, there is a huge Soviet "Red Banner" (elite) army of a size almost too awesome to comprehend.

These troops are in fighting condition and are kept on the alert. Many of them are based on the Kamchatka peninsula and there is a base of considerable size at Petropavlovsk. On Big Diomede Island some three miles from United States territory, there are Russians based and the base is quite extensive involving underground machine shops, hangars and other things.

All over this area, the Russians are busily building fortifications, establishing new rail lines and air bases. What is all of this activity supposed to be accomplishing? Why are the Soviets pushing a building and armaments program in a far, "out of the way" area? There can be but one reason. It is the following of the teachings of the Communists in "mother Russia" which dictates that Alaska is not a section of the United States at all, but a part of Russia which was treacherously sold by the "Czarist imperialists." In fact, the Russians want Alaska back in the very worst way.

With all of this activity going on in the Siberian area, how are things in the Alaskan sector? The defenses, while progressing slowly, are not adequate in any manner of speaking. There is no possible way to repel such an army as the famous Red Banner unless it be with an army of some size and great equipment. Such does not exist in Alaska at this present point.

It is not at all necessary to point out that Alaska is the Northwestern gateway to this continent. Should the forces of the Soviet Union ever attain an air base on the Alaskan peninsula, this nation will indeed be in dire danger of air attack and only the Southern most cities will be spared.

The attention of the American people should not be lost on Alaska. The Russians are hoping some day to get it back and the "Red Banner" army which formerly opposed the pride of Japanese might, might be the force which the Russians have chosen to "retake" Alaska.

The Bugle Calls Are Sounding

A mighty blow has been struck against the cause of free men everywhere and it was struck by a segment of American society which not only should know better from the evidence at hand on every side, but by a group which is attempting to dominate the thinking of its members.

Specifically speaking, the National Council of a particular Protestant Church has written a most unfortunate and not altogether factual denunciation of the congressional investigative committees. The letter was sent to all the congregations of that church in the nation. There are 8000 of them. This council, it is understood, does not speak for the Southern church and moreover, not for all of the Northern Churches which it is supposed to head.

This is a matter which will do more to throw glee into the Communist camp than anything which has happened in recent months.

This is Sunday morning, a morning which is dedicated to God. The forces of the ungodly are at hand on all sides and they are threatening the bastions of Christian life on this planet. These forces are aided each and every time a minister arises in his pulpit and denounces the very men who are attempting to rout out the subversives everywhere.

The letter stated that the committees were similar to an "inquisition." That is not based on the truth and any man who has read the findings, and the transcripts of these committee hearings knows that to be an unfair accusation. The Congressional Committees, in the face of brazen zealots who denounce and deride the patriotic committee members deal with these people with patience and fairness on a par with nothing witnessed in a foreign government. The statement or letter from the council also stated that the Congressional Committees could turn this nation into a "fascist state." The statement is absurd. No one is remotely attempting to turn this nation into a Fascist state, on the contrary, there are those who are attempting to turn it into something along very similar lines, into a Marxian state. It is these forces which the letter from this particular Church and some others, has aided beyond a shadow of a doubt.

The clouds of danger are facing this nation's shores today as never before in the history of the United States. The American people are dealing with a religion, not a political party. They are dealing with fanatics which outdo the whirling dervishes of the Mohammedan world in their great zeal. The Communist knows for what he fights. In his type battle, there are "no holds barred." The people of this nation must learn to adopt methods of fighting the Communists and their associates just as the Communists use opposing the American people.

The Northern Church deplores "the drift toward Fascism" and the "fanatical" methods used to fight the Communists. Can the leaders of that church suggest better or other methods? Does the tried and true method of American fair play work against a fanatical ideology which not only does not respect fair play, but which was conceived in blood and terror?

Does the church believe that the Communists respect the American freedom of speech? If so, what example can it use to bear out its belief? The Communists have used every form of deceit, slander, perversion, prevarication and outright murder to drive home their cause. On every front both at home and abroad, the Communists show no mercy. Brutal killings have been perpetrated against innocent people in every land including this nation and American troops have been brutally slaughtered and then, burned by hot oil thrown by the armed troops of this Philosophy.

Every form of treachery known to the twisted mind of depraved men has been employed not only to destroy this nation, but to destroy the very Church which has struck such a blow against the main part of American government investigating the Communists. Were every American to read the testimony from the Jenner Committee, the McCarthy Committee, the Velde Committee, the hair on many an American head would bristle in not only rage, but in deadly fear at the heights of government which the agents of an alien power have reached.

They were in every single operation of government of a policy nature at a time when this spelled disaster with a capital "D." This was reported to the necessary department heads by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and several other police organizations and the reports generally fell on deaf ears. Time and time again, the FBI made reports about Communists in government. Time and time again, the anti-Communist organizations made reports which were discounted. Time and time again ex-Communists made fearful reports only to be denounced themselves for their efforts.

Then, the congressional committee heads and their committees brought this information to light and for their efforts, the entire propaganda machine of the Communist conspiracy descended on their heads. Many people have dropped into the traps of erroneous thinking formed by these subversives. One needs only to read the Daily Worker to see this statement born out.

Now, this National Council has seen fit, without examination, and this is apparent, to denounce the efforts of these patriotic congressmen and Senators who are doing the best job in the fight against the Communists as has ever been seen save for the efforts of the American fighting men in Korea.

It will indeed be an unfortunate thing if the patriotic people of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. go along with the report of their national council.

The report or letter has caused untold harm in the fight against the Communist imperalists.

"Black Panther?"

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Noah Webster, our crutch of understanding, defines panther (felis concolor) as a leopard; therefore there is such an animal as a black panther. But in the accepted sense as the term is used in parts of the U. S., the "panther," cougar, puma, mountain lion, or American lion is never black, as Mr. W. N. Bird informed us. The panther (felis concolor)is a different cat from the leopard (felis pordus).

A black leopard may be loose in Ouachita Parish, but a puma or cougar couldn't possibly be. If there is a "black panther," he escaped from some zoo or traveling circus. Such an escape not being advertised, renders the possibility of one being in Ouachita less than likely.

A horse having the appearance of being slashed by a panther or a colt clawed by one is no evidence at all. On my farm on the Bonne Idee Bayou can be seen two horses that look as if they had been slashed with a broad axe, and a colt that is clawed badly. All three were fought into barbed wire by a pair of fighting mules.

A calf partly eaten is no evidence of a black panther or a green panther. All calves will be found partly eaten at some time after demise.

One report of a witness says the black panther appeared for a moment and was watched for two or three minutes. Can two or three minutes be crowded into a moment?

One witness claims the cat's track measured 5 inches across (it was 8 inches last year). In commenting on the leap made by the panther, it was estimated as "about 15 feet." No measure was made. Imagination, when urged by fear, can conjure up some frightful "things."

There is up around Atchison, Kan. the "summer panther" that has been making an annual appearance for forty years. Every summer just as the watermelons begin to pink or the peaches blush, the summer panther emerges from hibernation with a temper that rivals an old setting hen — and boy, you had better be careful.

Along in the twenties there was a report circulating in Morehouse to the effect of a panther in Beouf swamp, east of Mer Rouge. He was heard at night screaming like a distressed woman. (Note to the Sports Editor; Ben Lilly said he never heard a panther scream. All he ever heard yowled and spit like a tom cat.)

A friend and the writer were hunting cattle and saw the panther on the ridge where he screamed. There was some smoke and a little steam coming out of the "panther" but no scream.

Taxing The Word Of God

Baskin, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The word tax is a thorn in the ribs of men in all walks of life; though, this is the only source of income for our government, state and municipality. Everyone wants good police protection, as well as good fire protection. Though some seem to want George to foot the bill.

Our taxing fathers would do well to remember there is one thing that should be exempt from tax and I think the Word of God and all Christian literature should be exempt. The tax collected on Bibles and Christian literature will neither make or break the state treasury.

We claim to be a God-loving and a God-fearing people, as well as a Christian nation. Then, why tax the word of God?

W. B. CAMPBELL.

Too Many Dogs!

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I would suggest to these two cities, Monroe and West Monroe that they pass a city ordinance to the effect that people owning "Bad biting dogs" that are now at large in the streets, where they can bite children, be kept under fence and be forced to wear muzzles. This would be a safe guard to the public. Don't misunderstand me. Dogs are man's best friend and people that love dogs should be allowed to own dogs, if they wish to, but I do think they should be under fence and not allowed to roam the streets; probably running in the way of cars causing wrecks and bothering people. If a dog is worth having, then its owner should certainly be willing to keep it under fence.

My business causes me to walk over these two cities each week and I don't believe I have ever seen so many dogs in cities of this size. You can see them in droves going up and down the streets.

It is perfectly natural for a person to own three or four dogs. They are all good ones. Of course, you can't always tell what they are good for and the owner can't explain, but they are good dogs. I like dogs. A man can be very attached to a dog.

Dogs can't live on thin air; and they must have food, which costs money. Think for one minute how much money is spent for dog food daily in Monroe and West Monroe. This food that is being spent on dogs would feed many hungry little children that go to bed at night with their little stomachs empty. Who is feeding them? I know of some that need food. People say they are hard-pressed for money but some of them have from two to three dogs and buy their dogs food out of the market and it costs plenty. It would be hard to figure how much is being spent on food for dogs in the Twin Cities, but on the other hand how much is being spent on hungry children? I think the children should be considered before the dogs. What do you think?

Public Drinking Water

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In the Morning World of November 1 you carried a letter in your Public Forum column relative to the fluoridation of water.

In advocating the fluoridation of the water supply of Monroe various sources of information with regard to this subject were given but no mention was made of the report entitled, "Fluoridation of Public Drinking Water" which was presented by the "Select Committee to Investigate the Use of Chemicals in Food Products." This committee was created under the provisions of House Resolution 323, 81st Congress, first session. James J. Delaney of New York was made chairman of the Congressional Committee, and the committee is generally referred to as the "Delaney Committee."

According to the report of the Congressional committee, and in accordance with our usual democratic approach to questions of this kind, there were seven days of public hearings devoted to the subject of the fluoridation of water supplies. The report states: "The committee confined itself to hearing scientific testimony concerning the safety and efficacy of this procedure. Eighteen witnesses, qualified by their background and training, and representing both sides of this controversial subject, presented their views and recommendations."

In the discussion it was brought out that the presence of fluorine in the drinking water in certain areas has resulted in the mottling of the teeth of the inhabitants of such localities. There was also noted that in these areas, up to a point, the incidence of dental decay was in inverse ratio to the quantity of fluorine consumed.

It was further explained that fluorine is a gas; that this gas is found in combination with mineral salts as fluoride compounds; and that these fluoride compounds are very poisonous.

The report sets out that there is little dispute that children who drink water containing fluorides in approximately one part per million from birth until 8 or 9, as a general rule, have fewer cavities than children not drinking such water. However, it is admitted that the mottling of the teeth occurs in those instances in which the children drink the water containing fluorine. This mottled condition remains throughout the lifetime of those affected.

"The area of controversy concerning fluoridation of water," says the report, "arises over the question whether a sufficient amount of investigation and study had been completed to justify a recommendation of universal application of this procedure a this time."

The report shows that fluorine is a very toxic element (without a known antidote) that "comprehensive chronic toxicity animal studies have not been conducted with water to which inorganic fluoride compounds have artifically been added;" that "no studies have been published concerning the effect or disposition of fluorine if ingested by persons with impaired kidneys," that no "long - term controlled studies have been conducted to determine the precise effect of fluorine upon the soft tissues;" and furthermore, that "no study has been made of the effect of fluoridated drinking water, if any, on adults or the aged who may be suffering from chronic diseases or impaired kidney function."

The report states that the proponents of fluoridation "rely heavily upon epidemiological studies and analyses of the vital statistics of communities which have had natural fluorine in their drinking water for many years, to prove that inhabitants of such areas are not afflicted with any different or more severe illnesses than persons from nonfluoride areas." It is pointed out that in an epidemiological study all observations are related to the group. It is group statistics control. This is contrasted to clinical study in which the observations remain related to the particular individual under study. It was therefore evident that the results of epidemiological studies "could not be relied upon to determine whether the physical conditions of particular persons, such as those afflicted with a kidney ailment, would or would not be worsened by the ingestion of fluoridated water."

There is too much material in the Congressional report to make any but brief references to it in this letter, but the following statement is significant: "Scientists maintain that when a highly toxic substance such as fluorine is recommended for inclusion into the nation's communal water supplies, so that every person, regardless of his age, state of health, or possible personal reactions to fluorine is required to drink it, affirmative evidence beyond a reasonable doubt should be presented that no one will be injured."

The report establishes the fact that fluoridation is not a necessity because many other methods of obtaining the benefits of fluorine are available which do not affect the entire population, but can be administered by qualified dentists or under the supervision of members of the medical profession who can check the effects on the individual using the fluorine.

Most Americans are opposed to mass medication, and the Congressional report definitely states that "the fluoridation program does constitute medication." The report states: "It is safe to say that fluoridation is mass medication without parallel in the history of medicine."

May we not then choose to oppose the fluoridation program because we do not wish to endanger our rights as individuals to choose the physician we prefer, and the medical treatment which seems

May we not agree with the conclusions found by the Congressional committee, which had the testimony of qualified experts? This conclusion is that "If communities are to make a mistake in reaching a decision on whether to fluoridate their public drinking water, it is preferable to err on the side of caution."

CAROLINE MULHEARN.

Opposed To Fluoridation

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The question of fluoridation is again engaging the attention of the people of Monroe. Even those who favor fluoridation will admit that the subject is a highly controversial one.

I am opposed to fluoridation on the grounds that it is a step toward socialized medicine and, as such, violates our constitutional rights; also, that there is absolutely no general agreement among the medical profession as to its beneficial results. Indeed, many studies on the subject show that tests thus far are inconclusive and that there, likewise, may occur real danger if the process is not conducted under utmost scientific care.

Surely some of those persons who are proposing fluoridation would be violently aroused if the manufacturers of alcoholic beverages, speaking through a few doctors, effected legislation requiring individuals to take an amount of alcohol as a health measure.

The use of fluorides had better be left to the individual to take or not to take as his or her judgment determines.

Louisiana Tech, who was listed the past week in "Who's Who," the college publication that lists outstanding students in all American colleges.

The honor comes through the fact that they are able to meet all requirements in athletics, social attainments, and scholarship, and their names are given to the book publisher by a special faculty committee that is called always unbiased in its selections.

But Mr. and Mrs. Matthews are not only proud of the honor now given their youngest son but also his two older brothers. Bill and Neal Matthews also received the same honor from Louisiana Tech when they were undergraduates there.

It is probable that no other parents here have the honor of having three sons all cited for "Who's Who" at the same college.

Judge and Mrs. David I. Garrett had the rather unusual pleasure of talking by phone to their son, Dr. Flood Garrett, flight naval surgeon who was in Hong Kong, last Tuesday.

The phone call was answered by Dr. Garrett at just 8:20 p.m. Tuesday and incidentally he told his parents that it was Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Later, Mrs. Garrett said that she felt she had been precipitated into the future by this contact with her son.

The Louisiana Baptist Children's home has re-elected all board members and they in turn have re-named Supt. D. C. Black and all staff members. The institution seems to be admirably operated by Mr. Black, who possesses those rare qualities that make it easy for him to serve as "Daddy" to youngsters who are left orphans.

The budget for the ensuing year is placed at $125,000, making this institution a highly important one for the Twin Cities, for this sum is expended in our midst.

Happy Birthday!

rects the man to pay a specified amount, depending on circumstances, to the family or individual.

Such procedure has been followed many years, but prior to the passage of the 1952 act, there was no check on whether the payments were being made to the persons ordered to receive them. Frequently, instead of reporting delinquency in payment to the judge, family members needing the support went to a local welfare office, and signed up for benefits, Meek said. Thus, public funds were being used instead of funds earned by the man from whom support was due the family.

Under the new procedure, Meek said, constant contact is kept with the man contributing the support. He is required to make the payments, not to the family direct, but to the probation officer, who, in turn, forwards the remittance to the family.

Meek said that a period of five days of grace is allowed. In event the payment is defaulted, the responsible individual is picked up, and his sentence is invoked. He must then serve the full sentence.

This constant threat, Meek said, has a tendency to keep the man paying, and to get him to realize that he must continue to pay his obligations to his family, with the result that the family is kept off the regular tax-supported welfare rolls.

In connection with this law, Meek has another specific duty as probation officer. If judges make the request, he is obligated under the law to make on-the-spot investigations for them. Frequently, he says, a case is remanded for sentence to provide time to study the family's environment, needs, etc., so that the judge will be better informed as to the amount of payment needed by the family.

At the beginning of the month of September, according to the latest report issued by the welfare department under the title "Louisiana Public Welfare Statistics", 3'_ cases of criminal neglect were under supervision of probation and parole officers in the state. At the end of the month, 319 cases were reported, with total collections for September reaching $8,029.25. Meek said that October collections will run over $9,000.

ened to inundate La Guardia airport. State Island ferries stopped running.

Telephone service and electricity to thousands of homes on Long Island were halted, and homes with oil burners had no heat. More than 10,000 workers in Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island were removed from their homes.

A state of emergency was declared in Stamford, Conn., where off duty police and firemen helped remove residents from shorefront homes.

At Clinton, Conn., two men were reported missing after their tug boat broke up and sank several hundred feet off shore. A mile off shore, a police helicopter hovered over a stricken yacht with six persons aboard. The helicopter stood guard until a Coast Guard cutter could rescue the men.

Eleven of the storm dead were traffic victims. Five sailors were killed when their automobile skidded on the ice-coated New Jersey turnpike and crashed into a truck.

Four persons died on slippery roads in Kansas. Three persons died of heart attacks attributed to over-exertion in Pennsylvania. One was author David Hinshaw, a former publicist for the Republican party. He died after parking his car on a country road five miles from his West Chester, Pa., home.

Ten duck hunters were missing on Long Island, and officials feared they had drowned in the flooded marshes.

Two Rochester, N. Y., residents died during the storm. William M. Wilson, 63, collapsed while trying push his stalled automobile from a snowbank. Mrs. Ethel M. Sauter, 60, suffered a heart attack while clearing snow from the top of her automobile.

Several Saturday sports events were called off because of the storm. The $65,000 International Horse Race at Laurel, Md., was cancelled. So were football games between Massachusetts and New Hampshire at Durham, N. H., and Peru State Teachers and Kearney College, Kearney, Neb.

In Washington, Dr. Francis W. Reichelderfer, chief of the U. S. weather bureau, said he would make an investigation to determine why what looked like an innocent little storm turned wild without warning and heaped misery on the Atlantic seaboard.

The high tides backed up the Hudson River as far north as Newburgh, N. Y., more than 70 miles from the river's mouth. Ferry service between Newburgh and Beacon N. Y., was suspended when the ferry slips became flooded.

In New York City, Franklin D. Roosevelt Drive, formerly known as the East River Drive, was flooded from 34th to 90th Street. The inundated area included the stretch of super-highway running under the United Nations building.

Off New Jersey, two fishing vessels sent out SOS signals and a string of scows broke loose from the tugboat "Boston" in Long Island Sound. A man was reported adrift on one of the scows.

Mr. Truman insisted White was "fired" as soon as he was found to be disloyal and accused the Republicans of trying to get "a headline to offset" their recent election defeats.

The White House challenged him on that. Presidential Press Secretary James E. Hagerty said the records showed White resigned and Mr. Truman accepted the resignation "with considerable reluctance."

Advised of this, Mr. Truman responded: "I suppose it is perfectly all right for one man as another to call a man a liar, but it is not possible to depend on what they (the Republicans) are saying."

Mr. Truman said White was "fired by resignation," a practice that is still going on under the new administration in Washington. He wanted to emphasize, he said, that he "inherited' White from the Roosevelt administration and "as far as I know, I never met White personally or talked to him."

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee, headed by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), ordered an immediate investigation following Brownell's speech and summoned Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Mr. Truman's former military aide, to a hearing Thursday. Vaughan has labelled "a lot of malarky" Brownell's charge that he received the two FBI reports on White to deliver to Mr. Truman.

Morris said in New York the subcommittee has no plans now beyond Vaughan's scheduled appearance, but said a later appearance by Mr. Truman is "a possibility."

McCormack, the assistant Democratic House leader, and Sen. Allen J. Ellender (La.) were among Democrats who joined Saturday in Mr. Truman's defense.

McCormack said the Republican leadership is "desperate" and desperate men will resort to anything."

Ellender said Brownell's charge was a "smoke screen" raised after the election defeats in New York and New Jersey to hide the Republican party's "lack of progress."

"Criticism of the past is all right to get elected," Ellender said, "but the American people are looking for action."

Poore wrote that he wished to be buried on the continent of Europe "with my face to the south I love so well and my back to the country which my family and I have served well and which has treated us badly.

"... When I Return from abroad the White Cliffs of Dover appear to me as prison bars, with ranting politicians of all brands as gaolers.

Boy Scouts Of America Pick Washington, D. C., For 44th Annual Meeting

The national council of the Boy Scouts of America has selected Washington, D. C., for its 44th annual meeting, Jack E. Pankey, Scout executive for the Ouachita Valley Council, stated Saturday. The two-day meeting on May 28 and 29 will bring together more than 1,500 leaders of the organization.

All sessions will be held at the Hotel Mayflower and at the Hotel Statler.

The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 8, 1910. One year later, at the invitation of President William Howard Taft, the new organization held its first annual meeting in the White House. President Taft was the first honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America. Former President Theodore Roosevelt, who became "chief Scout citizen," was a troop committeeman of Troop 39, Oyster Bay, New York and often hiked with his Scouts.

Like all his predecessors in the White House since 1910, President Eisenhower serves as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America during his term of office. He is the second president to have had an active relationship with the organization before entering the White House. He has been a member of the Boy Scouts' national executive board since 1948, serving on the national court of honor and the committee on international relationships.

Altrusa Clubs Seeking To Aid Safety Efforts

With the traffic dealth and accident toll reaching an epidemic proportion (with 38,000 killed and 1,350,000 persons injured in traffic accidents last year), Altrusa International, pioneer classified service organization for executive and professional women, has been moved to devote its entire November magazine to this subject, it has been announced by Miss Lillie Glenn, publicity chairman for the local Altrusa Club.

What community groups, such as the Altrusa Club of this city, can do to bring safety back to high ways and take Main Street out of the Main Street category, is clearly defined by four experts in the field of traffic safety, writing for the November International Altrusan magazine.

"It's bad driver attitudes that breed accidents," contends Dr. Herbert J. Stack, director of New York University's center for safety education. In this article, so entitled, he lists bad attitudes and urges cultivating right ones . . . such as courtesy and good sportsmanship, attention and alertness, obedience to regulations, adjustment to traffic conditions.

"The slow poke driver," states Dr. Stack, "is as much of a menace as the speeder. He tends to be egocentric and insists upon his rights to do what he pleases. Some states pull these drivers off the road and issue summons."

Dr. Stack names women as the chief offenders in indecision, such as signalling for a left turn and shooting around to the right. "Women have not taken the time to study the regulations and get the proper training and experience," he avows. "Someone could add that the same thing is true about the home. How many women even bother to read through the instruction manual that comes with their car?"

Teaching teen - agers to become model motorists as part of the high school curriculum, is a solution offered by Paul H. Blaisdell, director, public safety division, accident prevention department, Association of Casualty and Surety companies.

In his article in the International Altrusan, he points out that 57 per cent of the public High Schools in the United States still fail to offer a course in driver education. Also, in the 8,653 high schools where the course was offered in the 1952-53 school year, only 54 per cent of the eligible students were taking advantage of the opportunity to get driving instruction.

He issues a challenge to the community service organization to take up the problem — and accelerate the growth of high school driver education.

Franklin M. Kreml, director of the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University, says that strict enforcement of existing traffic laws can reduce accidents. This, he states, calls for a close working together of civic groups, schools, police department, courts and traffic experts. In his Altrusan article, he cites the examples of Los Angeles, Calif., with nearly 2 million population which cut its traffic death toll in half, and Shaker Heights, Ohio, with 28,000 persons, which was able to climb from a rating of 134th in traffic safety to a tie for second, in its population group, in the 1950 contest and to first in 1951.

Margaret Conklin, assistant to the director, National Committee for Traffic Safety, calls public support — traffic safety's mightiest army. In her Altrusan article she cites examples of civic club action for safety — such as spearheading safety campaigns; sponsoring young officers in special traffic courses; seeing that difficult highways are marked with adequate signs; building playgrounds to take children out of the streets.

Promoting traffic safety is one of the many service projects carried on by Monroe - West Monroe Altrusa Club, as well as the 347 clubs, which now comprise 11,600 members throughout the world.

Ever since 1917, when this one-of-a - kind membership organization (similar to Rotary Clubs for men) was founded, its clubs have rallied to every variety of community need.

Altrusa International headquarters are in Chicago. Its president is Miss Gretchen Vanderschmidt of St. Louis, Mo., and the president of the local Altrusa Club is Mrs. Abbie Leckie.

An increase of 35 per cent in world food production would be needed to meet the most pressing needs of the world's people, according to an estimate by the Twentieth Century Fund.

600,000th Phone In Louisiana Is Put In By Bell

Louisiana's 600,000th Southern Bell telephone was placed in service somewhere in the state this week, thus marking the greatest number of telephones ever to be connected in the state, according to J. M. Brown, district manager for the company. This installation, he said, is indicative of the unprecedented telephone development in the state, most of which has taken place buring the post war years since 1945.

At the end of World War II, there were 277,000 Southern Bell telephones in Louisiana. Now, only eight years later, this number has more than doubled. In other words, more telephones have been installed in the state in the past eight years than were installed in the entire previous 67½ years of the telephone's existence in Louisiana.

While the state's population was increasing approximately 19 per cent, telephone growth in Southern Bell areas exceeded 116 per cent during this same eight year period. Telephone growth, Mr. Brown pointed out, has more than kept pace with the tremendous commercial, industrial and agricultural strides the state has taken since the end of the war.

The attainment of this 600,000th installation, Mr. Brown added, does not mean that the task of bringing telephone service to the people of Louisiana is finished. Instead, the work goes right on as Southern Bell continues to go forward with the job of providing still more and better telephone service.

Southern Bell now maintains 118 exchanges, furnishing telephone service to more than a thousand cities, towns and communities throughout the state.

10 Candidates Are Named For C. Of C. Board

Lee Vanderpool, president of the Monroe - West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, announced Friday that the nomination committee of the Chamber met Thursday afternoon and selected a field of ten candidates to appear on the annual election ballot. The meeting was held at the Chamber office.

Ivy Jordan, chairman of the nomination committee, revealed that twice as many nominees were nominated as there were open posts on the board of directors to be filled. This means that from a field of ten candidates there will be five directors elected for terms of three years each.

Members of the nomination committee included JoJrdon, C. G. Pearce, Sr., O. N. McNeil, H. M. James, A. P. Kitchens and Harry Frazer, Sr.

Names of those nominated will not be revealed until proper authority of the individuals has been given to place their names on the ballot. These ballots, in turn, will be submitted to the membership of the Chamber at large in a primary early next week. Chairman Jordan requests that all members vote immediately and observe the necessary 10 - day deadline.

'New Singing Find' In N. Y. Former Resident Of Monroe

A former Monroe lass, who still looks to the Twin Cities as home and "would like to come back some day" recently signed a recording contract in New York, which one show business magazine stated was "a step to the top." Along with the announcement of the contract, local radio listeners are hearing two songs by the talented lady which are destined to rise, along with the singer.

The singer is Chris Martin, known to Monroe and this area as Miss Christine Galloway, who sang her way into the title of "Sweetheart of the American Legion" several years ago and has since taken the spotlight in several of New Orleans' most fashionable night spots. Later she moved on with Jack Teagarden's orchestra, and still later with Henry Jerome and his band as the featured singer.

The two songs which are now hitting the juke boxes and disc jockey programs are "Always in My Heart," and "Six Buzzard Feathers and a Mocking Bird's Tail." The first song is one of the better sentimental pieces, while the reverse side of the record has the novelty number similar to the catchy hits such as "Big Mamou" and other bayou songs.

According to The Cash Box, a magazine for musical show people, the songs are "getting strong reaction" and the singer is the "new singing find."

Miss Martin, as she is known in the singing world, is presently preparing for a 15-week personal appearance tour which is slated to take her through the East and Midwest. She will plug the songs which she has recorded for her company and discuss records with the various disc jockeys which she meets.

Sonny Skyler is writing the act for her personal tour. The noted writer is putting new lyrics to "Life Is Just A Bowl of Cherries," for Miss Martin.

The new tour comes fast on the heels of a disc jockey tour which took her as far west as Chicago. While on the tour she made several appearances on benefit shows and, upon her return to New York, participated in a benefit show at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. She also has appeared on television shows emanating from New York.

Before going to New York, Miss Martin appeared as featured singer with Henry Jerome and his band on a tour of army camps and summer resorts. She was called from this tour to the Big City for the recording and subsequent contract.

She also appeared with Jack Teagarden and his orchestra for a year and was the featured entertainer at several of New Orleans' favorite night spots, including the Fountain Lounge, Blue Room and other clubs.

Many Twin City residents will remember the program over Radio Station KMLB which she, then as Christine Galloway, had for several years.

Negro Is Arrested For Drunk Driving

Police also stated that upon their arrival at the scene of the accident, Harper had abandoned the truck and was walking on DeSiard Street in an intoxicated condition.

Harper is now in the city jail and bond has been set at $490.

'New Singing Find' In N. Y. Former Resident Of Monroe

A former Monroe lass, who still looks to the Twin Cities as home and "would like to come back some day" recently signed a recording contract in New York, which one show business magazine stated was "a step to the top." Along with the announcement of the contract, local radio listeners are hearing two songs by the talented lady which are destined to rise, along with the singer.

The singer is Chris Martin, known to Monroe and this area as Miss Christine Galloway, who sang her way into the title of "Sweetheart of the American Legion" several years ago and has since taken the spotlight in several of New Orleans' most fashionable night spots. Later she moved on with Jack Teagarden's orchestra, and still later with Henry Jerome and his band as the featured singer.

The two songs which are now hitting the juke boxes and disc jockey programs are "Always in My Heart," and "Six Buzzard Feathers and a Mocking Bird's Tail." The first song is one of the better sentimental pieces, while the reverse side of the record has the novelty number similar to the catchy hits such as "Big Mamou" and other bayou songs.

According to The Cash Box, a magazine for musical show people, the songs are "getting strong reaction" and the singer is the "new singing find."

Miss Martin, as she is known in the singing world, is presently preparing for a 15-week personal appearance tour which is slated to take her through the East and Midwest. She will plug the songs which she has recorded for her company and discuss records with the various disc jockeys which she meets.

Sonny Skyler is writing the act for her personal tour. The noted writer is putting new lyrics to "Life is Just A Bowl of Cherries," for Miss Martin.

The new tour comes fast on the heels of a disc jockey tour which took her as far west as Chicago. While on the tour she made several appearances on benefit shows and, upon her return to New York, participated in a benefit show at the Waldori-Astoria hotel. She also has appeared on television shows emanating from New York.

Before going to New York, Miss Martin appeared as featured singer with Henry Jerome and his band on a tour of army camps and summer resorts. She was called from this tour to the Big City for the recording and subsequent contract.

She also appeared with Jack Teagarden and his orchestra for a year and was the featured entertainer at several of New Orleans' favorite night spots, including the Fountain Lounge, Blue Room and other clubs.

Many Twin City residents will remember the program over Radio Station KMLB which she, then as Christine Galloway, had for several years.

Police also stated that upon their arrival at the scene of the accident, Harper had abandoned the truck and was walking on DeSiard Street in an intoxicated condition.

Demons Win, 7-0; Moral Victory For Tribe

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

A gigantic public appeal in behalf of professional baseball will be offered to the fans of the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana in an hour and a half saturation of the air waves by radio and television stations of Monroe Wednesday evening. By this means of personal visits into every home by means of the miracle of radio and TV, the promoters of the proposed Twin Cities Baseball Corporation intend to complete their roundup of stockholders, or at least a sufficient number to assure organization of a club.

Leaders in the baseball drive have been offered the facilities of three radio stations, KMLB, KNOE, and KLIC, for a combined 30-minute show to originate from the lobby of Hotel Frances at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening and running until 7:30. Immediately at 7:30, the scene will shift to the studios of television station KFAZ for a 30-minute run, and at 8 o'clock KNOE-TV will go into action for a 30-minute baseball program.

Although baseball personalities will be appearing on the programs, the main theme will be the extension of personal appeals into every home for telephone stock subscriptions. Fans at home will be invited to telephone orders for stock during the course of the programs, and teams of interested baseball men will call on the telephone participants immediately to make the collections.

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, joining in the drive, will compose the bulk of the collection teams, and the machinery is being so set up that Jaycees will be off and away to the home of subscribers as soon as they, upon heeding the radio and TV appeals, make known their desire to share in baseball for Monroe and West Monroe.

Although the radio programs will originate from the hotel lobby and the TV studios, where subscription orders will be filled for the "walk-in trade," the telephone orders will be received over the telephone network of the News-Star—World Publishing Corporation where the collector-teams will be working in relays under the supervision of Clifford Strauss, one of the hardest workers in this drive to keep alive our pro baseball interests. As fast as the telephone orders are received, word will be relayed to the source of the radio and TV shows for acknowledgement over the air.

This package appeal is expected to put the baseball program over the top. Already well over $10,000 has been subscribed. The baseball interests feel that only a few thousand more will be sufficient to attain the goal of calling all stockholders into session for the organizational step of selecting their officers and board of directors. As yet there is no actual baseball club. No club will be organized by anybody except the stockholders themselves. The Wednesday night appeals will give you your chance to become one of its club owners and command a voice in baseball operations in the Twin Cities.

So, when Lawrence Gibbs of KMLB, Harry Arthur of KNOE, Lloyd Goodin of KLIC, and the television sportscasters, Pete Linton or Bill Cook or Joe Milner of KFAZ, and Arthur again for KNOE-TV begin feeding their public service programs Wednesday night, be ready to answer them in the only way you can for the sake of baseball. Buy a share of stock. Or, better still, purchase several shares.

One of the finest minor league parks in the nation is situated here at Bernstein Park. Legion Memorial Stadium was built by the people of the Twin Cities with their personal donations five years ago. This stadium is in better condition today, what with annual improvements, than it was the day baseball returned to the Twin Cities in 1950.

We wonder if it is good for the civic pride to turn such a baseball plant over to the weeds and ravages of time, thus wasting all the thousands of dollars that went into making this baseball plant possible, than to help this proposed baseball club on its way so that it may preserve this park and retain for us this game so rightfully termed "the national pastime."

Georgia Tech Rally Ends Clemson Threat Of Upset

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA, Nov. 7 (AP)—Billy Teas, a skinny-legged speedster, and an erratic but touchdown-producing air game boosted Georgia Tech to a 20-7 victory today over a big Clemson team brilliantly quarterbacked by sophomore Don King.

Teas, a junior from Andrews, N. C., continually collected good gains on his favorite play, a sweep of his left end. He set up Tech's tie-breaking touchdown in the third quarter with a 55-yard punt return and gained more than 100 yards from scrimmage.

After the tough, 162-pound halfback had lugged the punt back to Clemson's 17, quarterback Pepper Rodgers sneaked for a yard, then passed to Dave Davis in the end zone. Earlier Tech had marched 51 yards to tie the game, halfback Leon Hardeman sweeping 22 yards to the one and Rodgers sneaking over.

A 22-yard pass from Bill Brigman to Bill Sennett gave Tech an insurance touchdown in the third period.

Clemson's big line outplayed the sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets most of the first half and the King-led Tigers matched Tech's offense. King guided the Atlantic Coast Conference visitors 80 yards in eight plays after the opening kickoff. King sneaked it over from the two.

Score by quarters:

Clemson	7	0	0	0—7
Georgia Tech	0	7	13	0-20

Clemson scoring: touchdown, King. Conversion, shown.

Georgia Tech scoring: touchdowns, Rodgers, Davis, Sennett. Conversions, Rodgers 2.

Eagles Pull One Out Of Fire In Last Set

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7 (AP)—Boston College's Eagles struck for three fourth period touchdowns to whip Wake Forest 20-7 today.

Capt. Sonny George gave the Demon Deacons a 7-0 first period lead on a 45-yard touchdown run by intercepting Bill Stuka's pass and booting the conversion.

Northeast Steals Show, But Misses Chance For Upset

By J. C. MERRILL

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 7—(Special) — Northwestern State College's "water logged" Demons downed a game Northeast State College squad 7-0 this afternoon in Demon Stadium before a slim homecoming crowd.

A constant rain hampered the efforts of the two teams greatly as they consistently fumbled the slippery pigskin on the water-soaked turf.

Although coming out on the short end of the score, Northeast's Indians outplayed the home-standing Demons in every department. They outgained N.S.C. in yards rushing with 179 yards to the Demons 160 with big Lloyd Ray Smith doing most of the carrying and personally accounting for 88 of the 179 yards.

STATISTICS

	Demons	Tribe
First downs	8	9
Yards rushing	168	164
Yards lost rushing	16	12
Net yards rushing	152	152
Passes attempted	3	6
Passes completed	1	4
Yards passing	8	27
Total yards gained	160	179
Total punts	7	6
Punting average, yds.	22	26
Total fumbles	5	5
Fumbles lost	3	4

For N.S.C. it was two Bossier City lads leading in the individual statistic department; Don Miller with 35 yards and Searle Walton with 33.

Northwestern State took the opening kickoff but fumbled the ball on their own 46 where the Indians took over. After failing to gain against th Demon defense, Northeast punted out of bounds on the N.S.C. 17.

Fleetfooted Millen carried on the first two plays from scrimmage and made two consecutive first downs before the purple and white attack bogged down on their own 46.

Taking the N.S.C. punt on their 18-yard stripe, Northeast's Smith picked up two first downs before their drive also faded out on the 35. Halfback Maurice Nix's boot was partially blocked by Demon end Ted Simon and the loose sphere sailed only 10 yards where Clyde Chesson took it and returned to the 3 from which it came.

This was the break N.S.C. had been waiting for as they started a touchdown drive with Millen, Walton, and James McNew carrying the ball to the Indian two. One rushing play found the wet pigskin on the one inch line where Walton plunged over left tackle for the game's only tally. Allen Langridge's attempt at the extra point was good and made the score 7-0 at the end of the first quarter.

The ball was handed back and forth in the second quarter with N.S.C. losing a golden opportunity to score late in the period when they fumbled on the Indian's 17.

After a short halftime period, N.S.C. came charging back but a stubborn Northeast defense held on and limited the Demons to only one first down during the entire second half while chalking up four for themselves.

It was Northwestern State's fifth win of the current season and their fourth in Gulf States Conference play to keep their championship hopes alive.

Score by quarters:

Duke-Navy Play Scoreless Tie On Muddy Field

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Duke and Navy held off each other to a scoreless football tie today in the mud of Memorial Stadium in a game which produced disagreement over whether Duke was deprived of a fourth down.

The official statistician, Mel Schilling, and the other press box reporters claimed Duke got only three downs on a series during the third quarter.

But Referee Leroy J. Kelley and Field Judge Henry D. Hormel claimed that Navy had declined a first down penalty of backfield in motion. The statistician said the five-yard penalty was paced off, so the down didn't count. Duke then tried three pass plays and gave up the ball to Navy.

Bill Murray, Duke coach, said at first he thought also it was only third down on the third pass. But was assured by the officials it was fourth.

"I am sure they called it right," Murray said.

Spartans' 157-Lb. Back Beats Buckeyes, 28-13

By TED SMITS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 7 — Leroy Bolden, 157-pound halfback personally knocked Ohio State out of the Big Ten championship contention today as he led Michigan State to a 28-13 victory.

Bolden scored three Michigan State touchdowns, two of them on runs of 20 and 37 yards during which he repeatedly shook off the heavy Ohio State tacklers.

The victory, achieved before 82,328 fans, in cold and gloomy weather, gave Michigan State a Big Ten standing of four victories against one defeat, and kept alive their championship hopes.

Ohio State's two touchdowns were made on explosive marches powered by Howard (Hopalong) Cassady and Bobby Watkins.

Michigan State scored first on a steady march down the field with Bolden carrying over from the 3. Ohio State struck back at the start of the second quarter with Watkins smashing 16 yards through the line for the touchdown.

A few moments later Bolden burst away for 37 yards and a touchdown, dragging three Ohio State men the last 15 yards.

Cassady made it 14-13 at the start of the second halfwith a pretty 18-yard pass to Tom Hague, but Bolden led a fourth period march down the field and crashed his way for 20 yards and the touchdown—although hit by six or seven tacklers.

In the closing moments Tom Yewcic tossed a 15-yard pass to Ellis Duckett for the fourth and final touchdown.

Score by quarters:

Michigan State	7	7	0	14—28

Oklahoma Aggies Edge Wyoming In 3rd Period, 20-14

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 7 (AP)—Oklahoma A. and M. made a 72-yard drive in th third quarter pay off with the winning touchdown to overcome Wyoming and its brilliant sophomore tailback Joe Mastrogiovanni 20-14 here today.

An Aggie homecoming crowd of 19,000 sat in 39-degree weather and watched A. and M.'s 13-0 lead wiped out by Mastrogiovanni's passing, running and kicking.

Mastrogiovanni, the nation's leading yardage gainer who is only 5-6 but weighs 200 pounds, was just able to pick up 41 yards rushing against the Aggies but took to the air for 179 yards, completing 8 of 23 passes. The Brooklyn boy also kicked both extra points.

However, two costly fumbles, one on the 1-yard line in the second quarter and the other on the 12 in the third hurt Wyoming's efforts to win its sixth victory in eight starts.

Score by quarters:

Wyoming	0	7	7	0—14
Oklahoma A and M.	6	7	7	0—20

Larson Paces Cal To 53-25 Victory Over Washington

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP)—Peerless Paul Larson threw three touchdown passes, scored a touchdown himself and wrote new records in California's football history as the inspired Bears walloped the Washington Huskies 53-25 today in a Pacific Coast Conference rout.

A crowd of 38,000 saw the two teams roll up the most points ever compiled in their annual rivalry starting back in 1904.

California, with Larson connecting with his receivers at times with seemingly impossible passes, took the opening kickoff 85 yards for a lead that was built up steadily from then on.

In the second quarter, the Bears' bouncy skipper faked a pass and ran nine yards to score himself.

Alabama Pressed To Defeat Chattanooga

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 7 (AP)—Alabama went out for an afternoon of relaxation today but stepped into a deadly striking nest of Moccasins from Chattanooga before winning, 21-14.

Hampered by the absence of six injured varisty players, the Crimson Tide had hoped to take it easy against the Tennessee invader to rest up for games with Georgia Tech, Maryland and Auburn on the next three Saturdays. But instead, Bama had to play it all the way to win.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

A gigantic public appeal in behalf of professional baseball will be offered to the fans of the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana in an hour and a half saturation of the air waves by radio and television stations of Monroe Wednesday evening. By this means of personal visits into every home by means of the miracle of radio and TV, the promoters of the proposed Twin Cities Baseball Corporation intend to complete their roundup of stockholders, or at least a sufficient number to assure organization of a club.

Leaders in the baseball drive have been offered the facilities of three radio stations, KMLB, KNOE, and KLIC, for a combined 30-minute show to originate from the lobby of Hotel Frances at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening and running until 7:30. Immediately at 7:30, the scene will shift to the studios of television station KFAZ for a 30-minute run, and at 8 o'clock KNOE-TV will go into action for a 30-minute baseball program.

Although baseball personalities will be appearing on the programs, the main theme will be the extension of personal appeals into every home for telephone stock subscriptions. Fans at home will be invited to telephone orders for stock during the course of the programs, and teams of interested baseball men will call on the telephone participants immediately to make the collections.

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, joining in the drive, will compose the bulk of the collection teams, and the machinery is being so set up that Jaycees will be off and away to the home of subscribers as soon as they, upon heeding the radio and TV appeals, make known their desire to share in baseball for Monroe and West Monroe.

Although the radio programs will originate from the hotel lobby and the TV studios, where subscription orders will be filled for the "walk-in trade," the telephone orders will be received over the telephone network of the News-Star—World Publishing Corporation where the collector-teams will be working in relays under the supervision of Clifford Strauss, one of the hardest workers in this drive to keep alive our pro baseball interests. As fast as the telephone orders are received, word will be relayed to the source of the radio and TV shows for acknowledgement over the air.

This package appeal is expected to put the baseball program over the top. Already well over $10,000 has been subscribed. The baseball interests feel that only a few thousand more will be sufficient to attain the goal of calling all stockholders into session for the organizational step of selecting their officers and board of directors. As yet there is no actual baseball club. No club will be organized by anybody except the stockholders themselves. The Wednesday night appeals will give you your chance to become one of its club owners and command a voice in baseball operations in the Twin Cities.

So, when Lawrence Gibbs of KMLB, Harry Arthur of KNOE, Lloyd Goodin of KLIC, and the television sportscasters, Pete Linton or Bill Cook or Joe Milner of KFAZ, and Arthur again for KNOE-TV begin feeding their public service programs Wednesday night, be ready to answer them in the only way you can for the sake of baseball. Buy a share of stock. Or, better still, purchase several shares.

One of the finest minor league parks in the nation is situated here at Bernstein Park. Legion Memorial Stadium was built by the people of the Twin Cities with their personal donations five years ago. This stadium is in better condition today, what with annual improvements, than it was the day baseball returned to the Twin Cities in 1950.

We wonder if it is good for the civic pride to turn such a baseball plant over to the weeds and ravages of time, thus wasting all the thousands of dollars that went into making this baseball plant possible, than to help this proposed baseball club on its way so that it may preserve this park and retain for us this game so rightfully termed "the national pastime."

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA, Nov. 7 (AP)—Billy Teas, a skinny-legged speedster, and an erratic but touchdown-producing air game boosted Georgia Tech to a 20-7 victory today over a big Clemson team brilliantly quarterbacked by sophomore Don King.

Teas, a junior from Andrews, N. C., continually collected good gains on his favorite play, a sweep of his left end. He set up Tech's tie-breaking touchdown in the third quarter with a 55-yard punt return and gained more than 100 yards from scrimmage.

After the tough, 162-pound halfback had lugged the punt back to Clemson's 17, quarterback Pepper Rodgers sneaked for a yard, then passed to Dave Davis in the end zone. Earlier Tech had marched 51 yards to tie the game, halfback Leon Hardeman sweeping 22 yards to the one and Rodgers sneaking over.

A 22-yard pass from Bill Brigman to Bill Sennett gave Tech an insurance touchdown in the third period.

Clemson's big line outplayed the sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets most of the first half and the King-led Tigers matched Tech's offense. King guided the Atlantic Coast Conference visitors 80 yards in eight plays after the opening kickoff. King sneaked it over from the two.

By J. C. MERRILL

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 7—(Special) — Northwestern State College's "water logged" Demons downed a game Northeast State College squad 7-0 this afternoon in Demon Stadium before a slim homecoming crowd.

A constant rain hampered the efforts of the two teams greatly as they consistently fumbled the slippery pigskin on the water-soaked turf.

Although coming out on the short end of the score, Northeast's Indians outplayed the home-standing Demons in every department. They outgained N.S.C. in yards rushing with 179 yards to the Demons 160 with big Lloyd Ray Smith doing most of the carrying and personally accounting for 88 of the 179 yards.

STATISTICS

Total yards gained	160	179
Total punts	7	6

For N.S.C. it was two Bossier City lads leading in the individual statistic department; Don Miller with 35 yards and Searle Walton with 33.

Northwestern State took the opening kickoff but fumbled the ball on their own 46 where the Indians took over. After failing to gain against th Demon defense, Northeast punted out of bounds on the N.S.C. 17.

Fleetfooted Millen carried on the first two plays from scrimmage and made two consecutive first downs before the purple and white attack bogged down on their own 46.

Taking the N.S.C. punt on their 18-yard stripe, Northeast's Smith picked up two first downs before their drive also faded out on the 35. Halfback Maurice Nix's boot was partially blocked by Demon end Ted Simon and the loose sphere sailed only 10 yards where Clyde Chesson took it and returned to the 37 from which it came.

This was the break N.S.C. had been waiting for as they started a touchdown drive with Millen, Walton, and James McNew carrying the ball to the Indian two. One rushing play found the wet pigskin on the one inch line where Walton plunged over left tackle for the game's only tally. Allen Langridge's attempt at the extra point was good and made the score 7-0 at the end of the first quarter.

The ball was handed back and forth in the second quarter with N.S.C. losing a golden opportunity to score late in the period when they fumbled on the Indian's 17.

After a short halftime period, N.S.C. came charging back but a stubborn Northeast defense held on and limited the Demons to only one first down during the entire second half while chalking up four for themselves.

It was Northwestern State's fifth win of the current season and their fourth in Gulf States Conference play to keep their championship hopes alive.

Duke-Navy Play Scoreless Tie On Muddy Field

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Duke and Navy held off each other to a scoreless football tie today in the mud of Memorial Stadium in a game which produced disagreement over whether Duke was deprived of a fourth down.

The official statistician, Mel Schilling, and the other press box reporters claimed Duke got only three downs on a series during the third quarter.

But Referee Leroy J. Kelley and Field Judge Henry D. Hormel claimed that Navy had declined a first down penalty of backfield in motion. The statistician said the five-yard penalty was paced off, so the down didn't count. Duke then tried three pass plays and gave up the ball to Navy.

Bill Murray, Duke coach, said at first he thought also it was only third down on the third pass. But was assured by the officials it was fourth.

"I am sure they called it right," Murray said.

Spartans' 157-Lb. Back Beats Buckeyes, 28-13

By TED SMITS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 7 — Leroy Bolden, 157-pound halfback personally knocked Ohio State out of the Big Ten championship contention today as he led Michigan State to a 28-13 victory.

Bolden scored three Michigan State touchdowns, two of them on runs of 20 and 37 yards during which he repeatedly shook off the heavy Ohio State tacklers.

The victory, achieved before 82,328 fans, in cold and gloomy weather, gave Michigan State a Big Ten standing of four victories against one defeat, and kept alive their championship hopes.

Ohio State's two touchdowns were made on explosive marches powered by Howard (Hopalong) Cassady and Bobby Watkins.

Michigan State scored first on a steady march down the field with Bolden carrying over from the 3. Ohio State struck back at the start of the second quarter with Watkins smashing 16 yards through the line for the touchdown.

A few moments later Bolden burst away for 37 yards and a touchdown, dragging three Ohio State men the last 15 yards.

Cassady made it 14-13 at the start of the second halfwith a pretty 18-yard pass to Tom Hague, but Bolden led a fourth period march down the field and crashed his way for 20 yards and the touchdown—although hit by six or seven tacklers.

In the closing moments Tom Yewcic tossed a 15-yard pass to Ellis Duckett for the fourth and final touchdown.

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 7 (AP)—Oklahoma A. and M. made a 72-yard drive in th third quarter pay off with the winning touchdown to overcome Wyoming and its brilliant sophomore tailback Joe Mastrogiovanni 20-14 here today.

An Aggie homecoming crowd of 19,000 sat in 39-degree weather and watched A. and M.'s 13-0 lead wiped out by Mastrogiovanni's passing, running and kicking.

Mastrogiovanni, the nation's leading yardage gainer who is only 5-6 but weighs 200 pounds, was just able to pick up 41 yards rushing against the Aggies but took to the air for 179 yards, completing 8 of 23 passes. The Brooklyn boy also kicked both extra points.

Notre Dame Squeezes By Penn; Texas Upsets Baylor

Lattner's Dashes Enable Irish To Score 28-20 Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP) — All-America Johnny Lattner, returning one kickoff for 92 yards and setting up two other scores with spectacular runs, saved Notre Dame's unbeaten record today as the nation's No. 1 college football team downed the surprisingly rugged Pennsylvania eleven, 28-20, in a bruising intersectional game at Franklin Field.

The Irish halfback from Chicago's West Side also intercepted a pass in his end zone in the last period when the Quakers were threatening for a fourth touchdown.

It was the toughest battle of the year for the men of South Bend and Coach Frank Leahy, returning to his duties after a two-week siege of illness.

The partisan, sellout crowd of ...711 was treated to a stirring performance as Penn, a 19-point underdog, fought the vaunted Irish on almost even terms.

Ed Gramigna, Penn quarterback, had his greatest day in passing and fullback Joe Varaitis and halfback Bob Felver ran like berserk bulls through the Irish defense that had cowed all other foes.

Lattner's 92-yard touchdown run with a kickoff came in the first period after Penn had stung the top-ranked Irish with a quick opening touchdown. His great run set off a touchdown reaction for the South Benders who added two more within the space of 10 minutes. Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi scored from three yards after a ...yard drive and sub quarterback ...n Schaefer added another on a ...-yard sneak on the first play of the second period.

This score followed a 35-yard punt return by the elusive Lattner and a 38-yard crunching march by Notre Dame's modern version of the Four Horsemen.

Lattner also set up the Irish's final score by twisting 56 yards on a punt return early in the third period. This carried the ball to the Penn 26 and two plays later Guglielmi threw a 23-yard scoring pass to halfback Joe Heap.

Two of Penn's touchdowns were ...ckies opening each of the halves.

Kentucky Steams Past Vanderbilt By 40-14 Margin

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 7 (AP)—Kentucky overpowered an improved Vanderbilt football team for three quarters today and coasted to a 40-14 Southeastern Conference victory before a chilled crowd of 26,000.

The Wildcats, shooting for a spot in the post-season bowl picture, drove for single touchdowns in the first and second quarters and three more in the third period to take a 34-0 lead before the Commodores could solve the Kentucky defense.

Then Vanderbilt struck twice in the final quarter to shorten the gap before Kentucky put across the last counter. The final Wildcat tally was registered in the last ... seconds, climaxing a 60-yard march.

Coach Paul Bryant used his Kentucky reserves liberally after the starters put the Wildcats ahead. ...o Hardy, playing his first season of varsity football, directed the Kentucky offense like a veteran while he was in the game, and scored his team's first three touchdowns and three extra points. Dick Rushing tallied Kentucky's last touchdown in the final half minute to wind up a 60-yard march.

3 Title Fights For Week

OVER THE TOP — When George Galuska couldn't go around or through the Brigham Young line, the Wyoming back went over the top headfirst at Laramie. The Cowboys' star scored three times, leading his team to a 27-0 win. (NEA)

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, Jimmy Carter and Jimmy Carruthers will defend their world boxing crowns within 48 hours this week in the tightest concentration of title bouts since the four-star "carnival of champions" in 1937.

Carter, the lightweight champ, goes to the post first against Armand Savoie of Montreal at the Montreal Forum Wednesday night. Gavilan risks his welter title against Johnny Bratton of Chicago at Chicago Stadium Friday and Carruthers defends the Bantam championship against Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C. at Sydney, Australia on the same day.

All three champs are favored to continue their reigns. Carter is about 5 to 1, a lopsided choice, Gavilan 8 to 5 and Carruthers at least 2 to 1 in Australia.

Only one of the title bouts will be seen on television in the United States, the Gavilan-Bratton 15-rounder from Chicago at 9 p.m. CST. The radio outlet is ABC and the television NBC as on all Friday nights. The Chicago area, however, will be blacked out.

Originally the Carter-Savoie bout was to have been seen on the Wednesday TV show but technical difficulties knocked it out. Instead a Willie Troy-Randy Sandy middleweight go in Washington, D. C., will be seen.

There is much interest in Gavilan's third defense of the year because he was knocked down by Carmen Basilio and hard pressed to win, Sept. 18 when he last put his title on the line at Syracuse, N. Y. The Cuban Keed has trouble making the weight for Basilio, paring off eight pounds in two weeks.

Gavilan won his title by beating Bratton at New York, May 18, 1951. The National Boxing Association had recognized Bratton after he whipped Charlie Fusari. Gavilan and Bratton met again in a non-title ten that ended in a draw at Chicago, Nov. 28, 1951. This will be the kid's third defense this year. He knocked out Chuck Davey in February and won a split decision over Basilio.

Carter also will be fighting his third championship bout of the year. The stocky little fellow knocked out Tommy Collins in Boston and stopped George Araujo at New York but lost three of five over-the-weight bouts to Eddie Chavez, Johnny Cunningham and Savoie. The Savoie fight, at Montreal, Feb. 16, was a tight fit. All three officials voted 5-4-1 with two for Savoie and one for Carter. Savoie is ranked No. 6 among the lightweight challengers in the latest ring ratings.

Carruthers will be making his first home appearance as champion of the 118-pound division. He won the title by knocking out Vic Toweel in South Africa last year and defended against Towell, winning by a knockout, last may at Johannesburg.

Gault held the North American Bantam crown until he was defeated by Billy Peacock at Brooklyn, Aug. 17. He is ranked No. 2 among the challengers, behind Robert Cohen of France.

Oklahoma Shades Battling Missouri Bengals, 14 To 7

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 7 — Oklahoma stopped a Missouri threat early in the fourth quarter, then drove 80 yards for a 14-7 victory that moved the Sooners almost within the backyard of the Orange Bowl and their sixth straight Big Seven championship.

Oklahoma, in stretching its string of victories in the Big Seven Conference to 39 games, did it the hard way before an estimated 30,000 fans in crisp, clear weather.

Missouri had the greater number of scoring chances, but the game Tigers couldn't move the ball in the clutches.

The winning drive started after Missouri sophomore Ray Detring missed a field goal attempt from the Oklahoma 25-yard line. The Tigers had moved the ball from their own 39 to the Oklahoma 17 on rushing plays before switching to an unsuccessful aerial game.

Oklahoma used 16 yard-knocking plays to score the winner. Larry Grigg, who made the Sooners' first touchdown on a six-yard slant in the first quarter, went over on a wide pitchout on fourth down for the second score.

Florida Follows Dickey In Defeat Of Georgia, 21-7

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 7 —Doug Dickey, Florida's senior quarterback who lost his starting job to sophomore Harry Speers a month ago, returned to a starring role today, passing for one touchdown and running for another to give Florida a 21-7 victory over Georgia.

Dickey also took a personal hand in checking the nation's No. 1 passing and receiving combination of Zeke Bratkowski and John Carson.

Bratkowski managed to connect with Gene White, his other end, for a touchdown, but it was far short of his usual production and Florida found the Georgia defense every bit as vulnerable as other teams have this season to roll up a big ground yardage of 262.

Dickey, after breaking up a Bratkowski pass in the Florida end zone, quarterbacked the Gators 94 yards to the first touchdown. He passed 22 yards to Jack O'Brien for the score. Speers got his hand in on the second Florida touchdown, intercepting a Bratkowski pass deep in Georgia territory. Joe Brodsky, freshman fullback, score on a one-yard plunge.

Dickey then came back to run a 55-yard march that he capped by dashing across the goal from a yard away. Speers kicked all three conversions, and Joe Graff made one for Georgia.

Maryland's Line Shines In March To Victory No. 8

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Maryland's magnificent linemen wore down a stubborn George Washington team today, clearing the way for a second half rush that netted the Terrapins their eighth straight victory, 27-6.

G.W., a 28-point underdog, made a real game of it for the first half, leaving the field trailing only 7-6. But a pair of defensive gems by Maryland produced two quick touchdowns in the third quarter and that was the ball game.

End Bill Walker raced in and partially blocked Bill Weaver's punt early in the second half and Maryland took over on the G.W. 35. Two plays later, speedy Chet Hanulak pulled off one of his specialties, a long distance touchdown run. This one went for 32 yards.

Less than four minutes later, Maryland scored again. Weaver fumbled a pitchout on his 10 and Maryland's quarterback, Bernie Faloney, dropped on it. It took Maryland four whacks at the G.W. defenses before Faloney sneaked over from the 2.

Except for a 69-yard drive through the tiring George Washington defense by Maryland's second team in the final period, the Terps' attack thereafter was largely contained. Linebacker Steve Korcheck, a 60-minute player, and end George Dancu performed most of G.W.'s defensive heroics.

Longhorns Frost Bruin Bowl Hopes With 21-20 Defeat

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—Clutch passing by Texas quarterback Charley Brewer, on the heels of Baylor fumbles, toppled Baylor from the undefeated, untied ranks, 21-20 today and catapulted Texas into a first-place tie in the Southwest Conference race.

The gifted toe of Texas' extra-point man, Phil Branch, was the difference.

Unimpressed by Baylor's No. 3 national ranking in the Associated Press football poll, Texas played giant killer for the second time in five years against a Baylor team that entered the contest with an unblemished record.

Though Baylor remained in first place along with Texas, the defeat cast gloom over the Bear's hopes for their first championship in 29 years.

The bruising contest, reminiscent of last year's 35-33 Texas triumph in a touchdown swap-out, saw Texas take the lead early in the first quarter.

Baylor went ahead on a seven-yard sprint by Dupre but Texas came right back on a one-yard plunge by Womack and took the lead for keeps as Branch made a second conversion 11 seconds before the half.

Score by quarters:

Notre Dame Squeezes By Penn; Texas Upsets Baylor

[L]attner's Dashes [E]nable Irish To [S]core 28-20 Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP) — [All]-America Johnny Lattner, re[tur]ning one kickoff for 92 yards [an]d setting up two other scores [wi]th spectacular runs, saved Notre [Da]me's unbeaten record today as [the] nation's No. 1 college football [te]am downed the surprisingly [ru]gged Pennsylvania eleven, 28-20, [in] a bruising intersectional game [at] Franklin Field.

[T]he Irish halfback from Chi[ca]go's West Side also intercepted [a] pass in his end zone in the last [pe]riod when the Quakers were [thr]eatening for a fourth touch[do]wn.

[I]t was the toughest battle of the [yea]r for the men of South Bend [an]d Coach Frank Leahy, returning [to] his duties after a two-week [sie]ge of illness.

[T]he partisan, sellout crowd of [...]711 was treated to a stirring [per]formance as Penn, a 19-point [un]derdog, fought the vaunted Irish [on] almost even terms.

[E]d Gramigna, Penn quarter[ba]ck, had his greatest day in pass[ing] and fullback Joe Varaitis and [hal]fback Bob Felver ran like ber[ser]k bulls through the Irish de[fen]se that had cowed all other foes.

[L]attner's 92-yard touchdown run [wi]th a kickoff came in the first [pe]riod after Penn had stung the [top]-ranked Irish with a quick open[ing] touchdown. His great run set [off] a touchdown reaction for the [So]uth Benders who added two [mo]re within the space of 10 min[ute]s. Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi [sc]ored from three yards after a [..]-yard drive and sub quarterback [To]m Schaefer added another on a [..]-yard sneak on the first play [of] the second period.

[T]his score followed a 35-yard [pu]nt return by the elusive Lattner [an]d a 38-yard crunching march by [No]tre Dame's modern version of [the] Four Horsemen.

[L]attner also set up the Irish's [fin]al score by twisting 56 yards [on] a punt return early in the third [pe]riod. This carried the ball to the [Pe]nn 26 and two plays later Gug[lie]lmi threw a 23-yard scoring pass [to] halfback Joe Heap.

[N]ASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 7 (AP)— [Ke]ntucky overpowered an im[pro]ved Vanderbilt football team [for] three quarters today and [coa]sted to a 40-14 Southeastern [Co]nference victory before a chilled [cro]wd of 26,000.

[T]he Wildcats, shooting for a [spo]t in the post-season bowl pic[tur]e, drove for single touchdowns [in] the first and second quarters [an]d three more in the third pe[rio]d to take a 34-0 lead before [the] Commodores could solve the [Ke]ntucky defense.

[T]hen Vanderbilt struck twice in [the] final quarter to shorten the [ga]p before Kentucky put across [its] last counter. The final Wildcat [tal]ly was registered in the last [..] seconds, climaxing a 60-yard [ma]rch.

[C]oach Paul Bryant used his Ken[tuc]ky reserves liberally after the [sta]rters put the Wildcats ahead. [Bo]b Hardy, playing his first sea[son] of varsity football, directed [the] Kentucky offense like a veter[an] while he was in the game, [an]d scored his team's first three [tou]chdowns and three extra points. [D]ick Rushing tallied Kentucky's [las]t touchdown in the final half [mi]nute to wind up a 60-yard [ma]rch.

3 Title Fights For Week

OVER THE TOP — When George Galuska couldn't go around or through the Brigham Young line, the Wyoming back went over the top headfirst at Laramie. The Cowboys' star scored three times, leading his team to a 27-0 win. (NEA)

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, Jimmy Carter and Jimmy Carruthers will defend their world boxing crowns within 48 hours this week in the tightest concentration of title bouts since the four-star "carnival of champions" in 1937.

Carter, the lightweight champ, goes to the post first against Armand Savoie of Montreal at the Montreal Forum Wednesday night. Gavilan risks his welter title against Johnny Bratton of Chicago at Chicago Stadium Friday and Carruthers defends the Bantam championship against Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C. at Sydney, Australia on the same day.

All three champs are favored to continue their reigns. Carter is about 5 to 1, a lopsided choice, Gavilan 8 to 5 and Carruthers at least 2 to 1 in Australia.

Only one of the title bouts will be seen on television in the United States, the Gavilan-Bratton 15-rounder from Chicago at 9 p.m. CST. The radio outlet is ABC and the television NBC as on all Friday nights. The Chicago area, however, will be blacked out.

Originally the Carter-Savoie bout was to have been seen on the Wednesday TV show but technical difficulties knocked it out. Instead a Willie Troy-Randy Sandy middleweight go in Washington, D. C., will be seen.

There is much interest in Gavilan's third defense of the year because he was knocked down by Carmen Basilio and hard pressed to win, Sept. 18 when he last put his title on the line at Syracuse, N. Y. The Cuban Keed has trouble making the weight for Basilio, paring off eight pounds in two weeks.

Gavilan won his title by beating Bratton at New York, May 18, 1951. The National Boxing Association had recognized Bratton after he whipped Charlie Fusari. Gavilan and Bratton met again in a non-title ten that ended in a draw at Chicago, Nov. 28, 1951. This will be the kid's third defense this year. He knocked out Chuck Davey in February and won a split decision over Basilio.

Carter also will be fighting his third championship bout of the year. The stocky little fellow knocked out Tommy Collins in Boston and stopped George Araujo at New York but lost three of five over-the-weight bouts to Eddie Chavez, Johnny Cunningham and Savoie. The Savoie fight, at Montreal, Feb. 16, was a tight fit. All three officials voted 5-4-1 with two for Savoie and one for Carter. Savoie is ranked No. 6 among the lightweight challengers in the latest ring ratings.

Carruthers will be making his first home appearance as champion of the 118-pound division. He won the title by knocking out Vic Toweel in South Africa last year and defended against Towell, winning by a knockout, last may at Johannesburg.

Gault held the North American Bantam crown until he was defeated by Billy Peacock at Brooklyn, Aug. 17. He is ranked No. 2 among the challengers, behind Robert Cohen of France.

Oklahoma Shades Battling Missouri Bengals, 14 To 7

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 7 — Oklahoma stopped a Missouri threat early in the fourth quarter, then drove 80 yards for a 14-7 victory that moved the Sooners almost within the backyard of the Orange Bowl and their sixth straight Big Seven championship.

Oklahoma, in stretching its string of victories in the Big Seven Conference to 39 games, did it the hard way before an estimated 30,000 fans in crisp, clear weather.

Missouri had the greater number of scoring chances, but the game Tigers couldn't move the ball in the clutches.

The winning drive started after Missouri sophomore Ray Detring missed a field goal attempt from the Oklahoma 25-yard line. The Tigers had moved the ball from their own 39 to the Oklahoma 17 on rushing plays before switching to an unsuccessful aerial game.

Oklahoma used 16 yard-knocking plays to score the winner. Larry Grigg, who made the Sooners' first touchdown on a six-yard slant in the first quarter, went over on a wide pitchout on fourth down for the second score.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma	7	0	0	7	—14
Missouri	0	7	0	0	— 7

Washington State Put Down In Last Quarter By Frogs

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 7 (AP)—Ronald Clinkscale, a speedy halfback, helped Texas Christian to two fourth-period touchdowns today for a 21-7 victory over Washington State.

The Horned Frogs, breaking a five-game losing streak, spotted Washington State a 7-0 lead in the second quarter, tied it by halftime and then went comfortably ahead in the last 15 minutes.

Clinkscale, who can run the 100-yard dash in :9.6, zipped through the Cougars for runs of 14 and 32 yards in a 52-yard scoring march and a minute later hit Don Stanford with a 22-yard touchdown pass.

A W.S.C. fumble gave T.C.U. the chance for its third score and the Cougars didn't have time or talent to make a comeback.

Interceptions Help Colorado Beat Utah

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 7 (AP)—Grabbing Utah passes like they were their own, Colorado's Buffaloes turned two of them into touchdowns in spinning a 21-0 football triumph over Utah today.

Halfback Carroll Hardy ran four yards for one Colorado score, passed 24 yards to end Gary Kfafelc for another and set up the third with a 22-yard interception to Utah's three.

Florida Follows Dickey In Defeat Of Georgia, 21-7

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 7 —Doug Dickey, Florida's senior quarterback who lost his starting job to sophomore Harry Speers a month ago, returned to a starring role today, passing for one touchdown and running for another to give Florida a 21-7 victory over Georgia.

Dickey also took a personal hand in checking the nation's No. 1 passing and receiving combination of Zeke Bratkowski and John Carson.

Bratkowski managed to connect with Gene White, his other end, for a touchdown, but it was far short of his usual production and Florida found the Georgia defense every bit as vulnerable as other teams have this season to roll up a big ground yardage of 262.

Dickey, after breaking up a Bratkowski pass in the Florida end zone, quarterbacked the Gators 94 yards to the first touchdown. He passed 22 yards to Jack O'Brien for the score. Speers got his hand in on the second Florida touchdown, intercepting a Bratkowski pass deep in Georgia territory. Joe Brodsky, freshman fullback, score on a one-yard plunge.

Dickey then came back to run a 55-yard march that he capped by dashing across the goal from a yard away. Speers kicked all three conversions, and Joe Graff made one for Georgia.

Maryland's Line Shines In March To Victory No. 8

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Maryland's magnificent linemen wore down a stubborn George Washington team today, clearing the way for a second half rush that netted the Terrapins their eighth straight victory, 27-6.

G.W., a 28-point underdog, made a real game of it for the first half, leaving the field trailing only 7-6. But a pair of defensive gems by Maryland produced two quick touchdowns in the third quarter and that was the ball game.

End Bill Walker raced in and partially blocked Bill Weaver's punt early in the second half and Maryland took over on the G.W. 35. Two plays later, speedy Chet Hanulak pulled off one of his specialties, a long distance touchdown run. This one went for 32 yards.

Less than four minutes later, Maryland scored again. Weaver fumbled a pitchout on his 10 and Maryland's quarterback, Bernie Faloney, dropped on it. It took Maryland four whacks at the G.W. defenses before Faloney sneaked over from the 2.

Except for a 69-yard drive through the tiring George Washington defense by Maryland's second team in the final period, the Terps' attack thereafter was largely contained. Linebacker Steve Korcheck, a 60-minute player, and end George Dancu performed most of G.W.'s defensive heroics.

Maryland	7	0	13	7	—27
George Washington	0	6	0	0	— 6

Mountaineers Get Scare Before Halting Gobblers

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—Unbeaten West Virginia, held scoreless for the first two periods, recovered to take a 12-7 Southern Conference football game from Virginia Tech today.

The seventh ranking Mountaineers came back from a 7-0 half-time deficit to score in the third and fourth quarters and boost the nation's longest winning streak to 13 victories.

Fullback Tommy Allman, 200-pound senior, scored both Mountaineer touchdowns. He went 40 yards to score on an off-tackle smash early in the fourth period, and bucked over from the one in the third quarter.

Five recovered fumbles and two pass interceptions kept the Gobblers in the game, but a strong ground attack netting 311 yards to Tech's 38 crushed the outweighed losers.

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 7 (AP)—University of Mississippi sophomore ran and passed for five touchdowns as Ole Miss trimmed North Texas State 4-7 today in a warm-up football game for Maryland next week.

North Texas drew first blood on a passing march featuring quarterback Bobby Hughes and End Norman Ingebrightsen. The drive was climaxed by Ralph Reynolds' 13-yard touchdown sweep. Gene Bahnsen convertel for the Texans.

The Mississippians scored two in the first with Houston Patton galloping 82 yards and McCool going eight; two more in third on Patton's 23-yard pass to Dave Dickerson and McCool's plunge from the one; and two in the final period on a five-yard run by Blair and a 14-yard dash by Harol Lofton. Jimmy Patton converted three times and Lea Paslay added the fourth.

Colgate Wins 19-12 Game From Bucknell

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Undaunted by a five-inch snowfall which made football a hazardous autumn occupation, Colgate slipped and slid its way to a 19-12 win over Bucknell today.

Colgate's Dick Lalla passed for two touchdowns and handed off for a third, completed five of nine pass attempts for 140 yards and played the full 60 minutes. He also turned in a strong defensive effort.

Longhorns Frost Bruin Bowl Hopes With 21-20 Defeat

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—Clutch passing by Texas quarterback Charley Brewer, on the heels of Baylor fumbles, toppled Baylor from the undefeated, untied ranks, 21-20 today and atapulted Texas into a first-place tie in the Southwest Conference race.

The gifted toe of Texas' extra-point man, Phil Branch, was the difference.

Unimpressed by Baylor's No. 3 national ranking in the Associated Press football poll, Texas played giant killer for the second time in five years against a Baylor team that entered the contest with an unblemished record.

Though Baylor remained in first place along with Texas, the defeat cast gloom over the Bear's hopes for their first championship in 29 years.

The bruising contest, reminiscent of last year's 35-33 Texas triumph in a touchdown swap-out, saw Texas take the lead early in the first quarter.

Baylor went ahead on a seven-yard sprint by Dupre but Texas came right back on a one-yard plunge by Womack and took the lead for keeps as Branch made a second conversion 11 seconds before the half.

Score by quarters:

Texas	7	7	7	0	—21
Baylor	6	7	0	7	—20

Parker Wizardry Sparks Maroons In 21-0 Triumph

By JAMES SAGGUS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7 (AP) — Quarterback Jackie Parker scored one touchdown, passed for another and engineered a brutal ground attack in leading fired-up Mississippi State to a 21-0 football victory over Tulane today.

Parker showed ball-handling genius and clever running in directing two scoring drives in the first half and one in the second. He made State the aggressor throughout the Southeastern Conference battle as his team monopolized the ball.

State ground out 412 yards rushing in 69 tries. Tulane made only 36 attempts, gaining 145 yards.

Evans capped a 68-yard drive with the opening kickoff with a 37-yard touchdown run over tackle. Parker scored in the second period on a 7-yard keep play and passed 7 to end John Katusa for a fourth quarter score. Parker added all three conversions.

Tulane showed only flashes of the brilliant play that brought a scoreless tie with Army last week. It got the ball only three times in the first quarter, fumbling it away on two occasions.

State's first scoring drive required only seven plays, with Evans doing most of the damage on knifing thrusts through the line. He carried three times and picked up 60 yards.

Tulane showed offensive ability in the first quarter with Max McGee bowling over tackle and guard to spark a 39-yard drive that carried to the State 16, where he fumbled.

State's second touchdown required only five plays to cover 45 yards. Morris ran 37 on the first play after Tulane punted to its 45. The score came when Parker faked, kept the ball and swept end for the last 7.

The last State score followed a short Tulane punt and capped a 27-yard drive. Parker made runs of 10, 5 and 2 yards before passing to Katusa for the score.

Score by quarters:

Miss. State	7	7	0	7—21

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—South Carolina ground out a dull 18-0 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory against North Carolina today before a Boy Scout-padded crowd of 23,000. It was South Carolina's first victory over North Carolina since 1944.

A one-yard "bootleg" run by quarterback Johnny Gramling opened the scoring late in the first period.

Caroline Breaks Grange's Record As Illinois Wins

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—Spectacular J. C. Caroline, skittish sophomore halfback, shattered the 30-year-old yardage-making record of Illinois' immortal Red Grange today in leading the unbeaten Illini to a 19-3 Big Ten homecoming victory over Michigan.

Performing before 71,193 cheering fans, the 185-pound Negro rookie from Columbia, S.C., rushed 184 yards in 30 carries for a 6.1 average and picked up 66 more yards on three punt returns.

The accomplishment boosted his total yards in all departments of play to 1,354 in seven games. Grange, as a sophomore in 1923, collected 1,260 yards in over-all action—an unofficial conference record.

Caroline, the nation's leading ground gainer, now has treaked 1,075 yards on rushing alone for the season, including 738 in four Big Ten games, only 36 short of the official conference rushing mark set by Wisconsin's Alan Ameche in a seven-game 1951 season.

Illinois scored on three long drives today. Mickey Bates, another sophomore running demon, punched over for two touchdowns to increase his season total to 11.

Illinois triumph, its sixth of the season after a 21-21 opening tie with Nebraska, marks the fourth successive year it has defeated Michigan.

Rams, Forty-Niners Meet In Day's Big Pro Scrap

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 —The Los Angeles Rams, a half step ahead in the close race for the Western Conference title in the National Football League, take on the only team that has beaten them this season in tomorrow's headline game.

The Rams, with five victories and one defeat, encounter the San Francisco 49ers and a hugh crowd is assured at the Los Angeles Coliseum. In their previous meeting, San Francisco won, 31-30, on a field goal in the last six seconds of play. Tomorrow's game figures to be almost as close, with Los Angeles favored to win on its home field.

The 49ers have won four games and lost two—both to the Detroit Lions—but their place in the standings going into Sunday's game depended on the outcome of the Saturday night television clash between Detroit and the Baltimore colts.

The Cleveland Browns, Eastern Conference leaders and the league's only unbeaten team, play at home against the Pittsburgh Steelers, third in the division. The second-place Philadelphia Eagles take on the New York Giants, who haven't beaten anyone but the hapless Chicago Cardinals, and the Cardinals go to Washington to meet the Redskins. The other game brings together the trailers of the Western Conference, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears.

The Pittsburgh - Cleveland and New York - Philadelphia games are the openers of more of the close - together home - and - home bookings that have proved popular with the fans this season. The teams will come back at each other within two or three weeks. They're also renewals of neighborhood rivalries that have produced some stirring and surprising results in the past. The Packers-Bears contest renews one of the league's oldest rivalries, dating back to 1921.

Pittsburgh never has beaten Cleveland in six attempts and doesn't figure to take Otto Graham and Co. tomorrow.But under similar conditions last season, the Browns had to settle for a pair of one-point victories.

Philadelphia really has been rolling in its recent games, but the Giants should be better if ex-soldier Arnold Galiffa has learned his lessons. It was Galiffa who pitched the touchdown pass to Kyle Rote in the last 20 seconds to beat the Cardinals last week.

The Redskins whipped the Cardinals, 24-13, in their first meeting this season—one of Washington's two victories. The Bears' only triumph in six starts was a 17-13 decision over the Packers, gained on a pass in the last three minutes to play.

Army Has Tough Day Earning Win From N. C. State

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—A superior Army football team crushed North Carolina State today, 27-7, but not before it had wasted three or four scoring chances and the losers Eddie West had made himself the star of the game.

West, a tall, 19-year-old sophomore from Alexandria, Va., looked like the best player on the field to the scant crowd of 9,400. He sprinted 63 yards returning a punt for State's only touchdown, passed brilliantly, ran well on other plays, punted and made plenty of tackles in his safety role.

But the great one-man performance wasn't enough to overcome Army's superior team speed and strength and defensive alertness.

Ponies Stampede Texas Aggies For 23 To 0 Triumph

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 7 (AP)—Southern Methodist smashed through a cold drizzling rain to a 23-0 victory over Texas A. and M. today to remain in the Southwest Conference football race.

The Methodists, with Don Miller and Frank Eidom battering the line and Duane Nutt throwing passes, had the Aggies back up in their end of the field so much they felt strange when, in the final minute, they managed to drive to the Methodist 18 against S.M.U. reserves. There they tried four wild passes as time ran out.

S.M.U. scored in the first two minutes, recovering a foozled handoff on the Aggie 21. A 17-yard pass from Nutt to Ed Bernet brought the touchdown.

Sam Stollenwerck kicked a field goal from the Aggie 15 early in the fourth period. Shortly afterward Aggie pass interference set S.M.U. on the Aggie eight and in two tried Eidom rammed over for a touchdown. Then in the fading minutes the Methodists stormed 41 yards for another touchdown which John Marshall made in a plunge from one foot out.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—Quarterback Dave Woolwine flipped a 23-yard touchdown pass to halfback Johnny Mapp in the last 56 seconds today to give Virginia Military Institute's Keydets a come-from behind 20-19 victory over William and Mary. It spoiled the Indians' chances for a share in the Southern Conference football title.

Trailing by 19-14 with three minutes left, the Keydets moved 70 yards in that length of time, wholly on Woolwine's passing, to hand William and Mary the surprise defeat—its first in conference play and only its second of the season.

Mobley, Massey Grapple Steele, Dusek Tag Team

A wrestling tag-team match is on tap at Kallio's Arena uesday night for the first time in many weeks, when Jack "Stinger" Steele teams up withnewcomer Danny Dusek against Rex Mobley and Al Massey. The match will be 90 minutes time limit, with two falls to win. Two short matches, of the one fall-ten minute time limit variety, between opposing team members, will open the program.

Nothing much is known about Dusek, other than he is one of the famous Dusek wrestling brothers; has appeared in Shreveport for many matches; and was scheduled to fight here several weeks ago, but couldn't make it. Teamed up with notorious villain Steele, against two such popular grapplers as Massey and Mobley, there can be little doubt of his style.

His partner, "Stinger", who has been arousing the fans' ire for the past several Tuesday nights at the Arena, is a rough and ready matman against all style opponents, and even had Massey, a big tough guy, tied up most of their bout last week, before the latter won on a third fall punch. Steele, who has learned his wrestling the hard way, is a barnstormer who claims fancy college wrestlers are his special dish. "Stinger" left his farm home in Iowa to challenge and beat a carnival "take-all-comers" after trying every night for two months; and later took the losers' place, wrestling or boxing all challengers, which usually figured 15 to 20 opponents daily. When the off-season came, Steele finally got a place on a Kansas City wrestling card, made a hit, and has been in the business ever since.

At any rate, Arena fans can see he is a wrestling vet, and handles most Arena opponents in an experienced manner.

Massey and Mobley, two grim-faced huskies, usually sticking to the legal wrestling code, particularly the latter, are popular with local fans, but will undoubtedly have their hands full Tuesday with their relay opponents.

Loy Scarbrough, sheriff's deputy and regular boxing referee, who has had no wrestling officiating experience except with the easy-to-handle midgets a few weeks back, will try his hand with the big boys Tuesday night, refereeing the two preliminary matches, the first of which begins at 8:15. Bill Barney will handle the tag match.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Marquette sent Ron Drezewiecki off tackle for a 56-yard touchdown run the first time it had the ball, then set up a tough defense to shut out the University of Detroit for the first time in 57 straight games, 19-0, today.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Minnesota swung a three-touchdown haymaker in the first half, then survived a sophomore-led Indiana comeback in the fourth quarter to down the gritty Indiana Hoosiers, 28-20.

Spearheaded by another patented Paul Giel performance, Minnesota threatened a runaway after mounting a 28-7 lead in the third quarter, but Indiana sophomores Tommy Cassidy, John Barkiewicz and Dave Rogers touched off a fighting resurgence in the final quarter.

Giel drove for two touchdowns, his sixth and seventh in the last three games and passed for a third before the Hoosiers launched their counter drive.

Cassidy, filling in for injured quarterback Florian Helinski, delivered telling passing strikes to set up the last-quarter Indiana touchdowns. Bartkiewicz, a fellow Chicagoan, and Rogers slammed over. Bartkiewicz scored from the one and Rogers from the two.

By JAMES SAGGUS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Quarterback Jackie Parker scored one touchdown, passed for another and engineered a brutal ground attack in leading fired-up Mississippi State to a 21-0 football victory over Tulane today.

Parker showed ball-handling genius and clever running in directing two scoring drives in the first half and one in the second. He made State the aggressor throughout the Southeastern Conference battle as his team monopolized the ball.

Evans capped a 68-yard drive with the opening kickoff with a 37-yard touchdown run over tackle. Parker scored in the second period on a 7-yard keep play and passed 7 to end John Katusa for a fourth quarter score. Parker added all three conversions.

Tulane showed only flashes of the brilliant play that brought a scoreless tie with Army last week. It got the ball only three times in the first quarter, fumbling it away on two occasions.

State's first scoring drive required only seven plays, with Evans doing most of the damage on knifing thrusts through the line. He carried three times and picked up 60 yards.

Tulane showed offensive ability in the first quarter with Max McGee bowling over tackle and guard to spark a 39-yard drive that carried to the State 16, where he fumbled.

State's second touchdown required only five plays to cover 45 yards. Morris ran 37 on the first play after Tulane punted to its 45. The score came when Parker faked, kept the ball and swept end for the last 7.

The last State score followed a short Tulane punt and capped a 27-yard drive. Parker made runs of 10, 5 and 2 yards before passing to Katusa for the score.

W And M Absorb 20-19 Loss To VMI's Passing

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—Quarterback Dave Woolwine flipped a 23-yard touchdown pass to halfback Johnny Mapp in the last 56 seconds today to give Virginia Military Institute's Keydets a come-from behind 20-19 victory over William and Mary. It spoiled the Indians' chances for a share in the Southern Conference football title.

Trailing by 19-14 with three minutes left, the Keydets moved 70 yards in that length of time, wholly on Woolwine's passing, to hand William and Mary the surprise defeat—its first in conference play and only its second of the season.

Mobley, Massey Grapple Steele, Dusek Tag Team

A wrestling tag-team match is on tap at Kallio's Arena uesday night for the first time in many weeks, when Jack "Stinger" Steele teams up withnewcomer Danny Dusek against Rex Mobley and Al Massey. The match will be 90 minutes time limit, with two falls to win. Two short matches, of the one fall-ten minute time limit variety, between opposing team members, will open the program.

Nothing much is known about Dusek, other than he is one of the famous Dusek wrestling brothers; has appeared in Shreveport for many matches; and was scheduled to fight here several weeks ago, but couldn't make it. Teamed up with notorious villain Steele, against two such popular grapplers as Massey and Mobley, there can be little doubt of his style.

His partner, "Stinger", who has been arousing the fans' ire for the past several Tuesday nights at the Arena, is a rough and ready man-man against all style opponents, and even had Massey, a big tough guy, tied up most of their bout last week, before the latter won on a third fall punch. Steele, who has learned his wrestling the hard way, is a barnstormer who claims fancy college wrestlers are his special dish. "Stinger" left his farm home in Iowa to challenge and beat a carnival "take-all-comers" after trying every night for two months; and later took the losers' place, wrestling or boxing all challengers, which usually figured 15 to 20 opponents daily. When the off-season came, Steele finally got a place on a Kansas City wrestling card, made a hit, and has been in the business ever since.

At any rate, Arena fans can see he is a wrestling vet, and handles most Arena opponents in an experienced manner.

Massey and Mobley, two grim-faced huskies, usually sticking to the legal wrestling code, particularly the latter, are popular with local fans, but will undoubtedly have their hands full Tuesday with their relay opponents.

Loy Scarbrough, sheriff's deputy and regular boxing referee, who has had no wrestling officiating experience except with the easy-to-handle midgets a few weeks back, will try his hand with the big boys Tuesday night, refereeing the two preliminary matches, the first of which begins at 8:15. Bill Barney will handle the tag match.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—Minnesota swung a three-touchdown haymaker in the first half, then survived a sophomore-led Indiana comeback in the fourth quarter to down the gritty Indiana Hoosiers, 28-20.

Spearheaded by another patented Paul Giel performance, Minnesota threatened a runaway after mounting a 28-7 lead in the third quarter, but Indiana sophomores Tommy Cassidy, John Bartkiewicz and Dave Rogers touched off a fighting resurgence in the final quarter.

Giel drove for two touchdowns, his sixth and seventh in the last three games and passed for a third before the Hoosiers launched their counter drive.

Cassidy, filling in for injured quarterback Florian Helinski, delivered telling passing strikes to set up the last-quarter Indiana touchdowns. Bartkiewicz, a fellow Chicagoan, and Rogers slammed over. Bartkiewicz scored from the one and Rogers from the two.

Score by quarters:

Indiana	0	7	0	13	—20
Minnesota	7	14	7	0	—28

COULDN'T BE anything else for here's a home with features like few in Monroe. It's a solid brick home on a 200x175' lot with a host of unusual features . . . 3 huge bedrooms all with double closets, central heat, tile bath with shower stall & tub; tremendous Roman brick fireplace; aluminum windows plus a double garage. The price is $23,000 . . . $6000 down

"DUM-DE-DUM-DUM"
I WAS standing the "day watch" out on Azalea Drive when it happened! I discovered a brand new brick home with these faultless features: 2 spacious bedrooms, tile bath with shower, gutters & downspouts, central heat, Roman brick fireplace & a garage with storage. The "plot" in this case is 112½x100! $2500 is all the "loot" it takes.

BEEN DYING
FOR A youthful 6-room home near a school? We've a dilly at 508 D'Arbonne, just a block from Sherrouse Grammar School. It has 2 bedrooms and a spacious den, separate living & dining room, 2 floor furnaces, 42" attic fan, solid walls with wallpaper and a garage. It's already financed, so let us show you today.

ON TV TODAY!
THIS ELEGANT home at 306 Hilton on the Northside will be the feature home on our KNOE-TV show at 12:30 today! But in case you miss it, here are just a few of the many distinctive features: 3 bedrooms (all have built-ins); spacious living room & separate dining room; roomy kitchen — screened breezeway, laundry room and the lot is 75'x150'. Here's true value

JUST LOOKIN'?
FINE! WE'RE FIRM believers in shopping around before buying a home.—So while you're lookin' let us show you a charmer at 1309 College Ave. It's an unrivaled 4½ room home with gleaming pecan floors; 36" attic fan; built-in bookcases in living room & there's a garage with a 6' x 20' storeroom. $1250 cash is all you need.

DIFFERENT?
YOU BET IT IS! And it's the price that makes it so. Take a gander at what $13,900 buys on Lexington in Marie Place: A new 3 bedroom home with 2 tile baths, Higgins block floors, central heat, pine-paneled kitchen with built-in breakfast nook, an ingenious carport 1512 Sq. feet in all. $2,000 cash is all it takes.

BASHFUL BUDGET?
IF YOU'VE GOT ONE . . . We've a delightful 5-room to fit it at 209 Circle Drive in W. M. Here's a captivating home on a 75 x 245' lot with these desirable features: both bedrooms are 12'x14; roomy closets; stove hood and a double sink. It's priced at $7250 with $1250 down. See it today.

ARE YOU THE ONE?
BEEN LOOKIN' for a new and discriminating home on the bayou? Well, we've a distinctive brick on Lakeshore Drive with a galaxy of advanced features! There are 3 bedrooms (all with double sliding door closets); 2 tile baths, crushed marble roof; mahogany paneled den; covered patio and an elegant fireplace & chimney. For a treat let us show you today.

MONEY TO BURN?
IF SO, YOU'RE in the wrong pew. . . . For here is a sensible buy in a new, 6-room brick home. It's only 7 months young and has these exciting features: Corner lot, natural woodwork, breezeway, colored bath fixtures and carport with storage. Call for appointment today.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!
COULDEN'T BE anything else for here's a home with features like few in Monroe. It's a solid brick home on a 200x175' lot with a host of unusual features . . . 3 huge bedrooms all with double closets, central heat, tile bath with shower stall & tub; tremendous Roman brick fireplace; aluminum windows plus a double garage. The price is $22,000 . . . $6000 down.

"DUM-DE-DUM-DUM"
I WAS standing the "day watch" out on Azalea Drive when it happened! I discovered a brand new brick home with these faultless features: 2 spacious bedrooms, tile bath with shower, gutters & downspouts, central heat, Roman brick fireplace & a garage with storage. The "plot" in this case is 112½x100! $2500 is all the "loot" it takes.

BEEN DYING
FOR A youthful 6-room home near a school? We've a dilly at 508 D'Arbonne, just a block from Sherrouse Grammar School. It has 2 bedrooms and a spacious den, separate living & dining room, 2 floor furnaces, 42" attic fan, solid walls with wallpaper and a garage. It's already financed, so let us show you today.

Speaker Supports Present Teacher Retirement Plan

The Monroe City Teachers' Association heard Mrs. Margaret Colvin, director of guidance for the State Department of Education, Tuesday at a meeting held at the Central Grammar School auditorium. Mrs. Elizabeth Blair, program chairman, presented Dean William Smith, Northeast Louisiana State College, who then introduced the guest speaker.

"Every child receives the benefit of $80,000 worth of teaching know-how and physical equipment during his pre - college training," Mrs. Colvin declared. To realize the greatest potential from this large investment, Mrs. Colvin suggested teachers must recognize that students have widely divergent educational characteristics and abilities which must be channeled into the most productive avenues To achieve this the department has organized and developed the guidance program, the chief purpose of which is to discover these differences and adapt them to the best interest of the child. In the upper 33 1-3 per cent of our youth only one out of five eligibles are attending institutions of higher learning. Another problem which Miss Colvin recognized as the duty of the public educational system is to prepare students for a longer period of mental activity and productivity.

"A development of great challenge to our educational system is the large transient population with which our regular static organization must contend. The problem has been squarely dumped into the laps of the teaching profession. Miss Colvin also stated that the working boy during his years of self - help needs closer supervision and personal understanding from our informed teaching groups. Delinquency and problems of mental health are always recognized by the experienced teacher, Mrs. Colvin maintained and she illustrated this with examples, describing the characteristics of the future delinquent in detail.

Mrs. Colvin closed with an enumeration of the services provided by the department. They are (1) orientation and pre - enrollment of pre - school children; (2) the child study program; (3) group guidance; (4) individual councilling by groups and by individuals. We cannot go on teaching as usual, she emphasized, but must mold our program to conform to new developments in the teaching field!

City Supt. of Schools, Van D. Odom forcibly laid down his views concerning the teacher system of retirement and assured his audience that his support and sympathies were wholeheartedly for the present retirement program.

Plans were formulated to send representatives to the legislature to state clearly the convictions of the Monroe City Teachers in regard to the teacher system of retirement. Appointed to contact the local state senator and representatives was a committee composed of Mrs. Alf Reid, Mrs. Elizabeth Byrd, and George Riser.

Open House At Lexington Avenue School Tuesday

Lexington Avenue School opens its doors Tuesday, November tenth from 7:00—9:00 p. m. in celebration of "American Education Week", and in honor of patrons and friends who have made the success and accomplishments of last year possible.

Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, the principal, and her teaching staff take this opportunity of inviting the public to meet their superintendent, school board, teachers (both classroom and supervisors) and all who are connected with this new elementary school situated in the Marie Place Addition.

After a social hour in the gymnasium, the children will act as guides. Groups will go to the respective rooms at which time superintendent of city schools, Mr. Van Odom will make a short talk over the new intercommunication system.

Opening for the first time in September 1952, Lexington Avenue Elementary School had an enrollment of 264 with nine members on the teaching staff. The 1953-54 session showed a marked enrollment increase to 314 with the addition of one classroom teacher.

The school is modern in every respect and equipped with all teaching aids, including library and reference books. To the Parent-Teachers Association, of which Mrs. Harold Brady is president and to her co-workers, goes much of the credit in establishing this as an accredited elementary school.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Gray Ladies Activities

The Gray Ladies at this time are looking forward to celebrating their fourth anniversary on November 12th with a luncheon at the Country Club.

Several Gray Ladies will be capped and those who have served one hundred or more hours will be given bars.

Adam Street Home: This home is visited weekly. The Gray Ladies secured a record player whereby all the guests can enjoy the music, even the bed-ridden guests in the annex. Cake, ice cream, cold drinks and fruit are served weekly. This home is for male guests only.

Cooley's Sanitorium: The Gray Ladies have been invited to visit this institution each Wednesday. Mrs. Irene DeLay has been named chairman with Miss Zelma Ouchley as co-chairman. Friday night, October 30th the Halloween party was given, which everyone enjoyed.

DeSiard Street Home: The usual weekly visits were made by the Gray Ladies, who brought magazines and two boxes of quilt scraps to each guest who desired them. Refreshments are served during each visit. On October 28th a birthday party was given with Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Seller as hostesses.

Jackson Street Home: Regular weekly visits were made to this home as usual, serving refreshments. Two of the men had birthdays during the month of October and the Gray Ladies gave each a pair of socks and a handkerchief. The City Bakery sent a beautiful cake and Mrs. Collins served coffee and everyone had a wonderful time.

Pine Street Home: This home, too, is visited weekly by the Gray Ladies, at which time refreshments are served and literature is passed out every week to those desiring same. Nobie, who is blind, is taken each week for a walk by one of the Gray Ladies. Shopping and errands are always done.

St. Joseph Home: The usual weekly visits are also made to this home. The monthly birthday party was celebrated by twelve guests, with seven ladies receiving a beautiful corsage donated by The Flower Shoppe, which act of kindness has been performed for several years, an act which the Gray Ladies and the many guests highly appreciate. We are also very grateful to McCarthy's Bakery for having donated birthday cakes each month over a long period. Birthday cards are always sent to guests. We also wrote several letters and did a great deal of shopping this month for the guests.

The Gray Ladies visit Mary Goss Home, The Home for Aged Colored. During the month of October we were accompanied by the Beta Delta Sorority and delivered magazines, candy, gum, fruit and cookies to each guest. Scriptures in the Bible were read and songs were rendered, closing with a prayer.

The rummage sale was a great success and we wish to thank all who made it possible. The proceed will be used to purchase Christmas gifts for all the guests at each home during the holidays.

We are so pleased to have several new Gray Ladies to help us serve the different homes.

Meeting Changed

Sherrouse Elementary P.-T. A. meeting which was scheduled for November 10, has been changed to Thursday, November 19. The meeting will be held at Sherrouse school and Father's Night will be observed. "Good Schools Don't Just Happen" and "Yardsticks for Schools" will be discussed.

Heavy celluloid attached to the wall behind the bathroom wash bowl will prevent water stains on the wall. This is especially helpful if there are youngsters in the home.

W. S. C. S. Of St. Paul's Church Makes Cookbook

The W. S. C. S. of St. Paul's Methodist church plans to publish their new cookbook, "Food", Sunday November 15.

Mrs. John Brown, chairman of the project, asserted that the book will be available through members of the W. S. C. S. of St. Paul and that funds derived from it will go toward furnishing the kitchen in the new building.

Started several months ago by members of the W. S. C. S., the cookbook contains recipes from outstanding cooks in the Twin Cities with a few out - of - town contributions.

Divided into sections, the cookbook features a patio division with suggested menus for the patio. In addition, there are sections on candies, jellies, breads, salads, salad dressings, meats and various other appetizing dishes.

The book also carries a number of household hints. A handmade burlap cover displaying a colorful doll and the word "Food" decorates the cookbook.

Mrs. Robert Clay has served as chairman of the cover. In charge of the advertising was Mrs. Paul Neal. Mrs. W. C. Ekholm has been chairman of the proofreading committee. All members of the W. S.-C. S. have worked to compile the book and make it available before the Christmas holidays.

It was pointed out that the book can be obtained through members of the St. Paul W. S. C. S.

'The American Home' Topic For Bono Nostrorum Club

The subject for the evening was "The American Home."

Due to the illness of the president, Mrs. Murray, Miss Ethel Watson, who is vice - president, called the meeting to order, and introduced the program chairman, Mrs. H. R. Boughton, chairman of American Home department. She reminded us that the most important single unit in the world is the home. She quoted Helen Hunt Jackson, who said, "A woman who creates and sustains a home and under whose hands children grow up to be strong and pure men and women is a creator second only to God." Herbert Hoover said "The most important unit of American life is the family and the home — It is the economic beginning of self-government. It is the spiritual energy of our people." Mrs. Boughton then introduced Mrs. B. N. Hixon, the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Hixon said her subject, "The American House of Today," was the place where the home is made, and that she would talk about the house that best suited the majority of the populace. The house should be designed for personal needs of the family, and to fit into the site on which it is placed. No two houses should be alike, as no two families were, and no two hands could wear the same gloves.

Houses should be designed to enrich family life, serve without demanding much service, offer complete shelter as well as delightful participation in the business of living, provide rooms for family activities, as well as for private withdrawals. In short, a house should be a home.

Delegates to the convention in Alexandria were chosen as follows: Mesdames H. R. Murray, R. N. McIntyre, and T. G. McKay; alternates, Mesdames W. C. McKay and W. E. Hixon.

There being no further business the meeting was closed by reading the club collect. Delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames B. N. Hixon, R. N. McIntyre, Maude Parham, C. W. Jones, H. R. Boughton, J. D. Williams, E. T. Lee, Mary Laird, E. D. Baker, M. K. McConnell, Nettie Watson, Mable Nash, Misses Virgie Evans, Ethel Watson and Kate Talbert.

Harsh, abrasive cleansers may damage the surfaces of enameled and vitreous china plumbing fixtures. Available from plumbing contractors and dealers is a cleanser which cleans fixtures without injuring the surface. It is said to work equally well on glass and tile.

Girl Scout News

There's just a lot of news piled up. How did we get so far behind? Just lots happening, maybe?

First, Troop 43's Halloween party, which they held at Alma Faulk's. Now everybody loves a Halloween party, and Scouts have a particular reason because the day is Juliette Low's birthday, but this party was different, we're told, in that the girls planned and carried out every detail. Alma's mother said she didn't even have anything to do with the refreshments. Now, who wouldn't like to be hostess to a group like that? We'll find out the committees in charge and pass on the names.

Another highly successful Halloween party was Troop 11's, which you may have read about.

Seldom, we venture to say, has a gallon of paint disappeared so fast as last week at the work-and-play day at Pine Wood. As a result, the fence posts that had rusted are now a woodsy green color. Appropriate to Halloween were the green hands, green freckled faces, and even a lock of green hair until they were carefully mopped off with turpentine.

Troop 35 boasted of painting 25 posts in little more than an hour, and Troop 2 took as its special job the posts and gate at the entrance to camp.

The day turned out to be a perfect one, and the more than 100 girls and adults present made the most of it. After the opening flag ceremony everybody got to work, painting, or washing windows, raking leaves away from the building, and doing other odd jobs. Mary Martin and Harriet Hays seemed to have the most fun. They swept the pine needles off the roof.

Lunch time found troops scattered around the grounds enjoying their nosebag lunches with hot cocoa or a cold drink, as they chose. Afterward, the usual hikes to river, playing on the sandbar, swinging on the grapevines, laying trails or just sitting around in the sun made the early afternoon pass quickly. Surprisingly enough, the girls had energy to play "Buddies" before the final lowering of the flag and goodnight circle.

Among the adults who assisted with the affair were Mrs. L. C. Bassett, Mrs. F. L. Barrett, Mrs. Norman Barnes, Mrs. Andy Conoway, Mrs. Amos Hood, Mrs. L. M. Graff, Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Gerald Neyland, Mrs. Fred Riser, and Miss Annis Klie.

As a reward for selling cookies last spring, a group of girls representing eight different troops and as many schools enjoyed an overnight at Pine Wood recently. High water had caused its postponement from last June, but maybe the girls had a better time in cooler weather.

Making friends, enjoying games at campfire, and the ever popular hikes seemed to be highlights of the week end.

Open House At Lexington Avenue School Tuesday

Lexington Avenue School opens its doors Tuesday, November tenth from 7:00—9:00 p. m. in celebration of "American Education Week", and in honor of patrons and friends who have made the success and accomplishments of last year possible.

Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, the principal, and her teaching staff take this opportunity of inviting the public to meet their superintendent, school board, teachers (both classroom and supervisors) and all who are connected with this new elementary school situated in the Marie Place Addition.

After a social hour in the gymnasium, the children will act as guides. Groups will go to the respective rooms at which time superintendent of city schools, Mr. Van Odom will make a short talk over the new intercommunication system.

Opening for the first time in September 1952, Lexington Avenue Elementary School had an enrollment of 264 with nine members on the teaching staff. The 1953-54 session showed a marked enrollment increase to 314 with the addition of one classroom teacher.

The school is modern in every respect and equipped with all teaching aids, including library and reference books. To the Parent-Teachers Association, of which Mrs. Harold Brady is president and to her co-workers, goes much of the credit in establishing this as an accredited elementary school.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Gray Ladies Activities

The Gray Ladies at this time are looking forward to celebrating their fourth anniversary on November 12th with a luncheon at the Country Club.

Several Gray Ladies will be capped and those who have served one hundred or more hours will be given bars.

Cooley's Sanitorium: The Gray Ladies have been invited to visit this institution each Wednesday. Mrs. Irene DeLay has been named chairman with Miss Zelma Ouchley as co-chairman. Friday night, October 30th the Halloween party was given, which everyone enjoyed.

DeSiard Street Home: The usual weekly visits were made by the Gray Ladies, who brought magazines and two boxes of quilt scraps to each guest who desired them. Refreshments are served during each visit. On October 28th a birthday party was given with Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Seller as hostesses.

Jackson Street Home: Regular weekly visits were made to this home as usual, serving refreshments. Two of the men had birthdays during the month of October and the Gray Ladies gave each a pair of socks and a handkerchief. The City Bakery sent a beautiful cake and Mrs. Collins served coffee and everyone had a wonderful time.

Pine Street Home: This home, too, is visited weekly by the Gray Ladies, at which time refreshments are served and literature is passed out every week to those desiring same. Nobie, who is blind, is taken each week for a walk by one of the Gray Ladies. Shopping and errands are always done.

St. Joseph Home: The usual weekly visits are also made to this home. The monthly birthday party was celebrated by twelve guests, with seven ladies receiving a beautiful corsage donated by The Flower Shoppe, which act of kindness has been performed for several years, an act which the Gray Ladies and the many guests highly appreciate. We are also very grateful to McCarthy's Bakery for having donated birthday cakes each month over a long period. Birthday cards are always sent to guests. We also wrote several letters and did a great deal of shopping this month for the guests.

The Gray Ladies visit Mary Goss Home, The Home for Aged Colored. During the month of October we were accompanied by the Beta Delta Sorority and delivered magazines, candy, gum, fruit and cookies to each guest. Scriptures in the Bible were read and songs were rendered, closing with a prayer.

The rummage sale was a great success and we wish to thank all who made it possible. The proceed will be used to purchase Christmas gifts for all the guests at each home during the holidays.

We are so pleased to have several new Gray Ladies to help us serve the different homes.

W. S. C. S. Of St. Paul's Church Makes Cookbook

The W. S. C. S. of St. Paul's Methodist church plans to publish their new cookbook, "Food", Sunday November 15.

Mrs. John Brown, chairman of the project, asserted that the book will be available through members of the W. S. C. S. of St. Paul and that funds derived from it will go toward furnishing the kitchen in the new building.

Started several months ago by members of the W. S. C. S., the cookbook contains recipes from outstanding cooks in the Twin Cities with a few out - of - town contributions.

Divided into sections, the cookbook features a patio division with suggested menus for the patio. In addition, there are sections on candies, jellies, breads, salads, salad dressings, meats and various other appetizing dishes.

The book also carries a number of household hints. A handmade burlap cover displaying a colorful doll and the word "Food" decorates the cookbook.

Mrs. Robert Clay has served as chairman of the cover. In charge of the advertising was Mrs. Paul Neal. Mrs. W. C. Ekholm has been chairman of the proofreading committee. All members of the W. S.-C. S. have worked to compile the book and make it available before the Christmas holidays.

'The American Home' Topic For Bono Nostrorum Club

The subject for the evening was "The American Home."

Due to the illness of the president, Mrs. Murray, Miss Ethel Watson, who is vice - president, called the meeting to order, and introduced the program chairman, Mrs. H. R. Boughton, chairman of American Home department. She reminded us that the most important single unit in the world is the home. She quoted Helen Hunt Jackson, who said, "A woman who creates and sustains a home and under whose hands children grow up to be strong and pure men and women is a creator second only to God." Herbert Hoover said "The most important unit of American life is the family and the home — It is the economic beginning of self-government. It is the spiritual energy of our people." Mrs. Boughton then introduced Mrs. B. N. Hixon, the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Hixon said her subject, "The American House of Today," was the place where the home is made, and that she would talk about the house that best suited the majority of the populace. The house should be designed for personal needs of the family, and to fit into the site on which it is placed. No two houses should be alike, as no two families were, and no two hands could wear the same gloves.

Houses should be designed to enrich family life, serve without demanding much service, offer complete shelter as well as delightful participation in the business of living, provide rooms for family activities, as well as for private withdrawals. In short, a house should be a home.

Delegates to the convention in Alexandria were chosen as follows: Mesdames H. R. Murray, R. N. McIntyre, and T. G. McKay; alternates, Mesdames W. C. McKay and W. E. Hixon.

There being no further business the meeting was closed by reading the club collect. Delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames B. N. Hixon, R. N. McIntyre, Maude Parham, C. W. Jones, H. R. Boughton, J. D. Williams, E. T. Lee, Mary Laird, E. D. Baker, M. K. McConnell, Nettie Watson, Mable Nash, Misses Virgie Evans, Ethel Watson and Kate Talbert.

Harsh, abrasive cleansers may damage the surfaces of enameled and vitreous china plumbing fixtures. Available from plumbing contractors and dealers is a cleanser which cleans fixtures without injuring the surface. It is said to work equally well on glass and tile.

Girl Scout News

There's just a lot of news piled up. How did we get so far behind? Just lots happening, maybe?

First, Troop 43's Halloween party, which they held at Alma Faulk's. Now everybody loves a Halloween party, and Scouts have a particular reason because the day is Juliette Low's birthday, but this party was different, we're told, in that the girls planned and carried out every detail. Alma's mother said she didn't even have anything to do with the refreshments. Now, who wouldn't like to be hostess to a group like that? We'll find out the committees in charge and pass on the names.

Another highly successful Halloween party was Troop 11's, which you may have read about.

Seldom, we venture to say, has a gallon of paint disappeared so fast as last week at the work-and-play day at Pine Wood. As a result, the fence posts that had rusted are now a woodsy green color. Appropriate to Halloween were the green hands, green freckled faces, and even a lock of green hair until they were carefully mopped off with turpentine.

Troop 35 boasted of painting 25 posts in little more than an hour, and Troop 2 took as its special job the posts and gate at the entrance to camp.

The day turned out to be a perfect one, and the more than 100 girls and adults present made the most of it. After the opening flag ceremony everybody got to work, painting, or washing windows, raking leaves away from the building, and doing other odd jobs. Lunch time found troops scattered around the grounds enjoying their nosebag lunches with hot cocoa or a cold drink, as they chose. Afterward, the usual hikes to river, playing on the sandbar, swinging on the grapevines, laying trails or just sitting around in the sun made the early afternoon pass quickly. Surprisingly enough, the girls had energy to play "Buddies" before the final lowering of the flag and goodnight circle.

Among the adults who assisted with the affair were Mrs. L. C. Bassett, Mrs. F. L. Barrett, Mrs. Norman Barnes, Mrs. Andy Conoway, Mrs. Amos Hood, Mrs. L. M. Graff, Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Gerald Neyland, Mrs. Fred Riser, and Miss Annis Klie.

Newellton High School Celebrates Homecoming

"Homecoming" at Newellton always brings an "up-beat" in the hearts of Newellton Alumni, those who have been enrolled, and those who have been at any time residents of this thriving and progressive town which is located only about four miles from "Old Man River" in the heart of one of the richest and most productive cotton sections of the south.

When it was announced that the game with Columbia was "set" for "the homecoming game," everyone made every effort to insure this one being the very best, ever.

The parade, with Miss Shirley Hester acting as chairman, assembled at "Routhwood," the lovely suburban home of Mr. L. L. LaPlue. The many floats for the most part depicting the "downfall of Columbia's Crimson Tide," gave evidence of the originality, craftsmanship, and artistry of all participants, but every one hailed the sixth grade as "champions." Mesdames H. A. Lynch and W. B. Netterville were their advisors as well as their teachers. The theme of this first place winner was "Columbia Next." A gruesome "cemetery" marked the "resting place" of those teams who had fallen under the Bruin's power while a realistic witch was preparing a "caldron of brew" to be served the Columbia eleven. Second place went to grade one, Mrs. Henry White and Mrs. Homer Coleman, teachers. These "small fry" appeared as cheer leaders and pep squad. The Cub Scouts, under the leadership of Mr. Curry Patton, placed third. Everyone's heart beat high with pride and patriotism when this beautifully decorated float appeared with Old Glory proudly waving and the Liberty Bell of 1776 giving the final touch. The chief decorations, however, were the bright and smiling Scouts, "The Hopes of Tomorrow."

Occasions are rare when a small town has the pleasure and opportunity of entertaining royalty but Newellton, noted for its hospitality entertained "two queens" in the closing days of "October's bright blue weather." Homecoming queen Mary Ann of the House of Gentry, with her royal attendants viewed the paraders from the beautiful royal float which was further enhanced by the typical southern beauty of the queen and her lovely maids in their diaphanous dresses of rainbow hues and contrasting flowers.

At the half, Queen Mary Ann escorted by Alva Lynch received her crown, the "key to the city," and a kiss from Mayor T. T. Hargrove. The queen's attendants were Margo, of the house of McDonald, escort, Ray Higginbotham; Helen Hester, of the House of Burnside, escort, Edward Eads; Ann, of the House of Perritt, escort, Donald Keyes; Carolyn of the House of Wilkins, escort, Harold McDaniel; "P.-T. A. Queen," Betty, of the House of Ratcliff, escort, Joe Ford.

Her Majesty and maids received lovely corsages. The maids received small gold keys from Mayor Hargrove. All the escorts were Newellton graduates and former football stars of Newellton High.

After the Bears had "rolled the Crimson Tide away," 33 to 0, a dance was held at the Legion Hall with hot coffee being an added attraction Refreshments were served to those who cared to join in "tripping the light fantastic."

The strains of "Home Sweet Home" reminded us of the ending of another homecoming. It is now a cherished memory, but in the annals of Newellton High School, the 1953 homecoming was one of the most beautiful ever recorded.

Newellton High School Celebrates Homecoming

"Homecoming" at Newellton always brings an "up-beat" in the hearts of Newellton Alumni, those who have been enrolled, and those who have been at any time residents of this thriving and progressive town which is located only about four miles from "Old Man River" in the heart of one of the richest and most productive cotton sections of the south.

When it was announced that the game with Columbia was "set" for "the homecoming game," everyone made every effort to insure this one being the very best, ever.

The parade, with Miss Shirley Hester acting as chairman, assembled at "Routhwood," the lovely suburban home of Mr. L. L. LaPlue. The many floats for the most part depicting the "downfall of Columbia's Crimson Tide," gave evidence of the originality, craftsmanship, and artistry of all participants, but every one hailed the sixth grade as "champions." Mesdames H. A. Lynch and W. B. Netterville were their advisors as well as their teachers. The theme of this first place winner was "Columbia Next." A gruesome "cemetery" marked the "resting place" of those teams who had fallen under the Bruin's power while a realistic witch was preparing a "caldron of brew" to be served the Columbia eleven. Second place went to grade one, Mrs. Henry White and Mrs. Homer Coleman, teachers. These "small fry" appeared as cheer leaders and pep squad. The Cub Scouts, under the leadership of Mr. Curry Patton, placed third. Everyone's heart beat high with pride and patriotism when this beautifully decorated float appeared with Old Glory proudly waving and the Liberty Bell of 1776 giving the final touch. The chief decorations, however, were the bright and smiling Scouts, "The Hopes of Tomorrow."

Occasions are rare when a small town has the pleasure and opportunity of entertaining royalty but Newellton, noted for its hospitality entertained "two queens" in the closing days of "October's bright blue weather." Homecoming queen Mary Ann of the House of Gentry, with her royal attendants viewed the paraders from the beautiful royal float which was further enhanced by the typical southern beauty of the queen and her lovely maids in their diaphanous dresses of rainbow hues and contrasting flowers.

At the half, Queen Mary Ann escorted by Alva Lynch received her crown, the "key to the city," and a kiss from Mayor T. T. Hargrove. The queen's attendants were Margo, of the house of McDonald, escort, Ray Higginbotham; Helen Hester, of the House of Burnside, escort, Edward Eads; Ann, of the House of Perritt, escort, Donald Keyes; Carolyn of the House of Wilkins, escort, Harold McDaniel; "P.-T. A. Queen," Betty, of the House of Ratcliff, escort, Joe Ford.

Her Majesty and maids received lovely corsages. The maids received small gold keys from Mayor Hargrove. All the escorts were Newellton graduates and former football stars of Newellton High.

After the Bears had "rolled the Crimson Tide away," 33 to 0, a dance was held at the Legion Hall with hot coffee being an added attraction Refreshments were served to those who cared to join in "tripping the light fantastic."

The strains of "Home Sweet Home" reminded us of the ending of another homecoming. It is now a cherished memory, but in the annals of Newellton High School, the 1953 homecoming was one of the most beautiful ever recorded.

MRS. ELVIN AGUSTA BURGESS, JR.

Burgess-Landerdahl Wed In Bastrop Baptist Church

On Saturday, October 24, at eight o'clock, Miss Janice Vernell Landerdahl, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Arnell Melvin Landerdahl of Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri and Mr. Elvin Agusta Burgess, Jr., son of Major and Mrs. Elvin A. Burgess Sr. of Fort Hood, Tex. and Monroe exchanged their wedding vows at the Second Baptist Church in Bastrop.

The fathers of the bride and groom who are both chaplains, officiated at the double ring ceremony and were assisted by the groom's grandfather, Rev. Joseph E. Hinkie, pastor of the church.

The chancel was banked with baskets of white mums, chrysant: mums, greenery and tall branched candelabra with white cathedral tapers. Two tapers with greenery and mums were placed in the church windows. Pews for the family were marked with white mums and white satin streamers.

Mr. Frank Parker, the organist, rendered a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Mr. Ray T. Hinkie as he sang "Because," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional bridal satin with a cathedral train. The bodice featured a yoke of hand made Maison Antoine Brussel's lace, purchased in Brussels by the bride's mother, and the long sleeves tapered to points over the hand. Her veil of Swiss tulle was held in place by a Juliet Brussel's lace cap, matching the yoke of the dress. The bride's bouquet was of white roses centered with a white orchid. She also wore the groom's gift, a white gold watch.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Harry Westbrook of Monroe, aunt of the groom, wore a gown of azure blue nylon net over taffeta. Her bouquet was of bronze and yellow mums with matching flowers in her hair.

Miss Elinor Ann Burgess, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length formal of cameo rose nylon net over taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze mums.

Mr. John Landerdahl of North Park College, Chicago, Ill., served a best man. Mr. Harry Westbrook was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. William H. Hinkie and Rev. Robert Willis.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Landerdahl wore a mauve dress with a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother was attired in a black model with American beauty roses.

The paternal grandmothers, Mrs. J. E. Hinkie and Mrs. W. I. Burgess were attired in black and gray. Their corsages were of pink carnations.

Reception Held

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Burgess home on Lake Shore Drive in Monroe for relatives and immediate friends of the family.

The table was centered with a beautifully embossed three-tiered wedding cake with white roses and bells. Hostesses who served the wedding cake, fruit punch and coffee were Mrs. Mavis Hinkie, Miss Mary Louise Hinkie, Mrs. Rosemarie Cornish and Miss Hattie Date Matson. Individual silver wrapped pieces of the groom's cake were given each guest. Miss Elinor Ann Burgess presided at the bride's guest book.

Mr. Burgess graduated from Nurnberg American High School in Nurnberg, Germany. Since his graduation he has attended Louisiana Tech and the University of Maryland.

Airman First Class and Mrs. Elvin A. Burgess, Jr. will leave on the S. S. United States liner for Rhein Main, Germany where Airman Burgess is stationed as a radar technician. Miro Book Club Meets With Mrs. R. Q. Cole

Mrs. R. Q. Cole was hostess to the Miro Book Club in her home on Monday with Mrs. Thomas Jett, president, presiding. The collect was repeated in unison and the pledge of allegiance was given to the flag by the sixteen members present.

Mrs. John Pracher gave an interesting paper on the "American Home — Our Greatest Asset." Mr. R. L. Wood gave a review on "The Dwellings of Colonial America." She gave interesting examples of how the regional conditions affected the colonial architecture. The bitter cold of New England and the mild winters and hot summers prevented similar architecture and prevented the English colonists from building their home in English character. However, it was noted that even in entirely different architecture many inherited characteristics were retained.

Those present were Mrs. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. Thomas Jett, Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell and Mrs. R. L. Wood.

Mrs. R. D. Farr gave an interesting discussion of "Arrangements of Dried Materials" when the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club met in her lovely home on Rochelle Avenue Wednesday. Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., was co-hostess.

The home was beautifully decorated with many arrangements of materials pertaining to the subject for discussion. Much of this material had been obtained from the woods and fields.

Coffee and desert was served the following members: Mrs. Carter Ackel, Mrs. James B. Bradley, Mrs. J. S. Cage, Mrs. E. P. Chapman, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Chapman, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, Mrs. R. C. Holler, Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. W. G. Miller, Mrs. C. Ardis Ponder, Mrs. Jack Rushing, Mrs. F. T. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Carl J. Thompson, Mrs. H. W. Tolson, and the hostess and co-hostess.

Miro Book Club Meets With Mrs. R. Q. Cole

Mrs. R. Q. Cole was hostess to the Miro Book Club in her home on Monday with Mrs. Thomas Jett, president, presiding. The collect was repeated in unison and the pledge of allegiance was given to the flag by the sixteen members present.

Mrs. John Pracher gave an interesting paper on the "American Home — Our Greatest Asset." Mr. R. L. Wood gave a review on "The Dwellings of Colonial America." She gave interesting examples of how the regional conditions affected the colonial architecture. The bitter cold of New England and the mild winters and hot summers prevented similar architecture and prevented the English colonists from building their home in English character. However, it was noted that even in entirely different architecture many inherited characteristics were retained.

Those present were Mrs. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. Thomas Jett, Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell and Mrs. R. L. Wood.

When you paint panelled doors, coat the panels first, then the center rail. The top and bottom rails come next, then the vertical stiles. Do the edges last of all.

It is an exciting story of the days when Billy the Kid roamed the west and brave men defended their own herds. Patricia Wentworth is one of the most popular writers of mystery stories with an English scene. Her latest story involving the adventures of Miss Silver is called "Vanishing Point." This is the story of the disappearance of two elderly ladies and how Miss Silver solved it.

Last of all we have two books concerned with international intrigue and espionage. One is called "The Passionate Heart" and the author is Beatrix Beck. The author of the second one is Maurice Edelman and the title is "Who Goes Home." The scene of "The Passionate Heart" is France during the period of the Nazi occupation. Special Razor For Women

Although several good methods of hair removal have been introduced in recent years, many women still prefer razors. To the despair of their husbands and brothers, some women insist on using the man's razor.

The latest in the line of feminine razors, however, is said to be as efficient as any man's. It is the first electric razor designed especially for women.

According to the manufacturer, this new machine will whisk away hair without marring the skin in any way. Another advantage claimed for the new product is that it requires no water, cream, soap or blades for the process.

It might be a welcome gift for the girl who seems to have everything. Also, it might serve the man of the house an insurance against razor-snatching. Its leather case of soft green and white provides a feminine background.

Important Meeting—Civil Defense

All Home Demonstration Club members are urged to attend a Civil Defense meeting Tuesday, November 10th, at 2:00 p.m. at 400 Stone Avenue, Monroe. Citizenship and defense leaders be sure you attend. Presidents of Home Demonstration Clubs should be here. Mrs. T. A. Calloway, Logtown Club is Civil Defense chairman of home demonstration organizations.

Nature's Beauty

If you've not made a drive out into the rural area lately, do it right away and see the beauty nature has given us in the leaves of the trees. On the way to Cadeville you can see sour maple, sumac, sassafras, sweet gum, black gum, and huckleberry in many values of red. The oaks are beautiful in their values of yellow and brown. This road is hard surfaced now and is a lovely drive. The club members at Cadeville are busy improving their homes. Mrs. Lee Wilder is remodeling her home and Mrs. C. R. Wilder is making plans to do some redecorating. Mrs. T. A. Landrum has just made new draperies and curtains. Many others discussed with the agent, drapery problems. It is inspiring to see so much activity in one group.

Council Reports

Mrs. A. T. Stout, president of the Ouachita Parish Council, reported several clubs had not sent her their reports. Presidents please check and see if you have failed to send yours. Mrs. Stout must compile these and get them to the state council president this week—so do this at once.

Score Sheets (Not Scare Sheets): Nineteen clubs have sent in all information and will compete for best club. (Three not turned in).

The council score sheet committee will meet with the president of the council, Mrs. Stout on Tuesday, November 17th, at 9:00 o'clock to compile these. It is by this method that the "Best Club of the Year" is determined. Let's have 100 per cent participation. Get in your records, history, etc. at once, if you haven't. The members of the score sheet committee are: Mrs. T. A. Calloway, Logtown Club; Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Liberty; Mrs. B. W. Wall, Sterlington; Mrs. Lee H. Wilder, Cadeville; Mrs. E. W. Earl, Colony; Mrs. Elaine Newton, Cheniere; and Mrs. John Anding, Lenwil Club.

Managing the Home

Are you a good home manager or are you having a hard job finding time for all the things you want to do? Do you have time for yourself, time for your family and time to help with your community. Well, in November and December the members in the 22 Home Demonstration Clubs are going to take some work on home management. Maybe it would be helpful to you, too. They say there are tricks in all trades, so let's learn some home making tricks. Come—the club members will be happy to have you as a visitor if you do not want to be a member. Another project which club members are working on is selecting and making of household linens. At the fair we have many exhibits in the house furnishing department not up to standard. You can learn to improve the selection and making of these linens at the club meetings. Let's raise these standards next year.

Basic Biscuit Mix

Those cold nights make us enjoy a hot bread with our dinner and what's better than hot biscuits! Here's a recipe for mixing a quantity of ingredients at one time thus cutting the time to a minimum when you have biscuits. I'm using it and the biscuits are grand.

8 cups sifted all purpose flour
1 cup non-fat dry milk solids
¼ cup baking powder (double acting)
2 teaspoons salt
1¾ cups shortening

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until thoroughly mixed or it looks like coarse corn meal. Lift lightly into a glass jar or tin can. Do not pack. Close tightly and store on shelf. When you want biscuits, take out as many cups of mix as you need (2 cups make 12 medium biscuits) and add enough water to make soft dough. Combine just until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn on floured board. Knead gently a few times. Roll or pat to about ½ inch thickness. Cut with a floured biscuit cutter. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees to 475 degrees).

This mix can be used to make griddle cakes by adding 2 eggs and ¼ cup melted butter to 2 cups of mix. It will also need to be made thinner by adding more water, about one cup more.

Gardening

Aren't we having fun planting our garden vegetables and flowers since the rain! Some of you who are depending on last year's strawberry plants need to control red spider.

Pecans are plentiful so plan to keep some shelled in your home frozen food box. After pecans are dried or cured they will crack and come out of shells easily if soaked in cold water for 12 hours. Good results will be obtained by pouring boiling water over pecans and soaking them 15 to 30 minutes. Remember time to put them in freezer is now. Too many wait until late spring to store them and many are already becoming rancid.

See you next Sunday.

Don't Bewail Beauty Faults

The oft-heard advice to stress the positive is especially applicable to the beauty-minded woman past 40.

Too many older women have a tendency to call attention to their defects. They bewail the fact that their noses are too long or too broad; that they have to reduce or gain weight; that their hair is dull and lifeless; that their skin is dry or oily.

Or they go into detailed descriptions of their solution to their beauty problems.

By advertising the problems, they accentuate the defects and all but eliminate their assets in the eyes of their listeners. Except when one knows that the listener is able to offer sound advice, there is nothing to be gained from such conversation.

Keep your beauty problem to yourself. Make your own decision as to what's to be done. Do it and then wait for others to start complimentary conversations. People are not so likely to remember your beauty assets' past if you haven't given them a blow-by-blow description of your battle to eliminate the negative.

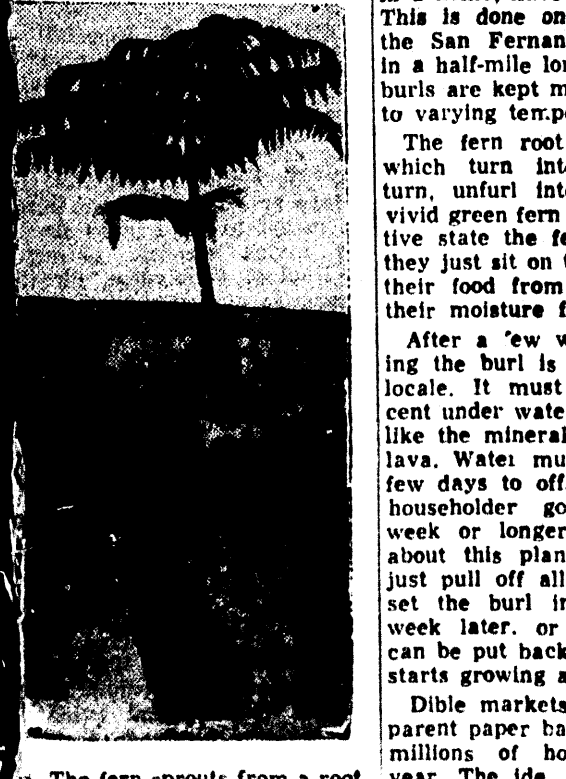
fern which orginates on the ·es of Mauna Loa volcano in vaii wi.l grow in your living



ıı. The fern sprouts from a root, burl, and the discovery that it grow at living room tempera- s was made by Graham Dible, uthern California horticulturist.

It probably will sprout another fortune for Farmer Dible, too.

The burls, before they will grow in a home, have to be conditioned. This is done on Dible's ranch in the San Fernando valley, where, in a half-mile long greenhouse, the burls are kept moist and subjected to varying temperatures.

The fern root sends out shoots which turn into buds; these, in turn, unfurl into richly filigreed, vivid green fern fronds. In their native state the ferns have no soil; they just sit on the lava, and draw their food from its minerals and their moisture from the air.

After a few weeks of conditioning the burl is ready for its new locale. It must be about 25 per cent under water and given a food like the minerals it took from the lava. Water must be added every few days to offset evaporation. A householder going away for a week or longer, need not worry about this plant. Dible says you just pull off all the greenery and set the burl in a dry place. A week later, or longer, the plant can be put back in water where it starts growing all over over again.

Dible markets the burl in transparent paper bags, just as he does millions of house plants every year. The ide has paid off very well, as Dible's 76 expensive acres and beautiful house (formerly that of the movie director, Michael Curtiz) prove.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

e cool pleasant days of Au- h are ideal for working in the len. All of those things that been in the ng places all mer can now moved to the s where they ng. This is time to take crowded per- ials and di- e and reset n. They will e six months which to grow will bloom heavily next spring summer. Unless your soil is oughly prepared two or more deep in your perennial beds, plants are apt to starve after years in the same spot. Some s like the summer phloxes, nial ageratum (Eupatorium e books), blue salvias, physos- a—in fact, all the rapid multi- rs—will use up all the strength food in the soil and fail to m for you as they should. Dig n up, prepare their spot deeply taking out the soil for twelve es. Then thoroughly stir and lize the next foot of soil before put it back. If your soil is ly rich down deep and well ned, you can plant tulip bulbs n there as deep as ten inches w the level before setting ts like phlox back over them. o rooting perennials will rob tulips of their food and they not bloom many seasons, but ow rooted plants will not steal n bulbs an may be planted t over them. Of course, peren- s with heavy spring foliage will ther the tulip leaves and would do for such a position.

e gorgeous montbretias should regarded as perennials instead s bulbs or corms because they l out shoots in late summer in directions from the corms. e shoots take root and then ll in places. At this time of year, a whole patch of mont- ias should be first dug around you would do for a shrub. Then the whole mass together and e the soil off gently so as not estroy the little roots beginning row out from the shoots. You find the small corms in the er with the old decayed ones he bottom like gladiola corms. he new corms were formed, on top of the other every year no change in the depth of the decayed one, the plants would tually be on top of the ground. tbretias have contractile roots, ever, and these roots actually the new corm down to some nt into the soil. As we have tioned in the column before, commonest error which we gardeners are apt to make in planting montbretias is that of planting them too shallow. Even these small corms should be set six inches under the ground for the best development. They will not be hurt by the cold here in the South and do not need to be taken up and stored as they do in the north. Storing montbretias is a difficult thing to do, anyway, because the long shoots dry out unless they are kept in dry sand. When you first buy the corms, if you happen to wait till spring to get them, you are very likely to receive some quite dry looking corms which have suffered from storage.

They will not get underway as well nor bloom as soon as if they had been bought in the fall and planted right then. Buy them now and set them out with some bone meal in the soil. They can usually stay in the same spot for three years if they are planted six inches apart and if the soil is rich enough for them. After three years, however, they are almost sure to become overcrowded and to need moving and feeding. They are well worth this little trouble because of their amazing flowers in mid-summer when we need heat resistant blossoms on good stems that can stand up to the storms and serve as good cut flower spikes.

The Southern magnolia is really the show tree of the South, and yet there are relatively few of them to be seen in yards and gardens all throug the South. Some communities have realized how rich these big evergreens are and have made a project of encouraging everybody to plant one or more. Once in a while you hear some one complaining that they have to be always raking up the leaves under their magnolia. This magnificent tree is prettiest when the branches sweep clean to the ground and allow none of the trunk to show at all. When you buy a magnolia, get one that is of this type and shape. Very young trees will not have developed these lower branches, but after they are a few years old, you can tell what they will be like when fully grown. The leaves that fall never show underneath the low limbs on a good specimen. They will show only if you allow the lower branches to be damaged or cut off. By all means keep the lower branches.

People frequently say that they have always wanted a magnolia but that large ones cost too much for their pocket book and small ones take too long to grow. You would be urprised at the rate of growth of a small magnolia when it is planted in really good soil.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

On Wednesday while I'm writing this the weather is like spring. Bulbs are popping up everywhere around the yards.

Let's not get ambitious about transplanting or fertilizing shrubs. We haven't had enough rain for the former and shrubs do not need feeding at this time of year.

The Monroe Garden Club has selected the Ben Downing garden, 1600 Island Drive as the yard of the month.

Around The Garden

Following the advice of the horticulurists, Tony Veazy and I tried artificial cross fertilization on her American Holly last spring, to try to produce berries. We placed blooming branches from a berry producing tree in a bucket of water under Tony's holly. But — it didn't work. The horticulturist said sometimes this will grow berries, sometime it doesn't. We're going to try again next spring and maybe you'd like to do the same.

I noticed the violets are beginning to bloom. Dot Breard says before tying these in bunches for your arrangements and corsages, submerge them in water over night up side down. The blooms will stay fresh a week. It seems that violets take in water through their blossoms.

If you have a fig tree, a good mulch of leaves or grass clippings is excellent for protecting the shallow roots. Pile the mulch about six inches high beginning six inches from the trunk of the tree and extend the mulch slightly beyond the ends of the branches of the tree. Dry leaves are best.

In The Kitchen

Pecans will crack and come out of the shell easily if you'll soak them in cold water for twelve hours, or pour boiling water on the pecans and soak them in the hot water from 15 to 30 minutes.

It's squirrel season and many of you will be cooking that delicious meat. We have no way of knowing just how old the squirrel is—so it's safer to use moist heat. This is my favorite recipe: salt, pepper and flour the cut up pieces. Brown quickly in hot fat. Remove squirrel, pour off some of the fat. Make a dark brown thin gravy of the remaining fat. Put the meat back in the gravy in your Dutch oven. Put the top on and cook very slowly until the squirrel is tender.

Materials For Dried Arrangements

I've had a number of requests to repeat the method for bronzing and skeletonizing magnolia leaves. These bronzed leaves will keep for years. First pound two inches at the end of the woody stem of the magnolia branch. Put this stem in a solution of two parts water to one part glycerin and let stand from two to three weeks. That's all there is to it and the branches are beautiful for large arrangements in the house during the winter. You'll have to wash the dust from the leaves from time to time.

To skeletonize the magnolia leaves here's what you do: put one can of lye and one cup of soap in five gallons of water. (Use soap, not detergent) put your leaves in this and boil twenty minutes. Remove leaves and put them in a pan of clorox until they have bleached as white as you want them. Then put the leaves in water. You can let them stay in the water bath for several days. You will need to take a tooth brush and work the fleshy part of the leaf off the veins. Then you're ready to dye. Use all purpose rit, following the instructions in the package and adding a tablespoon of vinegar to set the color. You can dye these any shade to blend with the color scheme of your room. They are dainty and lovely mixed in dried arrangements.

Dates Around Town

If you're interested in caneing a chair, come to Mrs. Drew's, 304 South First Street, West Monroe, Thursday morning, November 12 at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Drew has all the material we'll need, so you won't need to bring any supplies. We can all work on the same chair.

On KNOE-TV, Tuesday at 2:45, Mrs. C. C. Lucky will be our guest. She will make Thanksgiving arrangements using fruit and dried materials. We invite you to tune in.

Drouth Hastens Time For Care Of Perennials

The unusually dry weather of the past few weeks has helped to hasten the end of blooms in the garden. Preparation for winter protection of these perennials may now commence.

Plants that are semitender should be protected before the ground freezes. The theory is to prevent alternate thawing and freezing which not only destroys the plant cells but also heaves the plants out of the soil, exposing the roots to the air.

The first job is to cut down and destroy all diseased plant foliage and to place on the compost pile that foliage which is clean. The wise gardener never permits excess foliage to remain on his perennials over winter, but if one is to do the job right, one should know the habits and requirements of the individual varieties.

Some perennials, being more or less evergreen, resent the removal of any of their foliage, although some of it does die and drop off during the late winter and early spring.

The following list of perennials are to be treated as designated: Perennials whose foliage remains more or less green throughout the winter should not be disturbed until after growth starts next spring, then dead foliage should be cut off. Columbine, arabis, snow-in-summer, hardy carnations, forget-me-not, catmint, plumbago, primrose and dwarf iris.

The foliage of the following plants should be cut down to the ground and all that is not diseased should be used as part of the mulch: Monkshood, astilbe, baptisia, bleeding heart, plume poppy, boltonia, platycodon, hardy bachelor button, gas plant, hardy ageratum, gaillardia, geum, baby's breath, hollyhocks, listris, lupines, marguerites and peonies.

Notes From The Garden Center

More than four hundred gardeners have visited the garden center since it opened a month ago. Our garden consultant this week was Mr. M. T. Young of Tallulah. Mr. Young is an entomologist and ardent gardener and his comments were enthusiastically received by those visiting the center.

Thursday and Friday, November 12 and 13, Mr. Truman Quinton will be brought to the center through the courtesy of Tyner Petrus. Mr. Quinton is a plant doctor specializing in plant nutrition and diseases and will hold a first aid clinic for ailing yards. He will be on hand from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. All gardeners are urged to attend these clinics. The services of the garden center are free to the public.

The unusual arrangements this week were made by the Flora Group. First place went to Mrs. V. S. Garnett, for a lovely composition of red castor foliage, rosy hydrangea and sea feather (an undersea plant from the Bahams). Second place was awarded Mrs. Archie Dickerson for a study in green and white using variegated aspidistra, euonymus, green and white hydrangea leaves with green and white ivy in a black bowl.

Third place was won by Mrs. S. Q. Cobb with a beautiful design emphasizing the sweeping curves of the mouse ear fern (a rare tropical plant) red canna and red gerbera blooms with ligustrum berries. In the horticulture awards a blue ribbon was presented Mrs. Cobb for her Calalium flower. A red ribbon was won by Mrs. John Lewis for her talisman rose. Mrs. Garnett was also given a red ribbon for her pedilanthus plant. Judges were Mrs. L. P. Craighead of Delhi and Mrs. C. C. Lucky of Monroe.

Even these small corms should be set six inches under the ground for the best development. They will not be hurt by the cold here in the South and do not need to be taken up and stored as they do in the north. Storing montbretias is a difficult thing to do, anyway, because the long shoots dry out unless they are kept in dry sand. When you first buy the corms, if you happen to wait till spring to get them, you are very likely to receive some quite dry looking corms which have suffered from storage.

They will not get underway as well nor bloom as soon as if they had been bought in the fall and planted right then. Buy them now and set them out with some bone meal in the soil. They can usually stay in the same spot for three years if they are planted six inches apart and if the soil is rich enough for them. After three years, however, they are almost sure to become overcrowded and to need moving and feeding. They are well worth this little trouble because of their amazing flowers in mid-summer when we need heat resistant blossoms on good stems that can stand up to the storms and serve as good cut flower spikes.

The Southern magnolia is really the show tree of the South, and yet there are relatively few of them to be seen in yards and gardens all throug the South. Some communities have realized how rich these big evergreens are and have made a project of encouraging everybody to plant one or more. Once in a while you hear some one complaining that they have to be always raking up the leaves under their magnolia. This magnificent tree is prettiest when the branches sweep clean to the ground and allow none of the trunk to show at all. When you buy a magnolia, get one that is of this type and shape. Very young trees will not have developed these lower branches, but after they are a few years old, you can tell what they will be like when fully grown. The leaves that fall never show underneath the low limbs on a good specimen. They will show only if you allow the lower branches to be damaged or cut off. By all means keep the lower branches.

People frequently say that they have always wanted a magnolia but that large ones cost too much for their pocket book and small ones take too long to grow. You would be urprised at the rate of growth of a small magnolia when it is planted in really good soil.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

On Wednesday while I'm writing this the weather is like spring. Bulbs are popping up everywhere around the yards.

Let's not get ambitious about transplanting or fertilizing shrubs. We haven't had enough rain for the former and shrubs do not need feeding at this time of year.

The Monroe Garden Club has selected the Ben Downing garden, 1600 Island Drive as the yard of the month.

Around The Garden

Following the advice of the horticulurists, Tony Veazy and I tried artificial cross fertilization on her American Holly last spring, to try to produce berries. We placed blooming branches from a berry producing tree in a bucket of water under Tony's holly. But — it didn't work. The horticulturist said sometimes this will grow berries, sometime it doesn't. We're going to try again next spring and maybe you'd like to do the same.

I noticed the violets are beginning to bloom. Dot Breard says before tying these in bunches for your arrangements and corsages, submerge them in water over night up side down. The blooms will stay fresh a week. It seems that violets take in water through their blossoms.

If you have a fig tree, a good mulch of leaves or grass clippings is excellent for protecting the shallow roots. Pile the mulch about six inches high beginning six inches from the trunk of the tree and extend the mulch slightly beyond the ends of the branches of the tree. Dry leaves are best.

In The Kitchen

Pecans will crack and come out of the shell easily if you'll soak them in cold water for twelve hours, or pour boiling water on the pecans and soak them in the hot water from 15 to 30 minutes.

It's squirrel season and many of you will be cooking that delicious meat. We have no way of knowing just how old the squirrel is—so it's safer to use moist heat. This is my favorite recipe: salt, pepper and flour the cut up pieces. Brown quickly in hot fat. Remove squirrel, pour off some of the fat. Make a dark brown thin gravy of the remaining fat. Put the meat back in the gravy in your Dutch oven. Put the top on and cook very slowly until the squirrel is tender.

Materials For Dried Arrangements

I've had a number of requests to repeat the method for bronzing and skeletonizing magnolia leaves. These bronzed leaves will keep for years. First pound two inches at the end of the woody stem of the magnolia branch. Put this stem in a solution of two parts water to one part glycerin and let stand from two to three weeks. That's all there is to it and the branches are beautiful for large arrangements in the house during the winter. You'll have to wash the dust from the leaves from time to time.

To skeletonize the magnolia leaves here's what you do: put one can of lye and one cup of soap in five gallons of water. (Use soap, not detergent) put your leaves in this and boil twenty minutes. Remove leaves and put them in a pan of clorox until they have bleached as white as you want them. Then put the leaves in water. You can let them stay in the water bath for several days. You will need to take a tooth brush and work the fleshy part of the leaf off the veins. Then you're ready to dye. Use all purpose rit, following the instructions in the package and adding a tablespoon of vinegar to set the color. You can dye these any shade to blend with the color scheme of your room. They are dainty and lovely mixed in dried arrangements.

Drouth Hastens Time For Care Of Perennials

The unusually dry weather of the past few weeks has helped to hasten the end of blooms in the garden. Preparation for winter protection of these perennials may now commence.

Plants that are semitender should be protected before the ground freezes. The theory is to prevent alternate thawing and freezing which not only destroys the plant cells but also heaves the plants out of the soil, exposing the roots to the air.

The first job is to cut down and destroy all diseased plant foliage and to place on the compost pile that foliage which is clean. The wise gardener never permits excess foliage to remain on his perennials over winter, but if one is to do the job right, one should know the habits and requirements of the individual varieties.

Some perennials, being more or less evergreen, resent the removal of any of their foliage, although some of it does die and drop off dur... the late winter and early spring.

Others must have their foliage cut to the ground, and some require that the flower stalks be cut but the foliage left at the base of the plant.

The following list of perennials are to be treated as designated: Perennials whose foliage remains more or less green throughout the winter should not be disturbed until after growth starts next spring, then dead foliage should be cut off. Columbine, arabis, snow-in-summer, hardy carnations, forget-me-not, catmint, plumbago, primrose and dwarf iris.

The foliage of the following plants should be cut down to the ground and all that is not diseased should be used as part of the mulch: Monkshood, astilbe, baptisia, bleeding heart, plume poppy, boltonia, platycodon, hardy bachelor button, gas plant, hardy ageratum, gaillardia, geum, baby's breath, hollyhocks, listris, lupines, marguerites and peonies.

Notes From The Garden Center

More than four hundred gardeners have visited the garden center since it opened a month ago. Our garden consultant this week was Mr. M. T. Young of Tallulah. Mr. Young is an entomologist and ardent gardener and his comments were enthusiastically received by those visiting the center.

Thursday and Friday, November 12 and 13, Mr. Truman Quinton will be brought to the center through the courtesy of Tyner Petrus. Mr. Quinton is a plant doctor specializing in plant nutrition and diseases and will hold a first aid clinic for ailing yards. He will be on hand from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. All gardeners are urged to attend these clinics. The services of the garden center are free to the public.

The unusual arrangements this week were made by the Flora Group. First place went to Mrs. V. S. Garnett, for a lovely composition of red castor foliage, rosy hydrangea and sea feather (an undersea plant from the Bahams). Second place was awarded Mrs. Archie Dickerson for a study in green and white using variegated aspidistra, euonymus, green and white hydrangea leaves with green and white ivy in a black bowl.

Third place was won by Mrs. S. Q. Cobb with a beautiful design emphasizing the sweeping curves of the mouse ear fern (a rare tropical plant) red canna and red gerbera blooms with ligustrum berries. In the horticulture awards a blue ribbon was presented Mrs. Cobb for her Calalium flower. A red ribbon was won by Mrs. John Lewis for her talisman rose. Mrs. Garnett was also given a red ribbon for her pedilanthus plant. Judges were Mrs. L. P. Craighead of Delhi and Mrs. C. C. Lucky of Monroe.

Temple Baptists Plan Big Tent Revival Series

James W. Carraway, known prominently as the "Singing Engineer" will be in charge of music at big tent revival at Temple Baptist Church, 601 Plum Street, beginning 15 November. He has been engaged in evangelistic singing at revivals for the past several years.

He has recently accepted the call to the ministry of preaching the gospel, and is at present the pastor of West Side Baptist Church in Bastrop, La.

Rev. Carraway has for the past two years presented a program of sacred hymns heard over KNOE radio station every Sunday at 2:15 p. m. and just recently has a regular TV program over KNOE-TV "Hymns by Request" each Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m. He has recorded some of the finest and best loved hymns of all time which bear a real spiritual testimony. All his friends are invited to come out to Temple Baptist Church and visit him during this revival.

Rev. Henry Grady Buchanan, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Shreveport, La., will conduct the preaching services during this revival. Rev. Buchanan and J. W. Carraway have worked together on several revivals and this should prove one of the greatest revivals ever held at Temple Baptist Church. Rev. Buchanan is considered one of the greatest ten revivalists in the south. His preaching is true and dynamic and heart-warming. He accepted the call as pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Shreveport on 1 Oct. 1940 and membership at that time was 231. Since that time membership has grown to 2500 members at the present time. He has had an average of 120 baptisms per year for the thirteen years of his pastorate at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Bible Words to Live by

PSALM 37:3-4—"Trust in the Lord, and do good... Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he will give thee the desire of thine heart."

Confidence in a benefactor's power and good will is one of the great blessings of the soul. To realize that there is a God of love and mercy is one of the comforts of the human heart that gives peace and strength.

The power of God's love "shed abroad in thy heart" creates a desire to do good works in gratitude and in the joy of sharing blessings with others.

The source of our confidence and devotion brings a holy, humble pleasure that we call delight. It is a gratification of a deep desire for the realized presence of God.

Confidence, righteous living, helpfulness for others will control the "desire of the heart" to bring it into conformity with the will of God, who will assuredly bless and grant the wishes of the soul.

The Methodist Youth Fellowships of the Ruston sub-district will hold a meeting in the Grace Methodist Church of Ruston today at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

After the business meeting, the Salem M. Y. F. presented a worship program. Refreshments were served immediately after the meeting.

It is expected that there will be an even larger attendance at the meeting planned for today and the program will be suited to the occasion.

Church Of God Expects Large Number Present

The Monroe Church of God, 800 Georgia Street, is anticipating a great day and it is expected that the Sunday school attendance will go to a new high record today.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Wanted: Better Church Members

RECENT statistics regarding church membership, which appear in the 1953 Year Book of American Churches, show an encouraging gain over the previous year. It's 2½ times above the nation's gain in population.

Church membership in the U. S. is at the all-time high of 92,277,129, a gain of 4.1 per cent. Of this gain Protestants represent 3.9 per cent, and Roman Catholics 3.5 per cent. The respective figures in relation to teh national population are Protestants 34.7 per cent, and Roman Catholics, 19.3 per cent.

Much thoughtful consideration, and speculative comment, could be based upon these figures. In general, it is my judgment that figures don't lie, but in large measure do indicate trends and actual conditions.

But in a matter of this sort, where personality and quality, the degree of sincerity and devotion, and other factors, enter in, it should be obvious that statistics can be only approximate standards of judgment, and may not at all represent actual strength and spiritual realities.

During the course of the years, I have been interested in the comment on this column that comes from Roman Catholic readers. I think it could be said that I am sympathetic toward all forms of sincere faith and religious experience, and that my column is confined to moral and spiritual realities, avoiding as far as possible controversial matters.

But as a Protestant minister and journalist my knowledge, observation and experience are inevitably related chiefly to the Protestant community.

It is this community of Protestant Church members that [I had] in mind in entitling this [column] "Wanted: Better Church [Mem]bers." Statistics, as I ha[ve sug]gested, cannot indicate goo[d quali]ty, or the lack of it, on t[he part] of the millions of individual ["mem]bers" who make up the [total.]

The Protestant Churche[s would] not be the force that they [are in] the nation if there were [not in] their fellowship great ma[sses of] sincere, earnest and devou[t Chris]tians who take their churc[h mem]bership seriously.

But, beyond these are m[any who] give little evidence of re[al devo]tion either to Christ or the [church.] Many of them are actuall[y nomi]nal church members, whos[e names] are on the church rolls, a[nd who] are included in church st[atistics.]

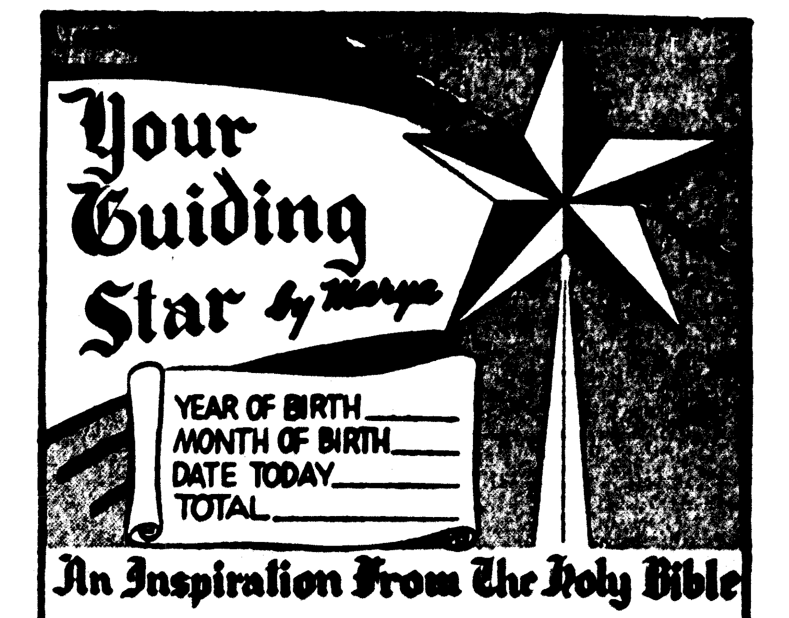
To me it seems stran[ge that] anybody would join a [church] without a real measure o[f Chris]tian faith, or an intention [to give] the church real support [other] than possible financial [contribu]tions.

Yet, some time ago a [very] devoted member of a chu[rch told] me of the numbers recei[ved into] membership who were [never] seen in church attendan[ce after] the day of their reception[.]

I suppose that some of t[hem be]longed to some social orga[nization,] a "couples' club," a "ladi[es' aid"] or some similar group. Bu[t that is] hardly church membership[.]

I am not suggesting tha[t this] situation is typical, and I [hope it] is not. But let anyone com[pare the] many crowded churches a[t Easter] and Christmas with the[ir small] congregations and empty [pews in] the same churches on ot[her] days of the year!

The crying need is fo[r better] church members.



Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0. Ps. 33:1 — Praise befits the upright.
1. Gen. 4:7. — If you do well, will you not be accepted? And if you do not do well, you must master it.
2. Num. 10:32 — Whatever good the Lord will do to us, the same will we do to you.
3. I Sam. 2:30 — Those who honor me I will honor.
4. II Kings 17:35 — You shall not fear other gods or bow yourselves to them or serve them.

Temple Baptists Plan Big Tent Revival Series

James W. Carraway, known prominently as the "Singing Engineer" will be in charge of music at big tent revival at Temple Baptist Church, 601 Plum Street, beginning 15 November. He has been engaged in evangelistic singing at revivals for the past several years.

He has recently accepted the call to the ministry of preaching the gospel, and is at present the pastor of West Side Baptist Church in Bastrop, La.

Rev. Carraway has for the past two years presented a program of sacred hymns heard over KNOE radio station every Sunday at 2:15 p. m. and just recently has a regular TV program over KNOE-TV "Hymns by Request" each Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m. He has recorded some of the finest and best loved hymns of all time which bear a real spiritual testimony. All his friends are invited to come out to Temple Baptist Church and visit him during this revival.

Rev. Henry Grady Buchanan, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Shreveport, La., will conduct the preaching services during this revival. Rev. Buchanan and J. W. Carraway have worked together on several revivals and this should prove one of the greatest revivals ever held at Temple Baptist Church. Rev. Buchanan is considered one of the greatest tent revivalists in the south. His preaching is true and dynamic and heartwarming. He accepted the call as pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Shreveport on 1 Oct. 1940 and membership at that time was 231. Since that time membership has grown to 2500 members at the present time. He has had an average of 120 baptisms per year for the thirteen years of his pastorate at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Bible Words to Live by

PSALM 37:3-4—"Trust in the Lord, and do good... Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he will give thee the desire of thine heart."

Confidence in a benefactor's power and good will is one of the great blessings of the soul. To realize that there is a God of love and mercy is one of the comforts of the human heart that gives peace and strength.

The power of God's love "shed abroad in thy heart" creates a desire to do good works in gratitude and in the joy of sharing blessings with others.

The source of our confidence and devotion brings a holy, humble pleasure that we call delight. It is a gratification of a deep desire for the realized presence of God.

Confidence, righteous living, helpfulness for others will control the "desire of the heart" to bring it into conformity with the will of God, who will assuredly bless and grant the wishes of the soul.

Nazarenes To Conduct Fall Revival Series

The Church of the Nazarene at North Fourth and Stella Streets in West Monroe, announces their fall revival, which begins Tuesday night November 10, and continues through the 22nd with services every night at 7:30.

The workers for this meeting, Rev. Eddie and Ann Burnem are outstanding in the field of evangelism. Rev. and Mrs. Burnem of Ashland, Ky., are enjoying a successful ministry in the evangelistic field. They promote visitation evangelism. They are well known for their record - breaking Sunday-School rallies.

Rev. Burnem with his rich experience in the field of evangelism is always a blessing to both pastor and congregation. His earnest gospel preaching is a blessing to all.

Mrs. Burnem is a talented singer, and leads the choir and congregation in singing the great gospel songs. The special singing of Mrs. Burnem is inspirational, and li[fts] the audience to a new realm [of] appreciation of the gopel messa[ge] in song.

The church and its pastor exte[nd] a hearty welcome to you and yo[ur] friends to attend this reviv[al]. Each and every service will be [a] time of good singing of hymns a[nd] choruses, and a dynamic gosp[el] message, and the presence of t[he] Lord. Attend the first service.

Forensics Meet To Be Held At La. Tech Nov. 13

RUSTON, Nov. 7. (Special) Entries are now being received [by] the speech department at Loui[si]ana Tech for an inter - collegia[te] forensics tournament to be he[ld] at the college on Friday and Sa[t]urday, November 13 and 14.

"More or less a warm-up me[et] it is meant to fill a need for [an] early season forensic tourney" said Paul J. Pennington, direct[or] of forensics at Tech.

Scheduled are both debating a[nd] individual events. Miss Wilm[a] Baugh, assistant professor [of] speech said that the individu[al] events include two types — thos[e] prepared in advance of the me[et] and those prepared on short n[o]tice.

Events prepared in advance a[re] as follows: oratory, prepared [in]terpretation, extempora[ne]ous speaking, after-dinner spea[k]ing, book review, and story te[ll]ing.

Events prepared on short noti[ce] are as follows: impromptu spea[k]ing and reading from humoro[us] literature, poetry, and drama[tic] literature.

Pennington said that three tea[ms] of debaters will represent Tech [at] the meet and that Tech studen[ts] will be entered in all the individ[u]al events.

It is estimated that America[ns] spend about 19 billion dollars [a] year on travel.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Wanted: Better Church Members

RECENT statistics regarding church membership, which appear in the 1953 Year Book of American Churches, show an encouraging gain over the previous year. It's 2½ times above the nation's gain in population.

Church membership in the U. S. is at the all-time high of 92,277,129, a gain of 4.1 per cent. Of this gain Protestants represent 3.9 per cent, and Roman Catholics 3.5 per cent. The respective figures in relation to teh national population are Protestants 34.7 per cent, and Roman Catholics, 19.3 per cent.

Much thoughtful consideration, and speculative comment, could be based upon these figures.In general, it is my judgment that figures don't lie, but in large measure do indicate trends and actual conditions.

But in a matter of this sort, where personality and quality, the degree of sincerity and devotion, and other factors, enter in, it should be obvious that statistics can be only approximate standards of judgment, and may not at all represent actual strength and spiritual realities.

During the course of the years, I have been interested in the comment on this column that comes from Roman Catholic readers. I think it could be said that I am sympathetic toward all forms of sincere faith and religious experience, and that my column is confined to moral and spiritual realities, avoiding as far as possible controversial matters.

But as a Protestant minister and journalist my knowledge, observation and experience are inevitably related chiefly to the Protestant community.

It is this community of Protestant Church members that I h[ad] in mind in entitling this colum[n] "Wanted: Better Church Mem[bers]." Statistics, as I have su[g]gested, cannot indicate good qua[li]ty, or the lack of it, on the pa[rt] of the millions of individual "mem[bers]" who make up the total.

The Protestant Churches cou[ld] not be the force that they are [in] the nation if there were not [in] their fellowship great masses [of] sincere, earnest and devout Chri[s]tians who take their church mem[ber]ship seriously.

But, beyond these are many [who] give little evidence of real de[vo]tion either to Christ or the churc[h]. Many of them are actually nom[i]nal church members, whose nam[es] are on the church rolls, and w[ho] are included in church statistic[s].

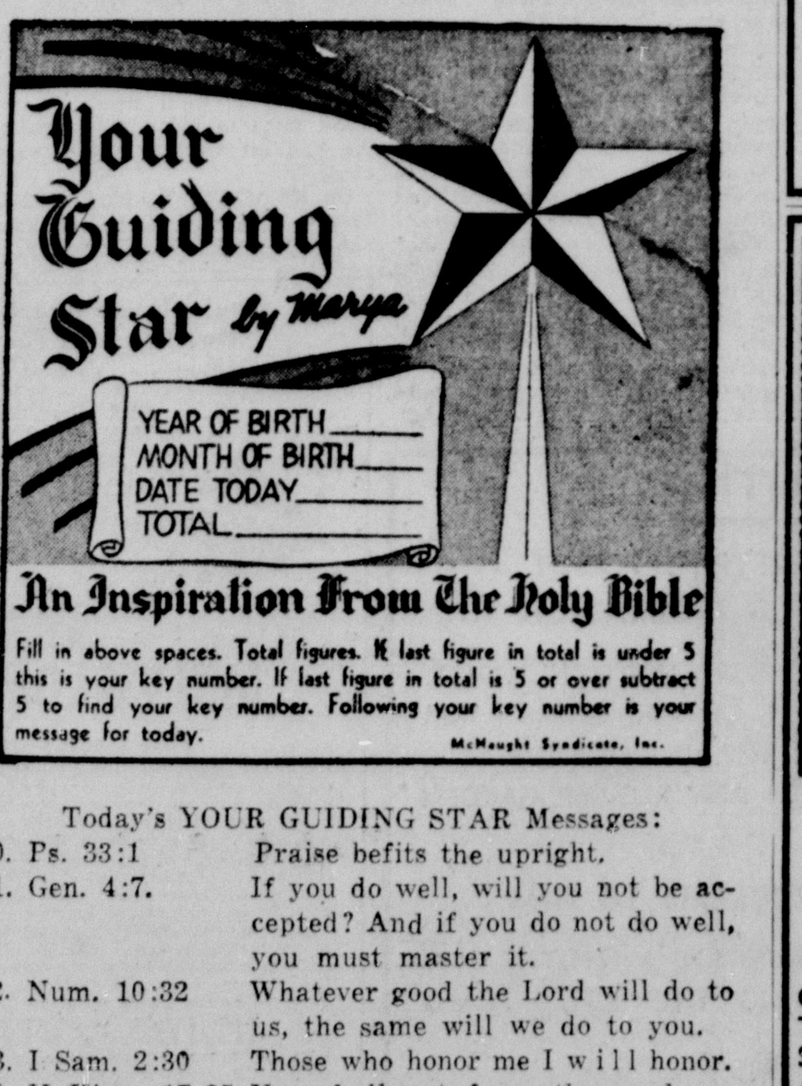
To me it seems strange th[at] anybody would join a chur[ch] without a real measure of Chri[s]tian faith, or an intention to gi[ve] the church real support, oth[er] than possible financial contrib[u]tions.

Yet, some time ago a deep[ly] devoted member of a church t[old] me of the numbers received i[n] membership who were seld[om] seen in church attendance aft[er] the day of their reception.

I suppose that some of these [be]longed to some social organizati[on], a "couples' club," a "ladies' aid" or some similar group. But that [is] hardly church membership.

I am not suggesting that such [a] situation is typical, and I hope [it] is not. But let anyone compare t[he] many crowded churches at East[er] and Christmas with the spar[se] congregations and empty pews [in] the same churches on other Su[n]days of the year!

The crying need is for bett[er] church members.



Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

3.	I Sam. 2:30	Those who honor me I will honor.

Have You A Dennis At Home?

"DENNIS" LONG

This "Dennis" Wants To Give Doc A Shot

My youngster most resembles "Dennis, the Menace" because of his uncontrollable hair, which grows forward over his face like Dennis's does. He is often called Dennis by his friends.

His actions also resemble "Dennis." I caught him just in time to keep him from drowning his puppy. He insists Santa Claus brought him to me. He spells cat (cat-a-t, not c-a-t.)

He insists he must give his doctor a shot in the "seat" because his doctor has given him so many shots during illness.

Submitted by Mrs. Audrey Long, Bonita, La.

ALLEN "AL" CLEVELAND

Antique Shop Is All Junk—Says "Dennis"

This is my little grandson whom we call "Dennis" most of the time. He lives with his mother, daddy, and little sister, Karen. They visit us quite often and Al (Allen "Al" Cleveland, Age 6) really resembles "Dennis the Menace."

Recently coming home from their vacation, my daughter stopped at an expensive antique shop and when they went in, Al looked around and said, "Gee, Mommie, look at all the junk."

He is always pretending he is some sort of animal. He perches on top of his chair and eats spaghetti, says he is a bird eating worms. He'll put food on the floor and eat it, says he is a dog, hops around and eats lettuce pretending to be a rabbit.

Last week he went to a birthday party. The people had a turkey farm. "Al" didn't play many games. He was out gathering up turkey feathers, putting them in back of his pants and pretending to be a turkey. He has just started to school. So he took the feathers with him and went in the room with all of the feathers arranged in his jeans like a turkey. The children were thrilled, the teacher had him make a speech about the feathers. This he likes to do and the children clapped. I could go on and on about our "Dennis the Menace."

Submitted by Mrs. W. F. Carson, Rt. 3, Box 161, Monroe, La.

Your own Dennis may win you a U. S. Savings Bond, just write a letter describing, as briefly as possible, why your youngster most resembles "Dennis the Menace." Send the letter, along with a photograph, to Dennis Editor, Monroe News-Star—World, Monroe, La. As many entries as possible will be published during the contest.

This contest is open to all the readers of this newspaper. Entries, which must be postmarked no later than Nov. 15th, become the property of the News-Star—World. Pictures will not be returned unless accompanied by a stamped, self addressed envelope.

"Dennis" candidates must be under seven years of age. Entries should include the full name, address and relationship of the person submitting the entry.

Entries will be judged by our Dennis Editor. (OR; Our Dennis Editor will select five semi-finalists. Grand prize winner will be selected from these by Hank Ketcham, creator of "Dennis The Menace.")

First Prize . . . $100.00 Government Savings Bond.

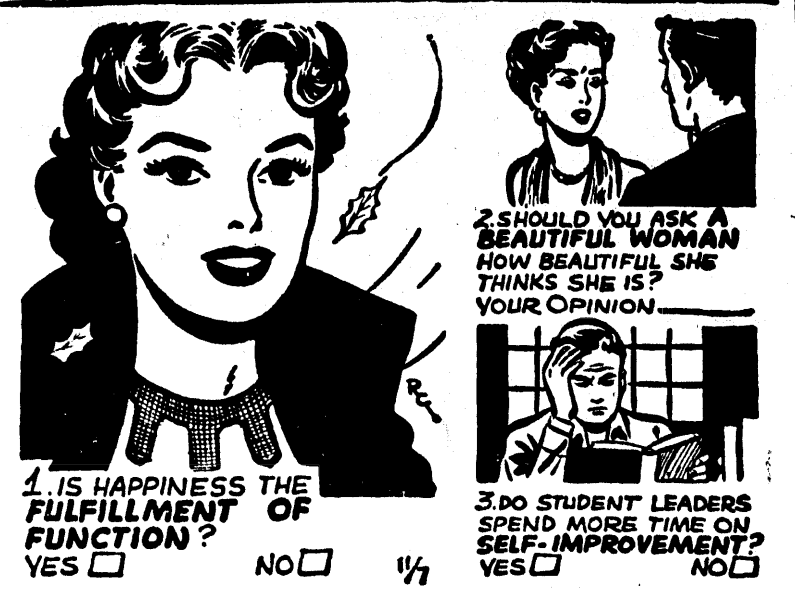
Third Prize . . . $25.00 Government Savings Bond.

The Contest Winners will be announced Nov. 29th.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. "Happiness is a state of going somewhere whole-heartedly without regret or reservation," says psychologist W. H. Sheldon Harvard University. Going somewhere, getting something done, working securely with body and mind toward some goal—these not only make for happiness, but they are happiness.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. It is better to ask her to rate the beauty of other women. If she rates them higher than other women do, she probably thinks she's not so hot. Even if she overestimates herself she still tends to rate other women higher than other women rate them. Psychologist Milton Rokeach found these indications by having 140 college women rate each other and themselves on beauty. Dr. Rokeach concluded that beautiful women probably feel secure enough in their position to be generous to other women.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. They spend less, according to a study of men students at the University of North Carolina. It showed that outstanding leaders spent 13.7 hours per week on self-improvement activities. Average leaders spent 16.1 hours, but non-leaders spent 22.? hours per week. There were exceptions. The leaders averaged somewhat younger and heavier than non-leaders.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Why not have a family exercise period? Mother and daughter may want to reduce or firm their tummies.

Try Exercise Program As Part Of Family Fun

It is always fun to do things as a family. Modern life has brought us a great many benefits but diminishing family association has been one of its losses.

Before there was a car in every garage and even in many back yards, members of the family found diversion at home. Then came the age of the car when restless youth and sometimes Mother and Father, saw no reason to stay at home when they could dash hither and thither. This has been a loss for youth as well as for adults. The rich benefits of the family about the hearthstone, or engaged in games or conversation, alone or with friends, cannot be estimated.

In those days parents knew their children and their children's friends. Today many parents have only a nodding acquaintance with their offspring, except for paying their expenses. Television has actually been of some help, in that people, young and old, stay at home more in order to see a televised play or one of their favorite programs. Of course it has not helped the art of conversation or the habit of reading. However, most adults will settle for having their children at home even if they cannot speak to them.

In order to develop family life it is most essential to make home as attractive as possible. Often just the addition of a ping - pong table or archery or horse shoe pitching game or an outdoor grill, will keep the members of the family at home more often. When one fad wears out, get another. The most important thing of all is the atmosphere of the home. No person in his right mind is going to stay at home when things are hectic and unpleasant.

Why not have a family e[xercise] period? Father and son ma[y] to develop their shoulder[s] mother and daughter ma[y] to reduce or firm their tum[mies].

Exercise is really fun wh[en] do it with others and fam[ily] is fun when you do things t[ogether] so this seems to be a natu[ral] growth; the family exercis[e]

History In The Making

This Neck Of The Woods

By EZRA ADAMS

While Benjamin Franklin was making history, the Ouachita Indians became the last of the red men to occupy Northeast Louisiana. "Aux Beoufs" became Beouf River when Messrs. Morehouse, Bastrop and Breard came to explore LaFourche and Tensas swamps and to stroll along the present Grand Street toward Layton House.

Because the entire territory from Monroe to Tallulah and from Oak Grove to Vidalia was treacherous wooded lowlands, these men and their equally enthusiastic friends traveled the Tensas, Ouachita and Black rivers, Bayou Macon, Bayou DeSiard, Black Bayou, Alligator Bayou, Joe's Bayou, Big Creek and Little Creek as they searched for Richland. In leisure time they fished, boated and picnicked on Crew, Horseshoe, Long and Cheniere Lakes—and Lake Providence.

They built places like Fort Necessity to ward off enemies of the Pioneer. To the east and to the West Monroe inhabitants went to settle and to grow food, cotton, corn and tobacco. Soon a Start was made and Farmerville grew. They had Dunn what they could to Chase the Forest from the Fairbanks of a Locust Ridge and to cause Ruston plow shares. They tried to bring about a Union of opposing forces.

Not long after James Madison assumed his post as U. S. Secretary of State, Louisiana's Delta became a part of the United States. As a result, many more settlers moved into this new territory to find a Mound, an Oak Ridge and a Holly Ridge. Between a couple of cane breaks they founded Jigger. Some of them liked to Baskin the sun while others sang Alto.

A great number helped tear away the brush to build Epps, Columbia, Clayton and Rayville. Many of them gave their names to communities, like Lydia Ogden did to Liddieville. Others were Sondheimer, Archibald, Bonita, Jones, Marion, Perryville, Jonesville, Mangham, Gilbert, Swartz, Harrisonburg, Downsville and Caldwell. To aid this gigantic clearing and building program was a Darnell Lumber Company.

At least a few of these early settlers had traveled abroad, were well read, or simply liked the sound of foreign names, for we now have Sicily Island, Delhi, St. Joseph, Alsatia and Transylvania.

A Pleasant Point to recall is that around Dubach a Warden could get his share of game, too, even if his name was Beekman. There must have been many crows in a spot called Crowville.

Did Mr. Newellton, Mr. Ferriday and Mr. Waverly exist? Did a fabulous Mr. Carroll divide his property into East Carroll and West Carroll while the James Brothers made Old Floyd a stopover between Missouri and Natchez? Who named Winnsboro? Was Concordia an Indian name?

Most settlements in this neck of the woods were begun before John C. Calhoun died in 1850. This is 1953, our state's sesquecentennial. Look at this "neck" now, Terry, in an age when it is common to see a Waterproof timepiece. What do you think?

Have You A Dennis At Home?

"DENNIS" LONG

ALLEN "AL" CLEVELAND

This "Dennis" Wants To Give Doc A Shot

My youngster most resembles "Dennis, the Menace" because of his uncontrollable hair, which grows forward over his face like Dennis's does. He is often called Dennis by his friends.

His actions also resemble "Dennis." I caught him just in time to keep him from drowning his puppy. He insists Santa Claus brought him to me. He spells cat (cat-a-t, not c-a-t.)

He insists he must give his doctor a shot in the "seat" because his doctor has given him so many shots during illness.

Antique Shop Is All Junk—Says "Dennis"

This is my little grandson whom we call "Dennis" most of the time. He lives with his mother, daddy, and little sister, Karen. They visit us quite often and Al (Allen "Al" Cleveland, Age 6) really resembles "Dennis the Menace."

Recently coming home from their vacation, my daughter stopped at an expensive antique shop and when they went in, Al looked around and said, "Gee, Mommie, look at all the junk."

He is always pretending he is some sort of animal. He perches on top of his chair and eats spaghetti, says he is a bird eating worms. He'll put food on the floor and eat it, says he is a dog, hops around and eats lettuce pretending to be a rabbit.

Last week he went to a birthday party. The people had a turkey farm. "Al" didn't play many games. He was out gathering up turkey feathers, putting them in back of his pants and pretending to be a turkey. He has just started to school. So he took the feathers with him and went in the room with all of the feathers arranged in his jeans like a turkey. The children were thrilled, the teacher had him make a speech about the feathers. This he likes to do and the children clapped. I could go on and on about our "Dennis the Menace."

Submitted by Mrs. W. F. Carson, Rt. 3, Box 161, Monroe, La.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. "Happiness is a state of going somewhere whole-heartedly without regret or reservation," says psychologist W. H. Sheldon Harvard University. Going somewhere, getting something done, working securely with body and mind toward some goal—these not only make for happiness, but they are happiness.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. It is better to ask her to rate the beauty of other women. If she rates them higher than other women do, she probably thinks she's not so hot. Even if she overestimates herself she still tends to rate other women higher than other women rate them. Psychologist Milton Rokeach found these indications by having 140 college women rate each other and themselves on beauty. Dr. Rokeach concluded that beautiful women probably feel secure enough in their position to be generous to other women.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. They spend less, according to a study of men students at the University of North Carolina. It showed that outstanding leaders spent 13.7 hours per week on self-improvement activities. Average leaders spent 16.1 hours, but non-leaders spent 22.? hours per week. There were exceptions. The leaders averaged somewhat younger and heavier than non-leaders.

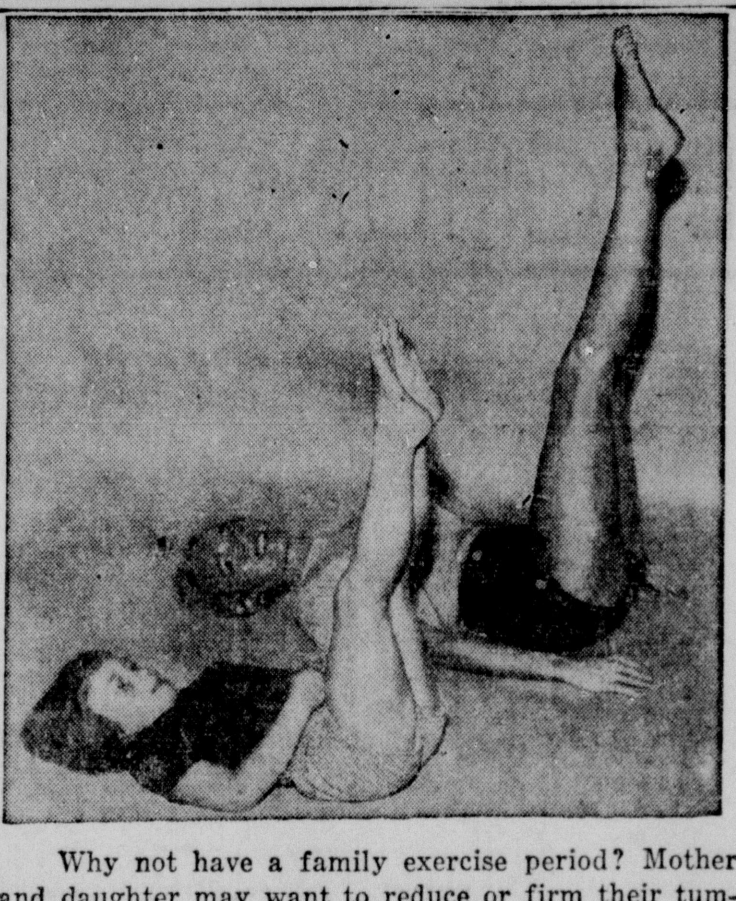
Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman



Why not have a family exercise period? Mother and daughter may want to reduce or firm their tummies.

Try Exercise Program As Part Of Family Fun

It is always fun to do things as a family. Modern life has brought us a great many benefits but diminishing family association has been one of its losses.

Before there was a car in every garage and even in many back yards, members of the family found diversion at home. Then came the age of the car when restless youth and sometimes Mother and Father, saw no reason to stay at home when they could dash hither and thither. This has been a loss for youth as well as for adults. The rich benefits of the family about the hearthstone, or engaged in games or conversation, alone or with friends, cannot be estimated.

In those days parents knew their children and their children's friends. Today many parents have only a nodding acquaintance with their offspring, except for paying their expenses. Television has actually been of some help, in that people, young and old, stay at home more in order to see a televised play or one of their favorite programs. Of course it has not helped the art of conversation or the habit of reading. However, most adults will settle for having their children at home even if they cannot speak to them.

In order to develop family life it is most essential to make home as attractive as possible. Often just the addition of a ping-pong table or archery or horse shoe pitching game or an outdoor grill, will keep the members of the family at home more often. When one fad wears out, get another. The most important thing of all is the atmosphere of the home. No person in his right mind is going to stay at home when things are hectic and unpleasant.

Why not have a family exerc[ise] period? Father and son may w[ant] to develop their shoulders w[hile] mother and daughter may w[ant] to reduce or firm their tummi[es].

History In The Making

This Neck Of The Woods

By EZRA ADAMS

While Benjamin Franklin was making history, the Ouachita Indians became the last of the red men to occupy Northeast Louisiana. "Aux Beoufs" became Beouf River when Messrs. Morehouse, Bastrop and Breard came to explore LaFourche and Tensas swamps and to stroll along the present Grand Street toward Layton House.

Because the entire territory from Monroe to Tallulah and from Oak Grove to Vidalia was treacherous wooded lowlands, these men and their equally enthusiastic friends traveled the Tensas, Ouachita and Black rivers, Bayou Macon, Bayou DeSiard, Black Bayou, Alligator Bayou, Joe's Bayou, Big Creek and Little Creek as they searched for Richland. In leisure time they fished, boated and picnicked on Crew, Horseshoe, Long and Cheniere Lakes—and Lake Providence.

They built places like Fort Necessity to ward off enemies of the Pioneer. To the east and to the West Monroe inhabitants went to settle and to grow food, cotton, corn and tobacco. Soon a Start was made and Farmerville grew. They had Dunn what they could to Chase the Forest from the Fairbanks of a Locust Ridge and to cause Ruston plow shares. They tried to bring about a Union of opposing forces.

Not long after James Madison assumed his post as U. S. Secretary of State, Louisiana's Delta became a part of the United States. As a result, many more settlers moved into this new territory to find a Mound, an Oak Ridge and a Holly Ridge. Between a couple of cane breaks they founded Jigger. Some of them liked to Baskin the sun while others sang Alto.

A great number helped tear away the brush to build Epps, Columbia, Clayton and Rayville. Many of them gave their names to communities, like Lydia Ogden did to Liddieville. Others were Sondheimer, Archibald, Bonita, Jones, Marion, Perryville, Jonesville, Mangham, Gilbert, Swartz, Harrisonburg, Downsville and Caldwell. To aid this gigantic clearing and building program was a Darnell Lumber Company.

At least a few of these early settlers had traveled abroad, were well read, or simply liked the sound of foreign names, for we now have Sicily Island, Delhi, St. Joseph, Alsatia and Transylvania.

A Pleasant Point to recall is that around Dubach a Warden could get his share of game, too, even if his name was Beekman. There must have been many crows in a spot called Crowville.

Did Mr. Newellton, Mr. Ferriday and Mr. Waverly exist? Did a fabulous Mr. Carroll divide his property into East Carroll and West Carroll while the James Brothers made Old Floyd a stopover between Missouri and Natchez? Who named Winnsboro? Was Concordia an Indian name?

Most settlements in this neck of the woods were begun before John C. Calhoun died in 1850. This is 1953, our state's sesquecentennial. Look at this "neck" now, Terry, in an age when it is common to see a Waterproof timepiece. What do you think?

THE END

*(Words in bold face include all of Northeast Louisiana's parishes and most of the section's notable communities, swamp areas and streams.)

Wyler's 'Roman Holiday' Is Gala Entertainment Event

Every day is going to be a holiday at the Paramount Theatre for some time to come, judging from the tremendous ovation that greeted their brand new attraction, "Roman Holiday," which opened here last night. Starring Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn, this Paramount film, both produced and directed by William Wyler, is a sheer delight.

Charming and captivating, "Roman Holiday" tells the deliriously wonderful story of a real live modern princess who, tired of the rigors of her royal duties, goes on a spree in Rome. She meets an enterprising newspaper reporter who is hungry for a scoop. He doesn't let on that he knows who she is and she doesn't disclose her identity, and together they go on a fling through the colorful streets of Rome.

The Princess is Audrey Hepburn and the foreign correspondent is Gregory Peck and they fall in love. Kisses, heartthrobs and laughs lightly spring along throughout "Roman Holiday's" length, and what wonderful entertainment they create! A new star has shot over the horizon in the person of Audrey Hepburn. Yesterday's audiences took her right to their hearts and rightfully so. She is a fresh new personality on the American movie scene and when you see her you will agree that she is just about the nicest thing to come along in years.

The fine script was expertly fashioned by Ian McLellan Hunter and John Dighton from Hunter's story William Wyler, long considered to be one of Hollywood's truly great filmmakers, handled both the production and direction reins in expert fashion and in "Roman Holiday," has come up with one of the truly great films of all time.

TV Embarrasses Big Movie Stars

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — HOLLYWOOD ON TV: A "Be-Kind-to-Movie - Stars-on-Television" campaign better be launched quick before movietown becomes the land of fallen idols.

Movie kings and queens have been dethroned recently with shocking regularity, most of them, strangely enough, on a produced-in-Hollywood show, NBC's Comedy Hour.

Whether it is a TV plot to send celluloid personalities to the salt mines, the refusal of stars to take the home screens seriously, a run of bad luck, or just sloppy writing, directing and producing, are questions with no answers.

But it's obvious that careers can't be ruined for the sake of picture plugs. Exhibit A was Ava Gardner with bags under her eyes and hair combed with a garden rake on "What's My Line?" Exhibit B was luscious Elaine Stewart, caught with a gooey omelette on her face, gushing about MGM films in an awkward situation with Donald O'Connor.

Giving Burt, John and Lauren comedy lines — they've always shined as dramatic emoters—was stupid reasoning that could have been excused if the dialog and situations sparkled. But they were dull as old pewter and as corny as Kansas in July.

The label "Movie Star" may be impressive to TV and a delight to a sponsor. But there's nothing more ridiculous than a movie star caught with his talents down.

Here's the Facts, Ma'am

This is the city, but Sgt. Joe Friday's girl friend isn't living here any more. In a surprise move, pretty actress Dorothy Towne is moving to Mexico City despite reports of a big romance with Dragnet's Jack Webb, who is being sued for divorce by Julie London.

"Let's say I had a little romantic interlude and now it's over," says the blonde former Dallas model who met Webb while working as an extra on his show.

As she explained it:

"Jack said it was better this way. After all, he's a married man. My connection with him?—well, he's my boss and he's been a very good boss. He's a nice man. But he's a married man. I can't say anything."

But tongue waggers still insist she'll be Mrs. Jack Webb, II. She sighs: "He's a genius."

Gable Starring With Gardner In 'Mogambo' Film

MOGAMBO STARS — Clark Gable and Ava Gardner portray the safari boss and jungle stranded night club singer who experience romance and thrills on an expedition to trap rhinoceros and gorillas in "Magambo," M-G-M's suspense - packed technicolor drama coming soon to the Jim Theatre. The new picture was filmed on location in Africa by academy award-winning Director John Ford.

To film this extraordinary story of a safari boss who becomes involved in an explosive romantic triangle while on a perilous jungle expedition, M-G-M outfitted the largest safari Africa has ever known.

For the first time, a motion picture camera has filmed the primitive Samburu natives of Africa's Northern Frontier. For the first time, the Wagenia tribesmen of the Belgian Congo have been photographed carrying their canoes through the raging torrents of the Kagera River. And also for the first time, two entire families of wild gorillas were cornered and contained for several weeks in a remote region of French Equatorial Africa while the most remarkable animal scenes ever filmed were accomplished.

Grace Kelly, who won the lead opposite Gary Cooper in "High Noon" after only one previous film appearance, plays the "other woman" in the story's romantic triangle, with the supporting cast featuring Donald Sinden, Philip Stainton and Eric Pohlmann, together with thousands of natives.

To direct and produce "Mogambo" M-G-M selected two of the most experienced craftsmen in Hollywood. John Ford, winner of his fourth Academy Award for "The Quiet Man," directed. His previous awards were for "The Informer," "Grapes of Wrath" and "How Green Was My Valley."

SAMMY KAYE

Sammy Kaye To Bring Top Show To Monroe Area

Only 12 more days until the North Monroe Lions Club will present the "swing and sway" man, Sammy Kaye, his orchestra and show at the Neville Auditorium Nov. 18.

Besides from the "So you want to lead a band" feature, in which four people from the audience will be called upon to lead the famous band, Kaye will provide the tops in the entertainment world.

Two of the four people selected from the audience to lead the famous band will be men and two will be women. "So you want to lead a band," is one of the greatest novelty stunts that ever graced an orchestra. Most people at one time or another have had a secret desire to lead a band. The four contestants which are picked will be called upon the stage and each one will be interviewed. After each contestant has conducted the band, Kaye will reintroduce each one and ask for the audience's reaction. The one receiving the most applause is adjudged the winner and will receive a prize.

Kaye is an excellent ad-lib artist and is quick to take advantage of any humorous occasion. Along with being a favorite band leader, Sammy is an enthusiastic golf player.

Hailed as one of the perfect bands for dancing, Sammy Kaye has proven through the years that his is also the ideal listening combination. Kaye is the only recording artist in history to have three of his recordings listed among the top ten best sellers. They were "It Ain't Fair," "Roses" and "Wanderin,". His version of "Daddy" is one of the all time national best - sellers. In the annual disc jockey poll of the show business, Kaye, this year, walked off far ahead of other maestros as the favorite sweet band in the nation.

Tickets are now available at Capitol Stores and at Dew Music Company. The tickets will be sold on a "first come," basis, and the club advises all interested to make reservations at the earliest possible time.

Wyler's 'Roman Holiday' Is Gala Entertainment Event

Every day is going to be a holiday at the Paramount Theatre for some time to come, judging from the tremendous ovation that greeted their brand new attraction, "Roman Holiday," which opened here last night. Starring Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn, this Paramount film, both produced and directed by William Wyler, is a sheer delight.

Charming and captivating, "Roman Holiday" tells the deliriously wonderful story of a real live modern princess who, tired of the rigors of her royal duties, goes on a spree in Rome. She meets an enterprising newspaper reporter who is hungry for a scoop. He doesn't let on that he knows who she is and she doesn't disclose her identity, and together they go on a fling through the colorful streets of Rome.

The Princess is Audrey Hepburn and the foreign correspondent is Gregory Peck and they fall in love. Kisses, heartthrobs and laughs lightly spring along throughout "Roman Holiday's" length, and what wonderful entertainment they create! A new star has shot over the horizon in the person of Audrey Hepburn. Yesterday's audiences took her right to their hearts and rightfully so. She is a fresh new personality on the American movie scene and when you see her you will agree that she is just about the nicest thing to come along in years.

The fine script was expertly fashioned by Ian McLellan Hunter and John Dighton from Hunter's story. William Wyler, long considered to be one of Hollywood's truly great filmmakers, handled both the production and direction reins in expert fashion and in "Roman Holiday," has come up with one of the truly great films of all time.

TV Embarrasses Big Movie Stars

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — HOLLYWOOD ON TV: A "Be-Kind-to-Movie-Stars-on-Television" campaign better be launched quick before movietown becomes the land of fallen idols.

Whether it is a TV plot to send celluloid personalities to the salt mines, the refusal of stars to take the home screens seriously, a run of bad luck, or just sloppy writing, directing and producing, are questions with no answers.

But it's obvious that careers can't be ruined for the sake of picture plugs. Exhibit A was Ava Gardner with bags under her eyes and hair combed with a garden rake on "What's My Line?" Exhibit B was luscious Elaine Stewart, caught with a gooey omelette on her face, gushing about MGM films in an awkward situation with Donald O'Connor.

Giving Burt, John and Lauren comedy lines — they've always shined as dramatic emoters—was stupid reasoning that could have been excused if the dialog and situations sparkled. But they were dull as old pewter and as corny as Kansas in July.

The label "Movie Star" may be impressive to TV and a delight to a sponsor. But there's nothing more ridiculous than a movie star caught with his talents down.

Here's the Facts, Ma'am

This is the city, but Sgt. Joe Friday's girl friend isn't living here any more. In a surprise move, pretty actress Dorothy Towne is moving to Mexico City despite reports of a big romance with Dragnet's Jack Webb, who is being sued for divorce by Julie London.

"Let's say I had a little romantic interlude and now it's over," says the blonde former Dallas model who met Webb while working as an extra on his show.

As she explained it:

"Jack said it was better this way. After all, he's a married man. My connection with him?—well, he's my boss and he's been a very good boss. He's a nice man. But he's a married man. I can't say anything."

But tongue waggers still insist she'll be Mrs. Jack Webb, II. She sighs: "He's a genius."

W. Monroe's First High School Among Biggest

Climaxing many years of effort and wishfulness, the formal opening of West Monroe's new high school marks one of the outstanding milestones in the steady and evident progress of West Monroe.

Without school facilities, no city can reach the high laurels of economic and cultural success that is a primary must in the development of any city. Until this year West Monroe lagged sorely behind in facilities.

Until the opening of the West Monroe High School, West Monroe did not have a single public high school. Through that thriving city was lacking high school facilities, the shortcoming was never overlooked by its forward looking citizens nor public officials.

Prior to the establishment of the new high school, one of the largest and most elaborate in the state, students living west of the Ouachita River had no choice but to cross the river to Monroe in order to attend high school.

Practically all West Monroe students who attended high school went to to Ouachita Parish High School on South Grand Street in Monroe.

West Monroe graduates of OPHS will look back with pride and admiration for Ouachita but at the same time they are proud their own children will be able to attend high school in their home town—West Monroe.

The idea of a West Monroe High School has been promoted for many years. Early, many, many years before the school actually came to being, E. S. Eby agitated for a high school west of the river. Eby, a former member of the Ouachita Parish School Board and a veteran member of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club, represents some of the early thinking toward the school.

Of a later era, back in the 1940's, Robert C. Ervin and Charles G. Wall, Jr. pressed the West Monroe High School idea. Their persistence was reflected in supporting action by the West Monroe Lions Club. And Wall saw the idea to a successful fulfillment through his efforts as a member of the parish school board. Ed Hislop, Jr., another active advocate of West Monroe progress and a member of the school board, helped push the school into being.

Funds to finance the construction of the new hhigh school came with the voters' approval of a $5,000,000 school bond issue. Of course not all this amount went into the West Monroe High School but for a parish-wide school program which also provided the construction of several elementary schools in the parish system.

The new high school cost something less than $2,000,000 of the overall bonded expenditure. The bond issue was approved by a substantial majority because taxpayers, not only in West Monroe but all over Ouachita Parish, realized the need for expanded school facilities.

Efforts have already been made to have the new high school fully accredited and recognized as one of the top educational facilities, in the high school class, in the state. Since the school opened last September, lengthy reports have already been submitted to the State Department of Education.

There is confident hope that the new school will receive the highest recognition. Staffed by an efficient teaching staff of 53 members headed by Principal P. B. Mangum, success looms ahead for the new school.

Principal And Staff Of West Monroe High Give School Splendid Start

Mr. Mangum came to West Monroe from the Delhi High School where he had been principal for 10 years. Prior to that time he had been principal in Friendship, La., and Briceland.

West Monroe High's new principal received his bachelor of science degree from Centenary College in Shreveport and his master's degree from Louisiana State University.

He is a native of Castor, La., and received his grammar and high school education there. He is married to the former Myrtie Bolton, of Bienville, La., and they have four children. Their oldest son, George, is a junior at Louisiana Tech and a member of the Tech football team. Another son is a student at West Monroe High School and the oldest girl is enrolled at Crosley Grammar School. The Mangums also have a five-month-old daughter, Felicia.

Mr. Mangum is a member of the West Monroe Lions Club and the McGuire Methodist Church.

Mr. Mangum was highly recommended for the principalship of West Monroe's magnificent new high school. Since coming to the institution here he has won acclaim for his accomplishment in getting such a large and completely modern educational establishment working so smoothly in such a short time. Not only has the principal won general approval from the great body of students attending that school for the first time, but his relations with parents, teachers and the public have been declared to be of extraordinarily high quality. His cordiality, understanding and excellent capabilities apparently have started the splendid new institution to functioning without a hitch.

Merchants Say 'Welcome' To New High School

In addition to their sincere appreciation of having a high school west of the Ouachita river, West Monroe merchants are also eyeing the economic value of having their city domicile one of the largest high schools in the state.

Offering a wide variety of needs that come with such a school, West Monroe merchants are aware that the new school will mean new business from many angles. Though school children are generally considered to be low spenders their presence in West Monroe will add in many ways to the economy of West Monroe.

One merchant, one of the most ardent supporters of the new high school, declared recently that "we are proud to have our west Ouachita parish children attend high school in West Monroe.

"We feel that West Monroe is their town and now that they may attend high school here gives them a better chance to get to know their home town better."

Prior to the establishment of the West Monroe High School, children west of the river in Ouachita parish were compelled to attend Ouachita Parish High School in Monroe. West side merchants have always eyed that situation with regret that West Monroe had no school of her own.

Though West Monroe is the smaller of the Twin Cities, pride there is far from being overshadowed by the "skycrapers" over the river.

Norwegian mine sweepers have brought ashore and rendered harmless a total of 8,825 mines since the end of the war.

Latest In Equipment Fitted In New School

When the new West Monroe High School opened in September, the very latest in equipment was being used in order that its students may receive the best in education. A trip through the building will bring this fact out even more vividly than any story or group of pictures.

But whether a person is interested in the laboratory or the home economics equipment, most of the various types will appeal to the general public.

Those interested in home making can view the up-to-date kitchens. And for the persons who look to the sciences the physics and chemistry laboratories, there is another story of their own.

But for the average person, who is looking for the modern, the newest in equipment, perhaps the intercommunication system would probably catch the eye and interest.

With the main machine in the office of Principal P. B. Mangum, the system gives direct communication with every classroom and laboratory in the building. a small switch can make one room at one end of the two-block long building speaking distance from a room at the other end.

Amplifiers are located in the auditorium and gymnasium, which make it possible for the announcements or programs, as the case may be, to eminate from one of those points instead of the office. During homeroom period each morning, general announcements are made or inquiries can be directed to and from the office.

And, if this is not enough in the lastest of equipment, through manipulation of the machine can make available radio program to any of the classrooms and, at the same time, records to the music or drama departments.

Also available for the education of students in the new high school are television sets which will be put into use later this year, Mangum said.

Wholesale Price On 'Gas' Is Cut

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (UP) —Six major oil companies trimmed their wholesale gasoline prices by an average of ¼ of a cent a gallon in the eastern marketing territory.

Several companies, in announcing the cuts, said they would not apply to areas "where prices are already depressed." This apparently was a reference to communities where price wars have been under way in recent months.

hen the Black Ball Line established the first regular sailings ss the Atlantic in 1818, the age time on the eastward journey was 24 days and on the return trip, 38 days.

The type of boomerang which returns to the owner was used mostly as a plaything although birds were sometimes killed with it and the weapon often could prove dangerous to the user.

Latest In Equipment Fitted In New School

When the new West Monroe High School opened in September, the very latest in equipment was being used in order that its students may receive the best in education. A trip through the building will bring this fact out even more vividly than any story or group of pictures.

But whether a person is interested in the laboratory or the home economics equipment, most of the various types will appeal to the general public.

Those interested in home making can view the up-to-date kitchens. And for the persons who look to the sciences the physics and chemistry laboratories, there is another story of their own.

But for the average person, who is looking for the modern, the newest in equipment, perhaps the intercommunication system would probably catch the eye and interest.

With the main machine in the office of Principal P. B. Mangum, the system gives direct communication with every classroom and laboratory in the building. a small switch can make one room at one end of the two-block long building speaking distance from a room at the other end.

Amplifiers are located in the auditorium and gymnasium, which make it possible for the announcements or programs, as the case may be, to eminate from one of those points instead of the office. During homeroom period each morning, general announcements are made or inquiries can be directed to and from the office.

And, if this is not enough in the lastest of equipment, through manipulation of the machine can make available radio program to any of the classrooms and, at the same time, records to the music or drama departments.

Also available for the education of students in the new high school are television sets which will be put into use later this year, Mangum said.

Miners Entombed

BONANZA, Utah, Nov. 7 —UP— A Utah official said Friday night it might be "months" before the bodies of eight miners, sealed at their stations by an explosion in the world's largest gilsonite mine, could be recovered.

Wholesale Price On 'Gas' Is Cut

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) —Six major oil companies trimmed their wholesale gasoline prices by an average of ¼ of a cent a gallon in the eastern marketing territory.

Several companies, in announcing the cuts, said they would not apply to areas "where prices are already depressed." This apparently was a reference to communities where price wars have been under way in recent months.

About three-fourths of the shore of the Dead Sea is in Jordan territory, the remainder in Israel.

New School To Be Fully Accredited By January 1

West Monroe high school, which will be dedicated today, is expected by school officials to become a fully accredited high school on the rolls of the Louisiana State Department of Education and the Southern Association of College and Secondary Schools before Jan. 1, P. B. Mangum, principal, reports.

Formal application has been made for both types of accreditation. Approval by the State Department of Education is necessary before state high school diplomas can be issued to graduates.

Among the values of membership in the Southern Association is that member colleges recognize the diplomas of member high schools, which generally eliminates difficulties of students being admitted.

Another advantage is that school officials throughout the nation know the requirements for membership in such an accrediting group, and consequently know that the member school has met the requirements as to faculty preparation and qualifications, physical plant facilities, and curricula.

Under Louisiana school laws, teachers must hold bachelor's degrees to be granted teachers' certificates of a permanent type. Mangum has reported that all teachers of academic subjects at the new West Monroe high school have B.A. or higher degrees.

Both the State Department of Education and the Southern Association have a list of requirements that the schools must meet for approval. Louisiana school accreditation is under the direction of J. B. Robertson, director of elementary and secondary education in the State Department, and Raphael Teagle, state high school supervisor. Both have made recent, unofficial visits to the new West Monroe high school, Mangum said.

Mangum stated that these two men will be responsible for the appointment of a committee of State Department personnel to investigate the application of the West Monroe school, and pass on its application, under their direction.

Dr. Howard Turner, professor of education at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, is chairman of the Louisiana committee of the Southern Association. membership will be granted by this agency on the basis of the application by the school officials. Later, after membership is granted, an evaluating committee will visit the school and check all phases of its plant and activities.

The Louisiana Department of Education visiting committee is expected to inspect the local school later this month, or early in December, Mangum said.

He reported that West Monroe high school faculty members will begin preparation for evaluation by the Southern Association next January.

Member schools must do preliminary work that amounts to "self-evaluation" which takes considerable time. The school faculty must submit its philosophy of education, mark numerous check-lists covering various departments, and give "weighted" answers so as to indicate comparison among several analysis that describe a school situation.

A comprehensive report is submitted, covering school plant facilities, curricula, library facilities, teacher experience, qualification, age, etc.

After these self-evaluativ activities are completed, a committee of members designated by officials of the Southern Association will visit the school for one or two days, and examine the school. Committee members then make statements in a general assembly of the faculty as to their findings, and later a written report is submitted to the school by the Southern Association.

But these activities will all follow Southern Association accreditation, which, as Mangum stated, is expected to come before the enl of the calendar year.

West Monroe high school now has 55 teachers, mcluding those teaching the Eighth grade. Approximately 1353 pupils are enrolled, with almost exactly 1,000 being in the high school division. This makes West Monroe rank among the top ten Louisiana high schools in enrollment.

Hmm-- you saw it all happen, yourself, Ted.
Seems impossible-- yet I did see it. Wonder if it'd work on me. I doubt it--
Not completely convinced yet, Ted? Come over here--
Mandrake gestures hypnotically-- a caged lion seems to appear--
Huh--I didn't know--you had a lion--here!

Migosh! It worked! He's afraid of me!
